MILLIONAIRES' HOMES BOMBARDED.

Solid Shot and Dynamite Used in Futile Efforts to Check Flames By Destroying Buildings—Portions of San Francisco Hitherto Not Touched Now Burning—Thousands Starving.

By the Associated Press.—P.M.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—At 11:30 o'clock last night, the flames were slowly but steadily moving on to the sections of the city still untouched. The sky in all directions presented a lurid picture. The strongest fire tonight seemed to be in the western end of the city, while the volume of flame in the Mission district would indicate that the conflagration was less severe than during the day.

DYNAMTING OF NO AVAIL.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19--All efforts to check the spread of the flames at Van Ness avenue by blowing up a mile of buildings on the east side of Van Ness avenue have proved fruitless. The fire has spread across the broad thoroughfare, and from present indications the entire western addition, which contains the homes of San Francisco's millionaires and people of the wealthier class, is now doomed. The destruction of the western addition of the city practically completes the work of the ravaging flames and marks the devastation of the entire city.

IN NEED OF FOOD.

OAKLAND, April 19.--(Exclusive Dispatch.) There is great need of food in both Oakland and Alameda. Every bit of bread was consumed last night, and restaurants in both cities closed their doors before breakfast time.

Such bread as can be had in San Francisco commands $1 a loaf. Intense suffering from lack of drinking water prevails.

Refugees from San Francisco continued to pour into Oakland until a late hour last night.

THE NATION'S SYMPATHY.

The immense sum of $2,525,000 has so far been reported as subscribed from all quarters of the United States to the sufferers' fund.

A Washington special to The Times says that, taking time by the forelock, disdaining to wait until the Senate should meet at noon, six or eight of the wealthiest members of the United States Senate today pledged to Secretary Taft their private fortunes to defray any expense of the work of relief, which, through any slip, might not be covered by an appropriation by Congress.

The names of all the Senators who sprang to the front in this patriotic move to speed the work of relief are not disclosed by Senator Perkins, but include his colleague, Senator Flint of California, Senators Aldrich, Hale, Allison, Platt, Newlands and other leading members of the Finance and Appropriations Committees.

LOSSES OF LIFE AND PROPERTY.

Chief of Police Dinan thinks the loss of life will not exceed 250, but no accurate estimate is obtainable. Names of less than one hundred dead are known. The property loss is reckoned at double former figures.

THE CITY DESOLATE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—San Francisco tonight is the City Desolate.

It seemed that the acme of its misery was reached at dusk, when flames burst from all sides of the beautiful Hotel Fairmont, the palace that, above every structure, was apparently most strongly entrenched against the attack of all-consuming fire. And surrounding the lofty pinnacle of flame, as far as the eyes could see to the south, to the east, and far out to the west, lay in cruel fantastic heaps, charred and smoking, all that remains of a prosperous city.

The metropolis of the Western Slope was in ashes.

DAY OF UNEVEN STRUGGLES.

This has been another day of an uneven struggle, of man against unconquerable elements of nature.

Acre after acre has been ground into dust and ashes, despite the heroic perseverance of the firemen to limit the conflagration.

Tonight there is hope that the worst has been nearly reached, and that when tomorrow dawns, the end will have come, but the hope is faint, indeed.

If the flames can be barred in their devastation of the western addition, then "Finis" will be written to the great disaster.

STILL NOT DISCOURAGED.

But San Francisco is not discouraged. Its best and high...

POPULACE FLEES FROM ROARING FURNACE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Thousands upon thousands of people fled from the fire today.

They are flocking to the ferries, to the parks, to the military reservation and to the suburbs.

Residents of the hillsides, in the central portion of the city, seemingly were safe from the roaring furnace that was consuming the business section. They watched the towering mounds of flame and speculated as to the extent of the territory that was doomed.

Suddenly, there was whispered alarm up and down the long line of watchers, and they hurried away to drag clothing, cooking utensils and scant provisions through the streets.

From Grant avenue, the procession moved westward. Men and women dragged trunks packed with huge bundles of blankets, boxes of provisions—everything. Wagons could not be hired, except by paying the most extortionate rates.

STUNNED INTO CALMNESS.

But there is no panic. The people are calm, stunned. They seem not to realize the extent of the calamity. They h ar that the city is destroyed in so far as business plants are concerned; they tell each other in the most natural tone that three-fourths of the residences have been consumed by the flames, but there is no hysteria, no outcry, no criticism.

Mayor Schmitz and Chief of Police Dinan have been forced from place to place by the onrushing flames. Daybreak found them directing the Municipal Council, which is a committee of safety, from the Fairmont Hotel, the beautiful structure that stood on the top of Nob Hill. But that caught fire, and they retreated to the curbing at Larkin and Sutter streets; then to the north-end police station in Sacramento street.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Here the council, composed of the financial leaders of the city, met this morning and decided to resort to the most heroic measures yet undertaken since the city has been in the path of the devastation.

TO BOMBARD SIXTEEN BLOCKS.

This decision was to bombard the entire section of the city lying along the east side of Van Ness avenue from Golden Gate avenue to Pacific avenue, sixteen blocks in all, containing the homes of many millionaires and apartment houses.

BARRELS OF GUNPOWDER.

The military was notified of this action, and barrels of gunpowder, the only remaining explosive in the city, were taken from the Presidio, Fort McDowell, Alcatraz and other near-by posts. Hundreds of police, regiments of soldiers and scores of volunteers were sent into the doomed district to warn the people to flee. These stoically responded to the demand of the law, and went bravely on their way, trudging painfully over the pavements with the little they could get together. Every available wagon was taken by the military to carry the powder.

GEN. FUNSTON CO-OPERATES.

Gen. Funston is co-operating with Mayor Schmitz, whose orders to all officers are to kill, without warning, all malefactors. When men have been needed to carry out the plans of rescue, they have been pressed into the service. In only a few instances was it necessary to resort to the cocked revolver and drawn sword, after which there was no hesitancy.

LIKE VAST PICNIC GROUND.

The Presidio reservation, the vast Richmond district of thousands of acres, Golden Gate Park and the surrounding hills resemble one vast picnic ground. Tents and improvised coverings have been erected everywhere; fireplaces built in the streets, beds and mattresses thrown down all over the section. The people thus situated are philosophical.

FOOD SUPPLY.

There is only one danger, and that is that the food supply will run out. Every grocery in San Francisco has been taken by the authorities, and each family is being sold only one article at a time. In many places the police and military prohibit overcharging.

Gen. Funston this morning announced that rations would soon reach the city, and then the people will be supplied from the Presidio. Bakeries have already been built within the reservation, and the bread supply therefore has not failed completely.

TRANSPORTING THE PEOPLE.

The government also has begun to aid in transporting the people out of the city to Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda. Tugboats and steamers are being pressed into service for this purpose, and there is a vast army on the way to the ferries.

From the water front, the burned city can be seen today

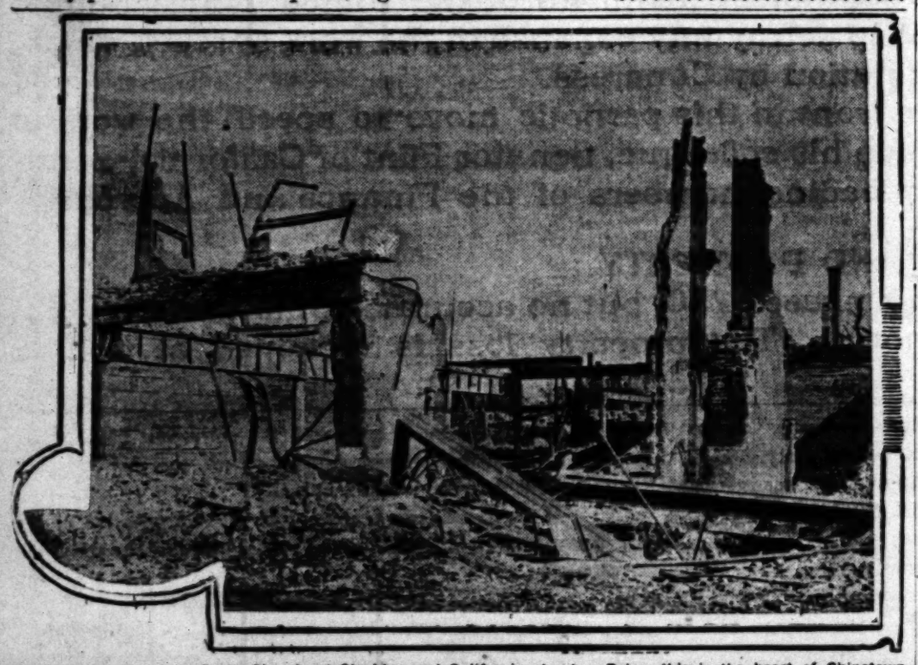
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—To the south, in hundreds of blocks, hardly a building remained whole, and notable among these are the new postoffice and the mint. The latter escaped almost unscathed on account of its isolated environment and peculiarly fireproof construction, but the force of the rending power of the earthquake could be seen in the cracked walls of the postoffice.



All that remains of the Grace Church, at Stockton and California streets. Below this is the heart of Chinatown.

OPERA STARS ARE MISSING.

Eames, Sembrich and Caruso May Have Perished in San Francisco.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—[Exclusuve Dispatch.] Hard luck has overtaken the famous Conried Opera company. Stranded in San Francisco are 265 members of the company. They are without money or their belongings.

Nahan Franko, musical director, is in Oakland, but Mmes. Eames and Sembrich, and Caruso and others of the famous company of stars are missing. Franko hopes they have been taken charge of by some one in San Francisco, but has no information whatever concerning their whereabouts.

The company lost all its musical instruments except the violins, valued at $12,000, which Franko saved by making seven flying trips to the top of the Palace Hotel while it was in flames, besides all trunks, wearing apparel, etc.

Franko is now endeavoring to arrange in some manner for passage to New York for his people.

QUAKE RECORDED NEAR FLORENCE.

REPEATED AND HEAVY SHOCKS DAMAGED INSTRUMENTS.

Director of Observatory There Reckoned That Temblor Had Taken Place at Distance of 8700 Kilometers—Condition of Vesuvius Steadily More Reassuring.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILAN, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The earthquake at San Francisco was recorded at 2 o'clock yesterday afternon by the seismatic instruments at the astromonical observatory near Florence. Some of the instruments were damaged by reason of the violent and repeated shocks. The director of the observatory reckoned that the earthquake had taken place at a distance of 8700 kilometers.

VESUVIUS REASSURES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NAPLES April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The condition of Vesuvius becomes steadily more reassuring. The exploslons are fewer and less lava is being emitted. Troops are still hard at work clearing away the débris and tearing down ruined buildings. Rain is now threatening. It is feared that a rainfall will result in further property loss through floods, many water courses now dry being completely dammed with ashes and lava.

KAISER CONTRIBUTES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Kaiser has contributed $2500 to a German fund for the relief of the sufferers from the eruption of Vesuvius. The German Ambassador at Rome has sent an official letter to the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs expressing the sympthy of the government at the disaster.

PROF. CURIE IS KILLED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, April 19.—Prof. Curie, the discoverer of radium, was run over and killed by a wagon on the Place Dauphine today.

ALL BOSTON and New England people who are in San Francisco or anywhere in the territory affected by the great calamity are urged to notify their friends in the East of their safety and present address through the Boston Globe.

BEDDING AND FOOD ASKED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Mayor Schmitz has appealed to all California cities for food and bedding.

Rations for 200,000 are being sent from Seattle and Vancouver.

Tents and medical supplies are coming from the military post at Monterey.

checked, but the pitiless flames swept on and on, even to the very walls of St. Bridget's Church.

WASHINGTON PARK CROWDED.

Washington Park is crowded with women and children who have settled there for the night. Tomorrow morning, they will be moved to a new camp at Golden Gate Park. Dense crowds are located on Cross Hill, and in the cemeteries. Each ferry leaving the foot of Market street, carries its full limit of passengers bound for Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. These ferries have a capacity of over three thousand passengers each.

OAKLAND'S HOSPITAL TENTS.

Hospital tents have been erected in the yards of the Oakland City buildings, and are filled with refugees taken ill after crossing the bay. Hopkins Institute is now in flames.

Mrs. Stanford's home is destroyed.

The Southern Pacific is giving free transportation to all unable to buy tickets to outside points.

Vast crowds of refugees are huddled around the freight depot of the North Shore Railway.

CONCERN IN ROME.

ROME, April 19.—The news of the earthquake in San Francisco and its vicinity, caused a great deal of sorrow here. Many Americans hurried to the embassy, consulate and the office of the Associated Press, fearing for the safety of their relatives or property. It is estimated that there are over 2000 Californians now visiting Italy.

WHARF RATS CLEAN CARS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Before the fire Armour & Co. had a large number of refrigerator cars full of provisions of various sorts standing on the tracks at the wharves. When it became evident that these could not be saved a flock of "wharf rats" and hoodlums were permitted to go in and take everything they wanted. A wild scramble ensued, men and boys fighting desperately for the food. In a few moments the cars were empty.

FIGHT FOR BREAD CAUSES PANIC.

POLICE TAKE POSSESSION OF BAKERY AFTER RIOT.

Harriman Leaves New York on Special Train and Will Take Charge of Railroad Situation Upon His Arrival — Water Obtained in Central Fire District.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—There is a great shortage of the bread supply in the city. This afternoon a panic occurred at the California-street bakery. The police took possession of the premises, and it will be operated under municipal control. At this place, men battled with women and children in their efforts to each seize four and five loaves of bread. The police used their clubs for the purpose of bringing about an equable distribution of the loaves.

E. H. Harriman, president of the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific railroads, has telegraphed that he had left New York for San Francisco on a special train and that he would take charge here immediately upon his arrival. The headquarters of the company will be established at Oakland temporarily.

GET WATER AT LAST.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock water was obtained in the central fire district, to the great joy of the firemen, and it was then thought that there was a good fighting chance to check the flames on the eastern side of Van Ness avenue. At 10 o'clock this morning, the fire had reached Van Ness and Sutter.

The big power house at Sutter and Polk streets was dynamited and this somewhat stayed the progress of the fire, but it swept across the street and the McNutt Hospital was then blown up. Then the big St. Dunstan apartment house was demolished with explosives.

While the firemen were fighting with dynamite, the steeple of St. Mary's Cathedral, a Roman Catholic edifice which had withstood the earthquake shock, caught fire. A fireman with a hose tied to his belt scaled the steeple and played a stream on the burning section and the blaze was extinguished. Thousands of people cheered the heoric deed and the handsome building was saved.

SALT WATER IN HOSE.

At 9 o'clock tonight the fire on the easterly slope of Nob Hill was eating its way toward Telegraph Hill. A stream of salt water was being pumped from the bay through hose one mile in length to stay the progress of the conflagration but it seemed that North Beach, like the greater portion of the city, was doomed to destruction.

William F. Herrin of the Southern Pacific company said tonight that in San José a large number of buildings had been demolished but the city as a whole was in good condition.

FLEES FROM FURNACE.

in all its smoky nakedness. From the Pacific Mail dock to Vallejo street, on the west side, a distance of two miles, wreckage and ruin is the rule. Although the fire did not jump East street, the damage has been enormous.

The filled-in land facing the Ferry Building is a succession of little valleys, some four, others six feet deep. The Ferry tower itself is out of plumb, and the big building is badly twisted by the earthquake.

SMOULDERING RUINS.

Looking up Market street, the city is a smouldering mass of ruins. Great mercantile houses, manufactories, banks, railroad and office buildings are nowhere to be seen, and only in spots is there so much as a tower, the monument of the burning structure.

DAY BRIGHT AND WARM.

The day is bright and warm. The sun is beating down on the tired workers and rescuers. There is scarcely any water to relieve the thirst of the suffering. The heat is threatening danger, for the dead, in many instances, are lying in the streets and ruins. The authorities are doing all in their power to remove bodies in order that a pestilence may be prevented.

MOVING THE INJURED.

It has been necessary repeatedly to move the injured from places where they had sought refuge, for the fire kept increasing with alarming rapidity. Water is the incessant cry of the firemen and the people—the former want it to fight with, the latter to drink—but there is only a scant drinking supply.

NO BAY TOWN ESCAPES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch] Not a town around San Francisco Bay has escaped damage by earthquake. At Redwood City, all business buildings are in ruins. The new Carnegie Library is totally destroyed.

At Alameda, the terra cotta and sewer plant of Clark & Sons is in ruins. The huge chimney caved in, crushing the machinery beneath. The employese had several narrow secapes from death as a result of the earthquake. The east side boulevard, all along east of Lake Merrit, has sunk beneath the water.

One man taken from Hotel Rose at Santa Rosa this morning had his clothing cut clear down one side, and a deep flesh wound from a blow of an ax in the hands of a rescuer.

Berkeley's houses are almost chimneyless this morning. No buildings have collapsed, but several are badly cracked. All the books in the University library were thrown from the shelves. Many residents of Berkeley packed their belongings and fled to the hills. Hundreds of families are now camped on the hills.

Latest estimates from Santa Rosa state that fully 10,000 people are homeless. State aid will be necessary for the victims.

Oakland is crowded with refugees. Every ferry leaving San Francisco is crowded to the limit with terror-stricken people bound for Oakland and Alameda. While the transportation companies are carrying away from San Francisco all that wish to leave, no passengers are allowed to enter the city today.

FATALITIES NOT SO GREAT.

Assemblyman P. A. Stanton received the following telegram from San Francisco today:

"Too much confusion to find anybody. Fatalities not as great as reported. Will try and find brother. Aid relief work in Los Angeles. San Francisco needs help.

[Signed.] "GEORGE C. PARDEE, Governor.

LIST OF THE VICTIMS STILL INCOMPLETE.

MILLION-DOLLAR RELIEF FUND.

Ex-Mayor Phelan, it is rumored, has sent word to Maj. Thorpe of the National Guard of California to draw on him for $1,000,000 for relief funds.

PENSACOLA'S FIRE FIGHTERS.

Splendid work was done by the fire fighters of the Pensacola, as they succeeded in saving from fire all the wharfage along the water front, and not a single vessel has been in flames.

While many of the freight sheds on various wharves have collapsed, the fine work of the Pensacola fire fighters saved further damages that would mounted into many thousands of dollars.

Flames are rapidly eating their way into the North Beach district, and will reach Telegraph Hill by daylight, unless there is a change of wind.

FINAL GRAND STAND.

Dynamiters are still working, and explosions are frequent. One final grand is to be made against the flames at Van Ness avenue and O'Farrell streets. If this should prove futile, proud San Francisco will be practically in ashes.

TODAY DECLARED LEGAL HOLIDAY.

SENATOR FLINT ASKS WHAT CONGRESS SHOULD DO.

Gov. Pardee, in Reply, Recommends That Appropriation of Money Sufficient to Restore All Federal Buildings of San Francisco Be Urged.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—Gov. Pardee this afternoon made the announcement that he had declared tomorrow (Friday) a legal holiday. Today had been declared a legal holiday and it was so observed in the banks and State, county and city offices.

The Governor today received a telegram from United States Senator Flint asking what Congress should do to help San Francisco. The Governor made the recommendation that Congress be urged to at once appropriate sufficient money to restore all Federal buildings. Some had been entirely destroyed and others badly damaged by the earthquake.

Both telegraph companies have practically lost communication with San Francisco. The wires west of here come up and go down in a fitful way, making their continuous use impossible. At one place, 1000 feet of line has sunk out of sight and in many other places the poles have toppled over. The wind is blowing a gale and mixing the wires in many places.

NEED PASSAGE MONEY.

It is reported that several members of the famous company are stranded here without money and other belongings. Director Franko is now endeavoring to arrange in some manner for passage to New York for his people, and it is expected that they will be rushed to New York at the earliest possible moment.

Franko, who is now in Oakland, states that many of the stars have been lost sight of, including Mmes. Eames, Sembrich and M. Caruso, but he is of the opinion that they have been taken in charge by friends in the stricken city.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—By the burning of the St. Francis Hotel, which was entirely consumed today, over $4,000,000 went up in smoke.

This magnificent caravansary, which, at the time of its destruction, was being enlarged at enormous expense, was filled to its capacity.

Among those stopping at the hotel when the building was destroyed were Adolph Busch and family of St. Louis, James Riley and wife of the Hotel Walcott, New York City; several members of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, and many other eastern visitors. It was reported that no one was injured.

THE BUSCH PARTY.

The Busch party left the hotel when it was apparent that the magnificent building was doomed, and are now housed with relatives at the Presidio. The opera singers at this hotel, as well as those of the Conreid organization, who had been quartered at the Palace Hotel, lost their all, with the exception of several violins valued at $12,000, which were saved from the flames at the eleventh hour by Nathan Franko, the musical director of the company.

Costumes, scenery, personal belongings and musical instruments—everything succumbed to the flames.

DIRECT NEWS OUT OF CITY.

Associated Press Men in Midst of Horrors.

Intense Heat Adding to People's Miseries.

Wild Scrambles for Safety From the Flames.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—While the heroic fire fighters were making their last stand at the fire line on Van Ness avenue, panic reigned among the survivors in other parts of the city.

The intense heat and the absence of water have added to the horror, and the strain since the first beginning of the terrible calamity has been so unspeakably terrible that scores have become frantic, and others have dropped from exhaustion in the streets.

The streets are still choked with refugees, hurrying hither and thither, scrambling wildly for an avenue of escape.

Since early morning, when the great rush of flame doomed the hotel and apartment-house districts along Ellis, O'Farrel and Sutter streets, men, women and children have been rushing or staggering under heavy loads of luggage, some to the ferries at the water front, in the hope of getting to Oakland and the east side of the bay; others to the hills, Golden Gate Park, the ocean beach, the Presidio, and San Mateo way.

TRIPS OF GREAT HARDSHIP.

The trip to the hills and to the water front was one of terrible hardship. Famishing women and children and exhausted men were compelled to walk seven miles around the north shore in order to avoid the flames and reach the ferries. Many dropped to the street under weight of their loads, and willing fathers and husbands, their strength almost gone, strove to pick them up and urge them forward again.

MANY MAD THINGS.

In the panic, many mad things are being done. Even the soldiers are unable in many instances to prevent men and women, made insane by the misfortune that has engulfed them, from rushing into doomed buildings, in the hope of saving valuables from the ruins. In nearly every instance, such action has resulted in death to those who tried it.

THREE WHO PERISHED.

At Larkin and Sutter streets, two men and a woman broke from the police and rushed into a burning apartment house, never to reappear.

Probably 200,000 refugees are struggling to get out of the city, and hourly the task is becoming more difficult, as the fire and heat cut off avenue after avenue.

The streets are filled with struggling people, some crying and weeping, and calling for missing loved ones.

Crowding all sidewalks in the threatened area are hundreds upon hundreds of householders, attempting to drag some of their personal effects to places of safety.

In some instances, two men at ropes are dragging trunks tandem style, others have sewing machines strapped to the trunks and other articles equally ridiculous. Again women are rushing to the hills carrying on their arms only the family cat or bird cage.

NO AID FROM OUTSIDE.

There is no aid from any outside sources. In the awful scramble for safety the half-crazed survivors disregard everything but thought of themselves. In every excavation and hole throughout the North Beach, householders are burying household effects, throwing them into the ditches and covering the holes. Attempts are made to mark the graves of the property, so that it can be recovered after the flames are appeased.

DESPERATE FROM HUNGER.

The lack of water throughout the burned area, together with the intense heat and the total absence of food, has driven people desperate, and innocent victims of the catastrophe that has visited the great city, are at places invading what few buildings remain in the hope of finding something to eat. They only desist when warner or shot at by soldiers.

THE OLD MINT.
The old United States Mint, on Fifth near Market, was not destroyed or damaged to a considerable extent. Its escape is due to the fact that it occupied a large square with buildings surrounding it and open space.

THE POSTOFFICE FALLS.
The massive walls of the Mint stood the fire, but the new postoffice building, which only a few months ago, and at a cost of $2,000,000 for actual construction, was one of the most magnificent buildings in the United States, said to have been equaled in excellence only by the Congressional Library at Washington, was destroyed.

street, for years the headquarters for army officers visiting San Francisco; the old Lick House, built by the philanthropist, James Lick; the old Russ House, also on Montgomery; the Nevada National Bank Block; the Haywards building, at California and Montgomery, a modern structure of ten stories, are gone.

TO THE EASTWARD.

Then, to the eastward, the splendid example of the severe Gothic style, the California National Bank building; the First National, the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the London and San Francisco, on California; the London, Paris and American Bank, and the Bank of British North America, on Sansome street; the large German-American Savings Bank, also on California street—these are a few of the notable buildings destroyed in the district.

CALIFORNIA HOTEL AND THEATER.

The California Hotel and Theater on Bush street, near Montgomery; the Grand Operahouse, on Mission street, where the Conreid Grand Opera Company had just opened for a series of three weeks' opera; the Orpheum, the Columbia, the Alcazar, the Majestic, the Central and Fisher's, were some of the playhouses to which pleasure-loving San Francisco was wont to flock.

SPLENDID APARTMENTS.

Among the splendid apartment-houses destroyed are:

On Geary street—The St. Augustine, the Alexandria, the Victoria, and the Elysium.

On Sutter street—The Pleasanton, the Aberdeen, the Waldeck, the Granada.

On Pine street—The Colonial, the Loma Vista, the Buena Vista.

On Ellis—The Dufferin, the Hamilton, the Ellis, the Royal, the Hart, the Ascot and the St. Catherine.

On O'Farrell—The Eugene, the Knox, the St. George, the Ramona, the Alcalde, the Gotham.

On Taylor—The Abbey.

On Eddy—The Abbotsford.

On Turk—The Netherlands.

On Polk—The Savoy.

On Bush—The Plymouth.

FAMOUS RESTAURANTS.

San Francisco was famous for the excellence of its restaurants. Many of these were known wherever travelers discussed good living. Among them were the "Pup," and Marschand's on Stockton street; the Poodle Dog, one of the most ornate, distinctive restaurant buildings in the United States; Zinkand's and the Fiesta on Market street, the famous Palace Grill in the Palace Hotel, and scores of Bohemian resorts in the old part of San Francisco. These are no more.

GREAT NEWSPAPER BUILDINGS.

At the junction of Kearny, Market and Geary streets stood the three great newspaper buildings of San Francisco—the Call, the most conspicuous structure in all the city, seventeen stories high; across the street, the Hearst building, the home of the Examiner, and to the north of this, on the opposite side of Market street, the Chronicle, a modern ten-story newspaper and office building, with the sixteen-story annex under course of construction. All were destroyed.

Two blocks north on Kearny street were the Bulletin and the Post buildings. These also are gone.

MAMMOTH DEPARTMENT STORES.

Among the mammoth department stores destroyed are the Emporium, Hale's; Prager's on Market street; on Kearny street, the White House, O'Connor & Moffatt's, Newman & Levinson, Roos Bros.', Raphael's, the Hub and many lesser establishments; on Geary street are the Davis, the City of Paris; Samuel's on Post street; Levi Strauss, on Sansome street; Wallace's, Nathan, Dohrman & Co., and Bullock & Jones.

SHOCK FELT IN MICHIGAN.

Shore of Portage Lake Visited By Earthquake and One Man Is Killed in Mine.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALUMET (Mich.) April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The north shore of Portage Lake was shaken by an earthquake today. The disturbance was greatest in the Quincy mine, which extended under the city of Hancock.

Timothy Leary was killed and four others injured by falling rock shaken loose in No. 7 shaft, nearly a mile beneath the earth's crust. Owing to the severity of the shock many people gathered at the mine fearing a great disaster.

Undoubtedly nervousness caused by the San Francisco catastrophe served to accentuate the alarm. It is considered unlikely that the shock had any relation to the disturbance in California.

Several earth tremors have been felt in the Lake Superior copper district in the past two years and they are generally ascribed to a readjustment of the bearing surface along the line of the fault between the eastern sandstone and the series of Keweenaw and copper bearing rocks. This is an acknowledged plane of weakness in the structure of the Keweenaw Peninsula and the theory of a slipping of bearing surfaces there is supported by President McNair of the Michigan College of Mines and other eminent geological and mining authorities.

RELIEF FOR INMATES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—Dr. Clark, superintendent of the San Francisco County Hospital, telephoned the Associated Press headquarters in Oakland tonight concerning the situation at the Agnews Insane Asylum, near San José.

Dr. Clark said that eleven employés and officers of the institution, including Drs. Kelly and Gell, were killed, and twenty injured. Among the patients, fifty-five were killed and 120 injured.

All the buildings were completely demolished.

Dr. Clark went to Agnews in an automobile, taking four nurses with him, and materially assisted the remaining members of the staff in organizing relief measures.

Tents have been set up in the grounds of the institution and the injured, as well as the uninjured, are being cared for. A temporary building is being erected to house the patients until other measures of relief can be taken.

Dr. Clark said that there was absolutely no confusion, and that he believed all the patients had been accounted for.

BOOMING GUNS AND EXPLOSIVES.

BOMBARDMENT OF THE WESTERN ADDITION A FAILURE.

Populace Stunned to the Point Where Their Own Clamor Most Seizes Their Attention—Power of the Flames Resistless and Panic Reigns in Their Domain.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—With each succeeding hour the devastation and destruction in this stricken and prostrate ruin of a city grows and grows.

A 6 o'clock tonight it seemed as if nothing could save the comparatively small portion of the city that yet remains unburned.

The entire business and wholesale district is now only a glowing furnace, while the giant tongues of fire have reached westward far beyond Van Ness avenue, and are wiping out buildings and seeking more to devour.

THE WESTERN ADDITION.

At 4 o'clock, Mayor Schmitz and Chief Dinan saw that the only hope of saving the Western Addition, with its forest of frame dwellings, and the Richmond district, with its thousands of homes, was to check the cruel march of the wall of fire at Van Ness avenue, which crosses the city from north to south, where the retail store and fine apartment-house district ends, and where the smaller residences begin.

This avenue is ninety feet wide, and the possibilities of checking the march of the flames here looked hopeful to those who were fighting the flames in this hour of awful horror.

CONCENTRATING FORCES.

The orders were given to concentrate every fire engine in the city at this avenue; to marshal troops of soldiers there; the police and all the army of workers, and make one last determined stand to save the remainder of the city.

The cooperation of the artillery was secured, and huge cannon were drawn to the avenue by madly-dashing horses, to aid the dynamiters in blowing up the mansions of the millionaires on the west side of Van Ness avenue in order to prevent the flames leaping across the highway and starting on their unrestrained sweep across the Western Addition.

CANNON AND DYNAMITE.

Every available pound of dynamite was hauled to the spot, and the sight was one of stupendous and appalling havoc, as the cannon were trained on the palaces and the shot tore into the walls and toppled the buildings and crashing ruin. At other points, dynamite was used, and house after house destroyed—dwellings worth millions were lifted into the air by the power of the bellowing blast, and dropped to the earth a mass of dust and débris.

The work was necessarily dangerous, and many of the exhausted workers kept going and working through a stretch of forty-eight hours without sleep and scarcely any food, through force of instinctive heroism alone may have been killed while making this last desperate stand.

Many of the workers, in placing the blasts, took chances that spelled injury or death.

THE FIRE LINES.

The fire line at 6 o'clock extends a mile along the east side of Van Ness avenue, from Pacific street to Ellis. All behind this, excepting the Russian Hill region, and a small district along the North Beach, has been swept clean by the flames, and great steel hulks of buildings and pipes and shafts and spires have been dropped into the molten mass of débris like so much melted wax.

BOOMING OF ARTILLERY.

The steady booming of the artillery and the roar of the dynamite above the howl and cracking of the flames continues with monotonous and dazing regularity. Such noises have been bombarding the ears of the panic-stricken populace since the earthquake of forty-eight hours ago.

The people have ceased to heed the sound, and rush pell-mell, drowning their senses, in a bedlam of their own creation. There seemed to be an irresistible power behind the flames, that even the desperately heroic measures being taken at Van Ness avenue could not stay.

REFUGEE GRAPHICALLY DESCRIBES DESOLATION.

Boats Going in Every Direction Loaded Down With Fleeing People Who Leave Property Interests Behind—Fire Department Takes Final Stand in Effort to Stem Tide.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—A man who crossed the bay late this evening gives the following graphic description of the destruction of San Francisco:

San Francisco is a city of ruins. There is no pen that can describe the scene of desolation left in the wake of the terrible disaster that has overtaken it. What made San Francisco famous is now nothing but heaps of smoldering débris.

Its magnificent buildings, its Market street and its gay, happy throngs are gone. Its inhabitants are fleeing from it as though from a dread pestilence. The ferries are taking thousands at every trip. The boats running in every direction are loaded to the water line with fleeing people.

East street presents a scene which the rout of an army never equaled for its disorder. The water front is the only means of access to the ferries. It is the one highway along which the rich and poor, old and young, with their bedding and worldly possessions tied up in every sort of odd packages, are making their way. The scene beggars description and the pen of a Hugo or a Tolstoi would be necessary to give any adequate idea of it.

And, oh! the loss of it! Awful desolation and waste of what men in this world set great store by! The loss is untold and the effects will be far-reaching. The insurance companies are threatened with a loss probably equaled only by the great fire at Chicago.

Viewing the smoldering ruins from the top of the proud "Nob Hill," with its mansions, its gardens and its statues, one gets a faint realization of how terrible is the catastrophe.

And the fire is still raging. It is burning with unrestrained fury. And the entire western addition is threatened. One final stand is being made at Van Ness avenue and O'Farrell street. The Old Guard at Waterloo, begrimed with powder and driven back at a hundred points, made no more noble effort at the dusk of that terrible day than the remainder of the San Francisco fire department as it drew up to receive the onslaught of the wall of fire.

The reply of the dazed engineer standing at the corner of Van Ness and O'Farrell street beside a blackened engine may not have been as terse, expressive and pointed as Hugo's Captain of the Guards at Waterloo, but the pathos of it could have been no greater.

In answer to the writer's queries as to what he proposed to do, he said: "We are waiting for it to come. When it gets here we will make one more stand. If it crosses Van Ness avenue the city is gone."

FOOD NEEDED AT ONCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The imperative need of the earthquake victims is food and medical care. While large sums of money must be forthcoming to provide for future expenses, it is food that must come first.

People are actually in a starving condition tonight in both North Beach and the Mission. Deaths on the streets this afternoon were due to lack of nourishment for exhausted victims.

Los Angeles does well to send money, but she will do better to send food stuffs at once.

There are not enough food supplies in Oakland to feed the 50,000 refugees, and those who remain behind in the doomed city across the bay see starvation staring them in the face.

Acting Mayor Francis Ferrier sent the following message to the Chamber of Commerce at Stockton tonight:

"Berkeley is caring for San Francisco refugees, arriving on every train. Provisions and bedding are absolutely necessary immediately. Heartfelt thanks."

Simple Way to Cure Catarrh by Hyomei Without Stomach Dosing.

It is the height of folly to dose the stomach with internal medicines to cure nasal catarrh. It cannot be cured except the catarrhal germs that are present in the nose, throat and lungs have first been killed.

Direct local treatment by breathing Hyomei through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, is absolutely necessary to kill the catarrhal germs and prevent their growth and formation.

The soothing air of Hyomei heals the smarting and raw membrane of the air passages in the nose, throat and lungs, kills off the catarrhal germs and rids the system of the last traces of catarrh.

The complete Hyomei outfit consists of a hard rubber inhaler which can be carried in the purse or vest-pocket, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei, and costs only $1.00, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for a free sample bottle and consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Bldg., Ithaca, N. Y.

MISSION SAN JUAN RUINED.

Famous Franciscan Landmark Near Salinas Wrecked By Wednesday's Quake.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALINAS, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] San Juan Mission, the famous Franciscan landmark fifteen miles from this city and one of the chain of missions built by the Franciscan fathers along the Coast, is now only a mass of ruins.

The earthquake which caused such a calamity to California and particularly to this part of the State demolished the thick adobe walls and the heavy tile roof fell to the ground, the tiles being broken and the interior of the various rooms demolished.

The mission was well preserved and was occupied, but the portion of it used as living rooms escaped with comparatively slight injury.

No one was injured.

NO WORDS WASTED

A Swift Transformation Briefly Described.

About food, the following brief but emphatic letter from a Georgia woman goes straight to the point, and is convincing:

"My frequent attacks of indigestion and palpitation of the heart culminated three years ago in a sudden and desperate illness, from which I arose enfeebled in mind and body. The doctor advised me to live on cereals, but none of them agreed with me until I tried Grape-Nuts food and Postum Coffee. The more I used of them the more I felt convinced that they were just what I needed, and in a short time they made a different woman of me. My stomach and heart troubles were cured as by magic, and my mind was restored and is as clear as it ever was.

"I gained flesh and strength so rapidly that my friends were astonished. Postum and Grape-Nuts have benefited me so greatly that I am glad to bear this testimony." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

JOHANN ARNOLD

Johann Arnold, of Easton, Pa., hale, hearty and jovial, at the remarkable age of 104 years, states he owes his appetite and perfect digestion to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

He says Duffy's is a godsend for old people who require a stimulant and strength builder.

After trying a number of wines and tonics, and finding his stomach unable to retain them, he commenced using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and immediately began to regain his health and strength.

The following letter was received from the grand old patriarch

It gives me pleasure to testify to the benefit I am deriving from the judicious use of your Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I am now 104 years old, hale and hearty, have a good appetite and perfect digestion. I tried a number of tonics and whiskies for their stimulating effect, but my stomach would not retain them. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey agrees with my stomach perfectly and produces the mild stimulation which my age demands. It is certainly a godsend to those who need a stimulant to tone up their stomachs, increase their digestive powers and strengthen their weakened nerves.

JOHANN ARNOLD, Easton, Pa.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic; builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, quickens the circulation, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles, and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey contains no fusel oil, and is the only whiskey that has been recognized as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

CAUTION.—Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has been imitated and substitutes are being offered for sale by unscrupulous persons. Do not be deceived, as the preparations made up to imitate Duffy's are positively injurious to the health. Duffy's is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Look for the "Old Chemist" trademark on the label and insist on getting the genuine. Sold by reliable druggists and grocers everywhere at $1.00 a bottle, or you can get it direct. Doctor's advice and medical booklet free. Address Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

ALL AMERICA QUICK AT RELIEF RESPONSE.

Intense Humane Feeling Is Shown, and Offers Are Showered on Mourning City's Committee Tendering Everything Mortal Aid Can Bestow.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The resolution appropriating $500,000 for the relief of the San Francisco earthquake sufferers was amended by the House Committee, the amount being increased to $1,000,000.

SENT TO PRESIDENT.

Vice-President Fairbanks signed the California Relief Resolution, appropriating $1,000,000, at 5:10 o'clock, and it was at once sent to the White House.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL.

The President at 6 o'clock tonight signed the join resolution appropriating $1,000,000 for the San Francisco sufferers.

PRESIDENT'S APPEAL.

President Roosevelt has issued an official appeal for aid for the earthquake sufferers, the distribution to be made through the American Red Cross Society.

The immense sum of $2,525,000 has so far been reported as subscribed to the sufferers' fund.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19, 1 p.m.—The Committee on Safety, consisting of fifty prominent citizens, met with Mayor Schmitz this morning and organized a Finance Committee composed of James D. Phelan, I. W. Hellman, Claus Spreckels, J. Downey Harvey, Thomas Magee, J. L. Flood, William Babcock, W. F. Herren, M. H. De Young and Robert J. Tobin.

Before the meeting had organized Claus Spreckels gave $25,000, Rudolph Spreckels, $10,000; Harry Tevis, $10,000; Gordon Blanding, $10,000; Eleanor Martin, $5000; J. E. Flood, $5000, with a promise of more.

Mayor Schmitz announced that the water company promised a supply of water this afternoon in the Western Addition, and in the Mission by tomorrow.

Committees were appointed to take charge of the relief of the destitute, and the work has already begun. Golden Gate Park will be the main refuge, and supplies will be sent there.

SUFFERERS SEEK REFUGE.

Boats are being provided to take people across the bay, and thousands are availing themselves of the privilege. The University of California at Berkeley has volunteered to take care of two thousand.

Mayor Schmitz has made his committee of fifty citizens special officers, with full power to represent him and with power to requisition men, supplies, vehicles and boats for public use.

Unless supplies are rushed in and arrangements made for their distribution, trouble is feared within a few days. Even men of wealth cannot obtain food with all their money.

Gens. Funston and Sumner, in command of the Federal troops, are rendering great service. Refugees so go to the Presidio are being taken care of, but the number that can be accommodated is limited.

Except for an occasional accident, there has been no additional loss of life reported since yesterday. People have had time to leave the burning districts, though most of them have lost all of their belongings.

BERKELEY'S GREAT WORK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, April 19.—Extraodinary relief work for the benefit of the vast population which was rendered homeless by the San Francisco earthquake is being accomplished by a local citizens' committee headed by Rev. E. L. Parsons, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal Church.

The work of providing meals and sleeping accommodations for the large numbers who are pouring into Berkeley by every train from San Francisco is being joined in by University and townspeople alike.

President Wheeler has thrown open the grounds of the university to the weary refugees from the burning city across the bay and the churches have undertaken the task of supplying great quantities of food.

Meals will be served from a great tent which has been erected under the campus oaks, while sleeping accommodations will be provided by strewing the baseball field with a deep layer of straw. If the weather proves inclement the homeless will have the opportunity of sleeping in Harman gymnasium. Tents also will be placed on the campus.

WOMEN TO BAKE BREAD.

All the parish houses of the Episcopal churches of the city have been given over to the use of the needy, and many charitably inclined citizens are giving their extra home accommodations to those from across the bay.

A special request has been sent to the women of Berkeley to bake all the bread they possibly can as there is a distressing bread famine on the other side of the bay. This is accounted for by the fact that all the bakeries that have been left standing are not allowed to build fires under their ovens on account of the danger of starting other fires through damaged chimneys.

The Native Sons and Daughters, and Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, kept open house last night for the relief of the poor.

GIVES MEDICAL CARE.

Medical attention for a large number of persons injured in the San Francisco earthquake and subsequent fire is being provided in Berkeley. The local hospitals have been thrown open and the medical men of the University town are bending every effort to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunates.

Among those who are believed to be fatally hurt are William Cunningham, whose skull was crushed in the collapsing walls of a hotel, and C. W. Harris, a lumberman of No. 998 Howard street, San Francisco, who was badly burned about the head.

While every attention is to be given by the citizens of Berkeley to the homeless San Franciscans, care will be taken to prevent any lawlessness during the time that the University grounds and homes of the college towns are thrown open. To provide adequate protection all the student cadets of the University of California were summoned to report at the armory tonight and detailed for guard duty.

A large number of special deputies have been sworn in by the chief of police to prevent thieving.

INDIANAPOLIS RESPONDS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 19.—After a consultation with a number of Indianapolis businessmen at noon today, Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter sent the following telegram to Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco:

"The people of Indianapolis authorize you to make a draft upon me for $10,000 for the relief of the suffering people of your city.

"Let us know if further assistance will be needed."

A general call for relief has been issued and any sum in excess of the $10,000 will be forwarded to the stricken city.

PENSYLVANIA WILL HELP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HARRISBURG (Pa.) April 19.—Gov. Pennypacker today sent the following telegram to Gov. Pardee of California:

"If tonight help is needed in San Francisco that Pennsylvania can render, let me know."

MONEY FROM NEW YORK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 19.—Eighty-five thousand dollars for the relief of San Francisco was raised on the stock exchange within twenty minutes today.

NEW YORK, April 19.—John D. Rockefeller today authorized his agents in San Francisco to expend $100,000 for the relief of the homeless and destitute of that city.

TENTS ON THE WAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Pursuant to the order issued this morning by Secretary Taft, the quartermaster department in this city today shipped to San Francisco 3500 tents, all that were available in the depot.

SACRAMENTO IN LINE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—Citizens of Sacramento at an impromptu meeting on the Courthouse steps in this city this morning, raised $50,000 in twenty minutes for the relief of the earthquake and fire sufferers in San Francisco. It was decided at the meeting to immediately start steamers for San Francisco with supplies and to continue sending steamers every day until all suffering is alleviated.

STOCKTON SENDS PROVISIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

STOCKTON, April 19.—The Stockton Chamber of Commerce has organized a relief expedition and this evening a big steamer of the California Navigation and Improvement Company, donated for the occasion, will leave Stockton for San Francisco, laden with provisions, blankets, clothing and other supplies.

On board will be 100 tons of potatoes and other vegetables, in addition to canned goods, bread and foods, ready to eat.

Donations of food and money are pouring into the headquarters of the Relief Committee which at this writing, 5 o'clock p.m., is sanguine of securing $20,000 in cash in Stockton.

TACOMA'S QUICK ACTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TACOMA, April 19.—Tacoma will send 100 tons of supplies to San Francisco by the steamer Nelson, leaving tonight. Ten thousand dollars in cash will also be wired tonight by the Chamber of Commerce.

The city has divided into districts with a committee in charge of each and a careful canvass for funds will be made.

The school children are today making contributions upon request of the school board.

MAYOR SHOWS NEEDS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—The following appeal for aid has been sent out by Mayor Schmitz to Gov. Pardee, and shows the destitution of the people and the dire need of food and shelter:

"Send all supplies and tents possible to Golden Gate Park. Have bakeries in small towns bake all the bread they can. We want bedding, food and tents."

BIG PORTLAND GIFT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 19.—In addition to the "Telegram's" fund of $15,000 raised yesterday morning, Portland business men, up to 2 o'clock this afternoon, had contributed $85,000, making a total of $100,000 all told for the relief of the San Francisco earthquake sufferers.

SEATLE RAISES FUND.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SEATTLE, April 19.—Through the "Times" and the Chamber of Commerce of this city, nearly $40,000 has been raised at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers.

SANTA ANA CALLS MEETING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SANTA ANA, April 19.—The Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association have called a mass meeting to organize for the relief of the earthquake sufferers in California, and have sent a message to Mayor Schmitz stating that the town would help to the best of its ability.

MISSOURI'S OFFER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—Gov. Pardee today sent the following dispatch to Gov. Folk of Missouri in reply to an offer of aid for San Francisco sufferers:

"Thanks for offer of help. There are thousands of homeless people in San Francisco and other towns, and food and shelter must be furnished. At the same time, people of the East should understand that the area affected by earthquake is only about one-fifteenth of the whole State. The great Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys and all the northern and southern portions of the State escaped the disaster. In San Francisco most of the destruction was wrought by fire and not by earthquake.

"GEORGE C. PARDEE."

DENVER SHIPS SUPPLIES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Denver started the first trainload of supplies to San Francisco tonight.

QUAKE MAY CHANGE CANAL.

PARIS, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Franklin statue unveiling ceremonies planned for today have been postponed on account of the San Francisco earthquake. They will probably take place a week hence.

JOHNSTOWN CALLS MEETING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JOHNSTOWN (Pa.) April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mayor Young issued a call today for a mass meeting to be held tomorrow evening for the purpose of devising means to send help to the earthquake sufferers in California.

When Johnstown was visited by the flood disaster, San Francisco and Los Angeles were among the first cities to respond promptly with substantial help, and all the contributions were paid in gold.

Johnstown residents have not forgotten San Francisco's generosity and it is believed that the subscription at the meeting tomorrow will be liberal.

TRAIN LEAVES PORTLAND.

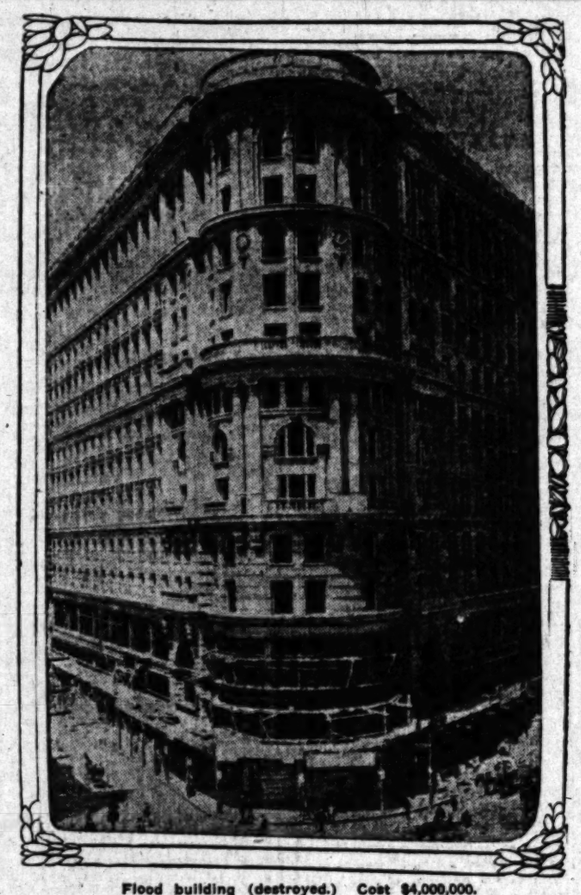
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 19.—The Southern Pacific will run a special train of twenty cars, leaving here at 6:15 tonight for San Francisco carrying ten physicians, twenty trained nurses and 200,000 pounds of provisions The train is expected to reach San Francisco Friday afternoon.

SEATTLE SUBSCRIBERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE, April 19.—Seattle will subscribe $100,000 through its Chamber of Commerce, and has asked President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern Railroad to send the 20,000-ton liner Minnesota, now in this port, to San Francisco with provisions and to bring back sufferers.



Flood building (destroyed.) Cost $4,000,000.

CHICAGO FEARS.

CHICAGO, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hundreds of anxious people in Chicago strove, yesterday, to get news concerning relatives who are believed to have been within the earthquake circle at San Francisco. San Francisco business men stopping in the city were also unable to learn whether their families were safe. Theatrical people were greatly concerned for the welfare of the grand opera singers billed for the Coast city this week. Caruso and Mme. Fremstadt appeared last night in Carmen. No word has been received from any of them.

ON BOARD OF TRADE.

On the Board of Trade little knots of men talked over the situation, recalling friends whose wives, daughters or other relatives are visiting in San Francisco, and were in danger of death. Not in years has the board been so much agitated as by this shock.

PUBLISHER HOWARD'S ANXIETY.

Chief among those torn by anxiety was B. Frank Howard, publisher of the Daily Trade Bulletin, whose two daughters, Misses Anna and Grace Howard, are believed to have reached San Francisco.

MRS. CHARLES COUNSELMAN.

Mrs. Charles Counselman, widow of the late Board of Trade member, and her daughter, are in San Francisco, it was recalled by the board members, and probably stopped at the Palace Hotel.

THE BOOTHS.

Mrs. William S. Booth, wife of one of the most prominent men on the board in Chicago, and Frank and Albert Booth, his brothers, are in San Francisco. Friends of Booth expressed fear that the three shared in the earthquake disaster. They live in the western addition.

RICHARD FRANK.

Richard Frank, is another board member who hopes yet fears to hear details of the quake. His mother, he said, is now stopping at the St. Francis Hotel, in San Francisco, and no information has been received as to herself as yet.

OTHERS FEARED FOR.

Among others for whom anxiety is felt are Mrs. Robert Weston, Mrs. Ernest Hall of Evanston and her son's wife, Mrs. Milton Hall, wife of a well-known Chicago physician, The trio, who had been in Southern California for some months, expected to be in San Francisco this week.

SAN FRANCISCO EXCITED.

At nearly all of the prominent Chicago hotels are Californians, many of them residents of San Francisco, and they were of the throng that made demands upon all places likely to receive early and accurate information.

R. A. REDMOND'S GRIEF.

Robert A. Redmond of San Francisco had just registered at the Auditorium Hotel when informed of the disaster. He nearly collapsed.

"Oh, my God, my wife and babies," he shouted.

A moment later, he had rushed from the hotel, his grips in his hand, and entered a cab. He is supposed to be on his way back to San Francisco.

PAYMASTER COLBY'S SON.

Capt. H. G. Colby, U.S.N., a paymaster stationed at San Francisco, reached Chicago today. His son, H. C. Colby, with his wife and children live at No. 2726 Pierce avenue, four blocks west of the business district.

FELT IN MARYLAND.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Seismographic machines of the Weather Bureau the observatory of the Coast and Geodetic Survey at Cheltenham, Md., showed distinctly the earthquake tremors due to the great phenomena in San Francisco.

The Weather Bureau announced that the total ground movement record was fourteenth of an inch before the stylus of the seismograph recorded such a variation that it left the six-inch paper provided for its course.

Experts point out, however, that such an actual movement of the ground here would have been felt by individuals and that the ground movement was not so great as indicated.

Never before have the machines at the Cheltenham observatory shown such a disturbance.

Otto H. Tittman superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, at noon today rendered this report to Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor:

USE BULLETS ON LOOTERS.

Mayor Authorizes Troops and Police to Stamp Out Criminal Activity.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Mayor Schmitz this afternoon issued the following proclamation to the people of San Francisco:

"The Federal troops, the members of the regular police force and all special police officers have been authorized by me to kill any and all persons found engaged in looting or in the commission of any other crime.

"I have directed all the gas and electric lighting companies not to turn on gas or electricity until I order them to do so. You may therefore expect the city to remain in darkness for an indefinite time.

"I request all citizens to remain at home from darkness until daylight every night until order is restored.

"I warn all citizens of the danger of fire from damaged or destroyed chimneys, broken or leaking gas pipes or fixtures or any like cause."

Mayor Schmitz has addressed an appeal to the people of Oakland, asking for bread and food supplies of all kinds, tents and bedding. Golden Gate Park will be the place where the destitute will be taken care of.

"We want these things," adds the Mayor, "and we want them immediately."

thousand people were gathered begging for food and transportation across the bay. Hundreds had not even the 10 cents fare to Oakland. Most of the refugees at this point were Chinamen and Italians, who fled from their burned tenements with little or no personal property.

TRYING TO SAVE PAINTINGS.

When the mansions on Nob Hill, the Fairmont and Mark Hopkins Institute were approached by the flames today, many attempts were made to remove some of the priceless works of art from the buildings. A crowd of soldiers were sent to the Flood and Huntington mansions and Mark Hopkins Institute of Art, to rescue the paintings from the Huntington home and the Flood mansion. Canvasses were cut from the frames with knives. The collections in the three buildings are valued in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Very few were saved from the ravages of the fire fiend.

UNIVERSITY CADETS ASSIST.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock, the cadets of the University of California, to the number of 500, entered the city to aid the militia and regular soldiers in their work of enforcing martial law. The young college men have orders to shoot without warning those caught looting. In many parts of town where the crowds of survivors are the wildest, it is almost impossible to get around save at pistol point. The soldiers are disarming every person seen with a weapon.

ONE BANK ALIVE.

The only institution on Market street able to do business is, according to a reputable business man who reached the ferry late tonight, the Market-street Bank, occupying the ground floor of the Grant building at Seventh and Market streets. Although the upper part of this building, and every building near this, was wiped out, the space occupied by the bank was practically undamaged. A sign posted in the window stated that the bank would be open for business as soon as it was considered safe.

AGONY OF THIRST.

The greatest suffering among the thousands of homeless people today was from thirst. Although the earthquake shock had broken water mains in probably hundreds of places, strange to say no water, or very little, at least, appeared on the surface of the ground. Public fountains located on Market street gave no relief to the thirsty thousands. At the corner of Powell and Market streets, a small stream of water spurted up through the cobblestones and formed a muddy pool. From this pool hundreds of people knelt and drank, women as well as men.

LIQUOR FROM GROCERIES.

In many places men took as many bottles of liquor as they could carry out of grocery stores, but few of them succeeded in getting away with them. Wherever the soldiers saw a man with a bottle of liquor, they forced him to give it up at the point of the bayonet, and immediately smashed it on the ground.

"REGULARS" WIN PRAISE.

The work of the regular soldiers in suppressing disorder, preventing looting and in rescuing persons from dangerous positions is worthy of the greatest praise. Everywhere they showed the highest degree of courage. They did not hesitate to shoot whenever necessary, and probably twenty victims fell before them during the day.

NIGHT OF AGONY.

Tonight, the suffering to many from hunger is extreme. On the waterfront what bread that is to be had is being sold for a dollar a loaf, and in some instances at a much higher price.

At 5 o'clock a mob of a hundred or more mobbed a bread wagon and took the contents. The police made an attempt to interfere, but were powerless.

Bread is beginning to arrive from Berkeley and Oakland, and is being distributed in the north end of town by the relief parties organized by Mayor Schmitz.

SLEEPING ON THE HILLS.

Thousands of people are sleeping on the hills, tonight, or standing gazing with grim faces on the lurid scene below them. Women and children and little babes in arms are huddled together with the injured.

In Golden Gate Park, the people are huddled together, with gnawing hunger the companion of all.

WAILS AND CALLS.

The wail of the injured and the calls of frantic survivors for friends and relatives who are missing are most pitiful.

These crowds are constantly increasing, and the relief committees are doing all in their power to get bedding and food for homeless.

BERKELEY SHORT OF FOOD.

Oakland and Berkeley are short of food, and in a few days will themselves be facing a serious condition, unless relief comes from the outside.

Express men are charging from $10 to $50 to haul a load of baggage, or give any aid at all to refugees.

LIQUOR STORES BROKEN INTO.

Liquor stores in the North End were broken into by thieves, and hundreds of men were carrying away the bottled liquors when the soldiers arrived. The men had to be clubbed by the militiamen before they would drop the bottles. Soldiers smashed the bottles on the stones, and drove the mob at the point of the bayonet.

SAN DIEGO IS UNDAMAGED.

Report Sent Out From Los Angeles Has No Basis in Fact.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN DIEGO, April 19.—Telegrams are being received in this city showing that the report has been sent out from Los Angeles that San Diego had suffered damage from earthquake. There has been absolutely no damage done in this section, the only shock felt being a very slight one at 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

An unconfirmed report from Los Angeles refers to damage to the town of Brawley, on the desert, 150 miles east, but nothing of this is known here and it is discredited.

San Diego has subscribed large sums for the relief of northern sufferers, 1000 tents have been offered by the Coronado Beach Company, and a shipload of provisions is to be sent north.

FOREIGN INSURANCE FIRMS HARD

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Foreign insurance companies lose most. Fire insurance on San Francisco property is carried to the largest extent of any foreign or domestic company by the London Assurance of London.

The heaviest insurance in the whole State of California is carried by the Firemen's Fund of San Francisco, with a total of $37,542,577. The Liverpool and London and Globe Company of Liverpool is second in total amount of insurance carried in California, with $18,518,106.

The London Assurance Company, which leads in San Francisco business, carries a total of $12,312,792, in the whole State of California. The companies carrying the largest amount of premiums on San Francisco and California business (for 1905) are: London Assurance, London, $87,719; Royal, Liverpool, $83,401; Firemen's Fund, San Francisco, $77,606; Trans-Atlantic Fire, Hamburg, $73,947; New York Underwriters, Hartford, Ct., $73,552; Hartford Fire Insurance Company, Hartford, Ct., $72,236; London and Lancashire, London, $63,558; Phoenix, Brooklyn, $61,344; Rhine and Moselle, Strasburg, $59,659; North German, Hamburg, $58,946; Traders, Chicago, $58,096; Liverpool and London and Globe, Liverpool, $56,878; Royal Exchange Assurance, London, $56,529; Hamburg Bremen Fire, Hamburg, $56,180; Pennsylvania Fire, Philadelphia, $55,189; Northern Assurance, London, $53,690; Phoenix Assurance, London, $53,890; German, Freeport, Ill., $52,802. Totals for 105 companies, American—$1,648,221; foreign, $1,240,621. Grand totals, $2,888,842.

NEW YORK'S INTERESTS.

NEW YORK, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fire insurance men in this city were deeply interested in the San Francisco news from a professional standpoint, as well as from natural horror at the disaster and sympathy for the victims. As an insurance problem, the status of the ruin by fire in the California metropolis cannot be determined until complete returns are received.

Whether the fire insurance companies are to be heavy losers, the catastrophe almost all losses will fall entirely upon how the companies in San Francisco fare in quakes prove to have been

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Classes Called Off.
The Los Angeles Business College has been postponed indefinitely on account of the disaster in San Francisco. It was to have been held tonight.

Kaffir Boys Will Sing.
The Kaffir boys from South Africa will give a free concert in the First Methodist Church tonight. Mr. Balmer and Miss Clark will make interesting talks on Africa.

For Shriners' Parade.
Amanda Chapter, O.E.S., will give a dance and card party at Masonic Temple Saturday evening, the proceeds to be used to decorate an automobile for the Shriners' parade next month. Mrs. Ella M. Dixon has charge of the affair.

Friday Morning Club.
The Friday Morning Club will meet in annual this morning, although the program prepared for today will be omitted. The meeting will be devoted to planning for the club's part in the relief work to be outlined at the general meeting of women at Blanchard Hall at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Died in Arizona.
Henry Leon Rankin, son of Henry Rankin of this city, died at Tucson, Ariz., on April 19, aged 24 years. He also leaves a brother in this city, Roy Rankin, a clerk in the postoffice. The deceased was formerly of Riverside and more recently of Oneonta, Or.

Special Service.
As an expression of sympathy for the sufferers in San Francisco and other stricken cities, a special service will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at Temple Emanuel synagogue on Olive street, near Temple. Rabbi Isidore Myers will preach. The public as well as members are invited.

Word of Kellher Dead.
Word has been received of the death of Frank A. Kellher at Minneapolis, Minn., after a long illness. Kellher has been a resident of Los Angeles for the last few years, being connected with the Southern California Hardwood Manufacturing Company. He was 22 years of age.

Struck by a Car.
While riding his bicycle between the car tracks on Central avenue near Fourth street yesterday afternoon George Davis was caught by the rear end of a passing car and thrown to the pavement, sustaining a fractured leg. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where he is being cared for. Davis is a printer and lives at No. 595 Boyle street.

Accident on Runway.
J. F. Berdick, foreman of the Tallyho Stables, was bruised and lacerated in the face at Sixteenth and Hope streets last night. Berdick was driving a horse attached to a cab, and the animal becoming frightened at a passing automobile became unmanageable. One of the horses ran with terrific force against a telegraph pole and was instantly killed. No other was so severely hurt that it was necessary to end the animal's misery with a bullet. Berdick was painfully injured. His injuries were dressed at the Receiving Hospital, after which he was removed to his home, 1117 Quincy street.

Mrs. Curtis' Condition Improving.
Mrs. Curtis, the consumption victim who arrived in this city penniless a few days several weeks ago, is now in the County Hospital, and her health is improving, the doctors say she will be perfectly comfortable and has everything he needs. Many persons have come to this city charitable institutions have taken up his case and provided him with money for such things as the hospital authorities cannot furnish, and he is still has hopes of being able to leave his bed some day, although he confesses it "get out on the floor again."

Soldiers' Returns.
The army of the Philippines, which has its headquarters at No. 317 South Broadway on the second and third Friday of each month, would like all Philippine veterans to take advantage of the yearly meeting, and particularly the grand reunion to be held at Manilla, Philippines, in August, 1906. All soldiers who have seen service in the islands are requested to join the society. Application to the Philippine Society will be promptly considered, will be provided by the government. At each meeting papers are read on the experiences of the different members. Col. Hale, late of the Twenty-third Infantry, will tell of the "Land of Nod," the beauty spot of the Philippines. The local society will be entertained.

Will Move to the Hotel Palms.
The Hotel Rose, No. 1 Broadway, was guarded all the day yesterday by a policeman whose sole duty consisted in watching the exit or entrance of persons. The temporary suspension of business was due to the presence in the house of three smallpox patients. The guard was placed on the house in the morning, and continued during the day. After the patients were removed to the pesthouse the building was fumigated from top to bottom, and late in the afternoon the quarantine was lifted and the house was conducted as usual. Mrs. Rose, proprietor of the house, and Miss Helen Rose, clerk of the place, are the only persons who have been exposed. They have received medical attention for several days and were removed to a place of isolation as soon as the nature of the disease was discovered.

TRAFFIC TIES.

NO NEWSPAPERS.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All of the newspaper offices are burned and no papers are being issued in the city. Some of the papers have been forced to suspend publication, but no news is being issued by their men.
The Associated Press has organized staff in the city and this there are representatives of large outside papers and volume of news to be sent out. Methodus, conditions are such impossible to send it out, the fact that the city is practically from the outside world.

FLEEING AREA BY HARRIMAN.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—President Harriman of the Southern Pacific company has wired the officials here to place all the company's ferry boats at the disposition of the people of San Francisco municipal authorities to enable them to send all persons desiring to leave the stricken city.
The Southern Pacific depot at Fourteenth and Alameda streets has been converted into a hospital for the reception of patients having been removed to places of safety.

SENATE AND FLAG.

Call From Kansas City for a Modern Patriotic Symposium to Stop "Spurts."

A spurt of patriotism, says the Kansas City Star, may be anticipated in the Senate through the introduction of a bill making it a misdemeanor to use for advertising purposes the flag or the coat of arms of the United States. There is always something lofty and thrilling to be said about "Old Glory," old as it is. Even a statesman like Aldrich, who declares that the Senate represents business and who can't imagine why any one should think that it ought to represent anything else, ought to be able to glow a little about the Stripes and Stars. There are people still living here and there in different localities who like that sort of thing, and as long as it can't do any harm why not take the chances on the good that it might do?

A passing efflux of sentiment for the flag would scarcely be considered a violation of the dignity of the Senate. There used to be a good deal of the Fourth of July business about Foraker, but he has not given out any fire alarms for a long time. Steve Elkins ought to be still able to quote:

Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us,
With freedom's soil beneath her feet,
And freedom's banner floating o'er us.

Chester Long cannot have forgotten that—

When freedom from her mountain height
Unfurled her standard to the air
She tore the azure robes of night
And set the stars of glory there.

Let "business" in the Senate give way for a brief period to a symposium on the flag. Don't mind the fault finders who may pipe up about the way the flag is discredited by the Senators who stand for special interests. It would not help matters, anyway, to further commercialize the flag by using it as a poster.

All a Matter of Doubt.

A young man from the South who, a few years ago, was so fortunate as to be enabled to enter the law office of a well-known New York firm, was first intrusted with a very simple case. He was asked by the late James C. Carter, then a member of the firm, to give an opinion in writing. When this was submitted it was observed by Mr. Carter that with the touching confidence of a neophyte, the young southerner had begun with the expression, "I am clearly of opinion."

When this caught his eye, he smiled, and said:

"My dear young friend, never state that you are clearly of opinion on a law point. The most you can hope to discover is the preponderance of the doubt."—[Success.

HALF MILLION BY THE U. S. SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Soon after the Senate was called to order today Mr. Perkins introdced a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to use rations and quartermaster-generals' supplies for the relief of destitute persons in the region devastated by the earthquake and fire in California, and making an appropriation of $500,000 to relieve the suffering.

Following is the text of the resolution:

"Whereas, the most terrible disaster which has ever taken place on this continent has occurred in the State of California, in which one-half of the city of San Francisco has been practically destroyed by earthquake and fire, and many towns and cities along the coast have suffered from similar devastations, and

"Whereas, in all the afflicted localities there has been wrought much ruin as has resulted in great loss of life and the serious injury of thousands of people; and

"Where as, the destruction of rwelling houses has rendered homeless 100,000 of the inhabitants of San Francisco alone, and

"WHEREAS, There is most urgent needs to bury the dead, care for the injured and shelter and feed the homeless, and

"WHEREAS, The local administrations will for some time be unable to cope with the situation and extend such aid and assistance as is immediately necessary; therefore,

"BE IT RESOLVED, That the sum of $500,000, or such part thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by and under the direction of the Secretary of War in the purchase and distribution of quartermasters and commissary stores to such end and destitute persons as may require assistance in the district devastated by the earthquake and fire.

The Secretary of War is authorized to use the steamers and other boats and vessels belonging to or now employed by the government upon San Francisco Bay or adjacent waters in transportation and distribution of supplies furnished by the United States or individuals to such destitute people, and he may employ such other means for transportation as he may deem necessary to carry the purpose of this joint resolution into effect.

The reading of the journal was dispensed with in order to permit the earliest possible attention of the resolution. In offering it, Mr. Perkins asked for immediate consideration, and dispensing with the formality of reference to a committee. No objection was made, and the resolution was passed without comment.

EXCLUSIVE STORY.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At least five hundred lives are believed to have been lost by the temblor and conflagration. Hospitals and improvised asylums have been arranged to care for injured, hundreds of whom have been treated. Panic-stricken residents who thus far escaped injury are preparing to leave the city in large numbers.

Flames left business center entirely devastated and skipped in different directions to residence portions. As night fell they had made their way over into the north beach section and south along the shipping section down the bay shore.

TAKES ALL IN ITS PATH.

Over hills and across toward Third and Townsend streets warehouses and manufacturing concerns fell in their path. This completed the entire district known as south of Market. How far south is not told, as that part of the city is shut off from the city proper.

After darkness thousands of men, women and children are making their way with blankets and scanty provisions to Golden Gate Park and beach for shelter. Those in the homes in Hayes Valley piled their belongings in the streets. Express wagons and autos are hauling things to the sparsely-settled districts. Everybody in San Francisco is prepared to leave the city, in the firm belief that the city will be totally destroyed.

BUSINESS SECTION RUINED.

Downtown everything is ruin. Not a business house stands.

Theaters are crumbled into heaps.

All newspaper plants are useless, the Call and Examiner buildings, including the Call's editorial rooms on Stevenson street, being entirely destroyed.

The estimated loss will reach $200,000,000.

The streets are full of suffering hundreds, either burned, crushed or struck by falling pieces. Of these ten died on the operating table at Mechanics' Pavilion, the improvised hospital for 300 injured.

At noon a special message from President Roosevelt ordered martial law. Thousands of troops from the Presidio and other reservations patrolled the streets, keeping crowds back, and assisting the fire and police departments. Strict military rule prevails.

During the afternoon three thieves met death by soldiers' bullets while at work in the ruins. All curious men are driven back.

WATER CUT OFF.

The water supply is cut off, but the fire department would have been useless at any stage. Assistant Chief Dougherty of the fire department, superintended matters and early it was seen that the only possible chance to save the city lay in an effort to check the flames with dynamite.

Blasts were heard all day at intervals of a few minutes, buildings not destroyed by fire being blown down by dynamite, but they were jumped by the flames. Brave fire fighters continued with desperation. As night came, flames were eating their way into the parts untouched in the ravages during the day.

To the south and north the fire spread down to the docks and into the residence district. By 6 o'clock practically all the city's great buildings were gone.

CALL BUILDING FIRST.

The first big structure to go was the Call Building. At 11 o'clock, the big stone building was a furnace, and flames leaped from every window. In less than two hours it was a mere skeleton. The Examiner Building followed an hour later.

By 5 o'clock the Palace Hotel was in ruins. The famous hostelry withstood the flames until the last three desperate efforts with dynamite to keep back the blaze.

CITY HALL WRECKED.

The City Hall is a complete wreck. The entire west side front slid down from top of dome to steps. Colossal pillars fell into the avenue far out across the car tracks and thousands of tons of brick and mortar piled into a mountainous heap.

The west wing sagged and crumbled. To the east every vestige of stone was swept away. Only the shell remained to the north and the huge steel frame stood gaping and the débris caught fire.

Every document in every department of the City Hall is destroyed. It will be necessary to entirely rebuild the hall.

Mechanics' Pavilion, covering an entire block, went before the flames in a quarter of an hour.

RESIDENCES GO.

Flames came from the west and fanned by a lively wind, destroyed residences in entire rows, sending cinders into the business houses and leaping gaps made by dynamite so quickly that its rush north was not noticed.

They swept over St. Ignatius Church and the residences, and blazed down to Mechanics' Pavilion. Only shortly before 300 injured had been removed from the pavilion to outlying hospitals.

Flames then spread in all four directions. Confusion reigned; women fainted and fought their way into adjacent apartment houses to rescue something from destruction. The scene made big brave men cry. Weeping tots in mothers' arms, police and soldiers fighting to get women out of harm's way, heroic dashes in ambulances and patrol wagons, after sick and injured, willing men driven back while homes went down before them, all entered into the picture.

TERROR OF FIRST SHOCK.

It was the terrible shock of the first rumbler passing off that sent San Francisco scurrying into streets in night clothes, where they saw to the east and south pillars of flame.

Down in the wholesale district south of Cable and along the section facing the water front the flames appeared.

The fire was beyond control before the first alarm was sent in. The city was beyond saving from the time the first blaze broke out.

Gradually flames stole along Mission and Howard streets, then from building to building, until Seventh streets was reached. In the warehouse district bounded by Sansome on the west and Bay on the north and on the east by East street such structures as the Wellman Peck Building and the Tillman Bendel Building were soon in flames.

SCENES OF HORROR.

Everywhere were scenes of horror. People rushed frantically through the streets looking for missing relatives. Rescue parties formed to save life in burning buildings. Unfortunates dug out piles of débris. Sickened crowds turned away as they saw rescuers driven back by flames that reached down through the ruins to claim pinioned victims.

Steadily the fire found its way into the up-town retail districts. From south and east the south side of Market street was attacked.

One by one familiar buildings went down. Levi Straus & Co., Zellerback & Co., Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson, Hicks, Judd Company, D. N. and E. Walters, W. W. Montague, Donohue Estate Building—all places that have hade the business district—all went.

They cannot be enumerated. The work of the fire was too complete to make that necessary.

PLAYHOUSES BURN.

All of San Francisco's best playhouses, including the Majestic, Columbia and Grand Operahouse, are a mass of ruins. The earthquake demolished them for all practical purposes and at the present time it appears that the fire will complete the work of demolition. The Rialto and Crossley were burned to the ground, as was everything in that district.

The Terminus Hotel at the foot of Market street fell this morning and buried twenty persons under the débris. These were incinerated and there is no possibility of learning their identity.

CITIZENS MEET.

Fifty representative citizens met in conference this afternoon with Mayor Schmitz to consider the disaster and what should be done. The Mayor called the meeting at the Hall of Justice as virtually his first information of the extent of the disaster was the ruin of the big City Hall.

He did not then realize that while the conference would be going on the cornices would be crashing down, windows falling in fragments in the Hall of Justice also, and that before sunset desperate efforts would be made to blow up the structure in a vain endeavor to check the advance of the flames in the northern section of the downtown district.

Almost the first words spoken by the Mayor breathed strongly of the grimness of the disaster.

"Let it be given out," said the Mayor sternly, "that three men already have been shot down without mercy for looting. Let it be also understood that orders be given to all soldiers and policemen to do likewise in cases of any and all miscreants who may seek to take advantage of the city's awful misfortune."

TENTS FOR HOMELESS.

Then the Mayor told what already had been done to lighten the effects of the disaster. He had secured 2400 tents, which already were in process of erection in Jefferson Square, Golden Gate Park, and on Presidio grounds, for accommodation of the homeless.

It was unanimously voted that the Mayor be authorized to draw checks for any amount for the relief of the suffering, all present pledging to make such checks good.

Former Mayor Phelan was appointed chairman of the Relief Finance Committee, with full authority.

The Mayor announced that orders already had been given forbidding the turning on either of gas or electric currents even where possible.

Then the statement was made that expressmen were charging $35 a load to haul goods. The announcement provoked great indignation and an immediate order from Mayor Schmitz, in which Chief Dinan heartily concurred.

EXTORTION TO STOP.

"Tell your men," said the Mayor, "to seize the wagons of all such would-be extortionists and make use of them for public good."

At 10 o'clock tonight the Occidental Hotel was destroyed by flames which swept unchecked across Montgomery street and attacked the block bounded by Montgomery, Sutter, Bush and Kearney. The new Merchants Exchange Building was a mass of flames from basement to tower.

The Union Trust building and Crocker-Woolworth Bank were ablaze and the Chronicle building was smoking and other buildings in that block were threatened.

FIRE STILL SPREADING.

Shortly after 10 o'clock fire had eaten its way southward from Portsmouth Square to Kearney and California streets. The entire section fronting on the west side of Kearney street seemed doomed.

All buildings adjoining the Hall of Justice were ablaze and firemen were striving to save the structure by using dynamite. It is almost a certainty that every building contained in the section bounded by Clay, Kearney, Market and East streets will be consumed.

ST. AGNES' BIG LOSS.

The magnificent church and college of St. Agnes, on the northwest corner of Van Ness avenue and Hayes street, represents in its destruction a material loss of over $1,000,000. The actual cost of the great building was over $900,000, but during the years which have elapsed since its erection the church has been enriched by paintings and frescoes which are priceless.

BURNED AND DROWNED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—Yesterday morning San Francisco was a thriving city, today she is in ashes.

Pen cannot describe the awful scene. Hundreds were killed by falling buildings at the moment of the earthquake. Hundreds of people imprisoned in wrecked buildings were roasted to death. Every conceivable conveyance from automobiles to hand carts was pressed into service to convey injured and dying to improvised hospitals. Special police were sworn in but proved unable to preserve order.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS.

Thirty thousand houses were either partially or wholly destroyed by earthquake and the subsequent fire has swept the city from one end to the other. Hundreds of buildings are burning without any effort being made to check the fire. By tonight it is estimated that there will be 150,000 homeless people.

The number of the dead cannot be roughly estimated. One hundred bodies, about, have been recovered, but hundreds perished miserably in the broken down wooden houses along the water front, on Mission, and along Market street. Falling walls pinned many victims fast and they were compelled to suffer untold agonies while fiery flames crept toward them. Some believe that the number of deaths will reach the appalling figure of 5000, but the number of bodies thus far recovered may be excessive.

CONFUSION ON ALL SIDES.

The entire city presents a scene of indescribable confusion. The fire zone is so large that it takes two and one-half hours to go around it. Every automobile, vehicle and wagon in the city was pressed into service as an ambulance.

Mayor Schmitz appointed 3000 special policemen. It is estimated that aside from the Fire Department, there were 25,000 fire fighters. Marvelous deeds of heroism are reported on all sides.

There were many thrilling rescues. The deeds of valor performed by firemen and police would fill a volume.

HOSPITAL IN DANGER.

The Mechanics Pavilion was early in the morning turned into a hospital for the injured, and a resting place for unfortunate dead.

All of the physicians and nurses in the city volunteered their services. Shortly after noon, the flames hedged the pavilion about, and the injured and dead were removed in wagons and automobiles to the Presidio, the Children's Hospital and other hospitals.

Market street, at the two extremes of fire, and all intervening streets are practically under martial law.

SALOONS CLOSED.

Mayor Schmitz, to prevent disorder, ordered all saloons closed. There were but few cases of theft reported.

The Call and Examiner buildings are already destroyed utterly. The Emporium is reduced to ashes as is the Flood building. The magnificent new store of Hale Brothers was dynamited in an effort to stop the progress of the flames which burned with the same uncontrollable intensity that was manifested in the Baltimore fire.

The City Hall is a grand mass of ruins, totally destroyed. Surrounding streets were choked with the debris. Several other buildings were destroyed as the huge building tottered to its destruction.

The earthquake which did such terrific damage occurred at 5:16 o'clock precisely. The clock on the dome of the Ferry building stopped precisely at that time. The Ferry building itself was cracked and split, but is still in safe condition. Twenty or more wharves, and buildings on them, collasped along the water front.

GIRDER SINKS STEAMER.

The steamer San Pablo was struck and sunk by a huge girder which fell on it. How many lives were lost is not known. Some of the crew are missing but owing to the great confusion nothing definite could be ascertained. Another vessel is reported to have been sunk by the walls of a building falling, but the name of the vessel is not known.

Twisting and turning of the earth broke the electric wires and caused the fires to break out. More than one hundred buildings were dynamited with the hope that the fire could be kept within a certain district.

In the business district at Sansome and Bush streets, flames are supposed to be under control. Twenty buildings were dynamited here.

SCORE DROWN.

One of the particularly sad features of the catastrophe was the drowning of a score or more of persons in the Mission. Apparently, the earthquake was more violent at this point than anywhere else in the city. Depressions of ten feet were made.

The mains of the Spring Valley were broken at this point and flooded

REMOVED VICTIMS BURNED.

Mechanics' Pavilion, used as a general hospital for the injured from all parts of the city, caught on fire at 2 o'clock this afternoon and before one-half the patients could be removed, the building was a sheet of flames and the unfortunates were buried in a tomb ties for this structure to collapse. Fire. The building is old and of timber, and it took less than fifteen minutes for this structure to collapse from this building, was blown up with dynamite to try and stop the ravages of the flames, but to little purpose.

Fire is eating in every direction, and homes on Van Ness avenue are all threatened. Scenes about the Mechanics' Pavilion cannot be described. Every person in the city seemingly is a hero in himself and is acting as nurse, but in the face of the flames these people were driven out of the building and had to see their work of mercy ruthlessly stopped.

HEMMED IN BY FLAMES.

At the children's playground on Harrison and Cleveland streets, 1000 families are gathered with their household goods in the center of the square, hemmed in on all sides by a sheet of flames.

This portion of the city is densely populated and covered with small houses, which are burning like tinder, and the only salvation for the people is to remain for a time where they are until the fire has done its worst.

The sick and injured, dead and dying, old and young, with their household goods, are huddled together here and waiting for the fire to subside, but without home or shelter to look forward to.

ASTONISHING HAVOC.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—In the business district toward the water front the flames were either checked or blocked out about Washington street, and the Hall of Justice could be noted standing but it was impossible to determine what damage had been done to the interior.

From the Hall of Justice to the south the fire cut its way through some of the choicest buildings of the city, the Pacific Mutual and the Canadian American Bank being reduced to ashes.

Down Kearny street, on both sides, at 10 o'clock, the conflagration was still raging with fury but the direction of the wind prevented its advance by the hills to the west. The greater portion of the structures to the west of Kearny street up to Dupont were burned as far south as California.

All around the new fourteen-story Merchants' Exchange Building the fire burned fiercely, licking the sides of the steel giant but it resisted the flames. Then came the destruction of the Western Union Building, at the corner of Pine and Montgomery streets. In this building was located the office of the western division of the Associated Press. Earlier in the day, the occupants had been ordered out by the authorities on account of the danger and the Associated Press made temporary quarters in the Bulletin editorial rooms. Then the latter place was closed and this dispatch is being written on a doorstep near Chinatown, the illumination of the burning buildings furnishing light for the writer.

It appeared that the great Mills Building would block the southward sweep of the blaze, as it had already checked an advance early in the night. If this proves true, the limits of the fire will be determined, but predictions on this point are as unreliable as the strong winds, which every few minutes are changing from one direction to another.

NO LIQUOR.

The city tonight, in the face of its appalling disaster, is fairly quiet and orderly. Liquor cannot be had anywhere, and the formidable presence of Federal troops, militia and naval reserves has had its effect on any element that might be disposed to be disorderly.

It is impossible to give anything like an accurate statement concerning the killed. Unquestionably many people were either killed outright, imprisoned or rendered unconscious in collapsing buildings, which were afterward burned.

While five badly injured men were being taken from the collapsed building at Second and Jessie streets, Fathers Hogan, Rogers and Huber of St. Patrick's Church granted them the last rites of the Catholic Church. This ceremony was performed while a mass of coping overhead threatened to crush the priests to death. Three of the men died.

The entire Larkin street frontage of the City Hall for a distance of several hundred feet was thrown out onto the street, and the thoroughfare for two blocks was piled high with masses of mortared brick and twisted iron.

The pastor of St. Francis Church, a few blocks from the raging furnace below, gathered his flock about him on the sidewalk, where all knelt in prayer.

The Chinese were greatly alarmed and though not in apparent danger, many of them flocked to the public squares with their families.

The tower of the Hall of Justice was badly damaged. In the basement of the building Mayor Schmitz established his headquarters, using candles for light.

NO GAS NOR ELECTRICITY.

There was neither gas nor electric light in San Francisco during the night. The plant of one of the gas companies blew up in the morning and as a measure of precaution all the other gas in the city was turned off.

It will be many days before the complete story of the ruin brought by the calamity of earthquake and fire that visited San Francisco will be written, and then there will still remain untold countless tales of pitiful tragedy.

The exact loss of life will never be known, as hundreds of unfortunates have been incinerated in the flames which made the rescue of those buried under toppling sleepless and falling walls impossible. Temporary morgues were improvised at many points only to be razed by the flames.

At present, the city resembles one vast shamble, the fire throwing weird shadows across the worn and panic-stricken faces of the homeless who are wandering the streets or sleeping on piles of mattresses and clothing in the parks and on the sidewalks in those districts not yet reached by the fire.

Forgetting for a moment the terrible suffering, physical and financial loss that trails in the wake of the disaster, the scene presented by the flames is one of unspeakable grandeur. Looking over the city from a high hill in the western addition, the flames can be seen rolling skyward for miles and miles, while in the midst of the spouting and belching tongues of red fire can be seen the blackhead skeletons and falling towers of the doomed buildings.

At regular intervals, the booming of dynamite tells of the work of the brave army of men attempting to save the city from complete annihilation.

A falling wall from one of the dynamited buildings on Mission street crushed out the life of Firman Max Fenner, while countless others met a like fate.

CLIFF HOUSE DISAPPEARS.

Not a Thing Stands to Tell Where Monster Stone Pleasure Resort Was.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—From the Cliff House comes word that the great pleasure resort and show place of the city, which stood upon a foundation of solid rock, has been swept into the sea. Not a thing stands to tell where the monster stone building once stood. It has been leveled to the foundation and only the rock lining the sea coast remain intact.

We Cure Men

Others May Treat, But We CURE
Blood Poison

Strictly Reliable

On account of its frightful hideousness, specific or contagious poison in the blood is the worst of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted. Once the system is tainted with it, the disease may manifest itself in the form of scrofula, eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, eruptions or copper-colored spots on face or body—little ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, swollen tonsils, falling out of the hair or eyebrows, and finally a leprous-like decay of the flesh and bone. Our specific treatment for this trouble, varied and modified to suit each individual case, is an unfailing cure to which a vast army of restored men today owe their sturdy health.

CONSULTATION FREE AND INVITED. Write, if you cannot call. All correspondence strictly confidential and all replies sent in plain envelope. Office hours—9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Evenings, 6:30 to 8. Sundays, 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

MEN

I Know What I'm Promising You

When I say I can CURE YOU I say this without FEAR or HESITATION, because the EXAMINATION I give you is THOROUGH AND SEARCHING. After my DIAGNOSIS of your case is made I know that with my SUPERIOR knowledge and equipment I can get at the ROOT of your trouble and MASTER it. I am not afraid to work, and with your help can give you the results you are looking for.

Varicocele Cured 4 to 6 Days

Many men suffer from varicocele and have many times treated without satisfactory results. I want to say to all such that my treatment personally applied will cure you in 4 to 6 days, and the cure will be permanent.

Functional Decline

Termed Weakness by Some

The success I have had in restoring functional derangement has been a great surprise to many who have met with failure in former treatment. It's the right treatment applied in the right way that brings the satisfactory results. By my direct method all inflammation is removed and free, healthy circulation is established.

Contracted Diseases

Failure to quickly cure these conditions is due to harsh measures, which are the direct cause for chronic conditions. My treatment is most cleanly and perfect.

I cure Rectal, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Piles, Fistula and Blood Diseases, Wasting, Nervous and Chronic Conditions, causing functional derangement, impairing strength and vitality.

There is absolutely no disorder and confusion in Oakland, notwithstanding the thousands of refugees who have been brought across the bay today.

At this hour the light from burning San Francisco does not appear to have diminished, and is almost, if not quite, as brilliant as last night.

Although the flames have swept their way three miles westward from the water front, the entire sky is illuminated by the glare of the unchecked conflagration.

There is no wind and only the faintest suspicion of a breeze here tonight, but it is said there is a stiff breeze blowing over San Francisco.

A gigantic column of smoke hangs over desolated San Francisco, the apex forming fantastic shapes thousands of feet in the air and slowly drifting away to the northward.

Although telegraphic communication was established this evening with the Ferry building on the San Francisco side, only a very limited amount of matter could be handled.

The telegraph company would receive but few hundred words of press matter, giving wires over to pressing commercial business. The telegraph companies are completely swamped by the enormous volume of messages reaching here, as well as by the crush of business filed for the outside world.

Valencia street has sunk ten feet. A creek existed here at one time and this had since been filled in. Here the entire street has been moved aside and has executed a wide curve, instead of its usual straight length. The street is forty feet out of line.

A brisk wind has risen and the flames are carried from Chinatown toward Taylor and Jackson streets, where stands the beautiful Tevis home.

At this writing, the only recognizable thing on Market street is the Tilden fountain, at Battery; Lotta's fountain, at Kearny street, and the Volunteer monument at Mason street.

Zinkand's restaurant is no more. The Hibernia Savings Bank is burning briskly. The Postal Telegraph building is a seething furnace.

The Palace Hotel is an unrecognizable mass, the Grand Hotel a pile of bricks. The Chronicle building is the same. The new James Flood building, costing over $3,000,000, is a crumbling pile.

Van Ness avenue, the pride of the city, is torn and full of huge cracks. All that remains of beautiful St. Mary's cathedral is the blackened tower, which is liable to fall at any moment.

...ROWING STORIES.

...ATED PRESS—P.M.]

...Refugees from ...rowded to pour into Oakland until a late hour tonight. While no one was taken from this side of the bay to San Francisco after 6 o'clock, the ferries continued to land their cargoes of humanity to this side.

Many harrowing stories of hardship were told by the refugees, women in particular having the most pitiable experiences. One lady, the wife of an Associated Press employé, walked from the Western Addition, seven miles around the burned district and endured all sorts of hardships in order to reach the water front at North Beach, where she was taken aboard a tug and later transferred to an Oakland ferryboat.

She said that she had had nothing to eat for almost two days and that her experience was not exceptional, but that there were tens of thousands of people far out on the hills toward the West Beach, in Golden Gate Park, in vacant lots, and along the North Beach water front, without food or water.

THOUSANDS CAMPED.

Many were seeking to reach the ferry but thousands were camped in the hope that fire would soon exhaust itself and that they might be able to return to the place where their homes once stood, or to their houses, should they be so fortunate as to have one left.

In the extreme west end of the city, the few grocery stores remaining open were besieged by hungry crowds and their supplies quickly exhausted. In one place, two men fought over a bag of walnuts, the only food remaining in the store. It is said that a loaf of bread sold for a dollar and that soda crackers retailed at 50 cents apiece.

Oakland is feeling the effects tonight of the great influx of refugees from the burned city across the bay. Every restaurant in this city was "eaten out" by 8 o'clock and the doors closed because no supplies could be had until morning. Thousands of people are wandering through the city, seeking a place to sleep and there are few private homes tonight that do not house a refugee from San Francisco.

SEND CASH AND PROVISIONS.

Fresno Citizens Raise $34,000 and Collect Three Carloads of Eatables. Chinese Give $1000.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

FRESNO, April 19.—Fresno citizens today at a mass meeting in the Barton Operahouse raised $34,000 in cash for the San Francisco sufferers. Three carloads of provisions were also collected and forwarded tonight. The Chinese contributed $1000.

Company F of the National Guard received a telegram from Col. Whitemore to hold themselves in readiness to go to San Francisco to do patrol duty. At midnight, the companies were ordered to assemble in the armory and to prepare to leave at daylight.

OAKLAND FEEDS AND HOUSES REFUGEES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OAKLAND, April 19.—Oakland, the largest suburb of San Francisco, tonight housed and fed practically 50,000 refugees of the fire-stricken city across the bay. All day the stream of humanity has poured from the ferries, everyone carrying some sort of hand baggage and other articles saved from the conflagration.

Thousands of Chinese, men, women and children, all carrying luggage to the limit of strength and fleeing from their quarters that had long been one of the show places for San Francisco visitors, mingled with the crowds and poured into the limited Chinese section of Oakland.

Thousands besieged the telegraph offices, and the rush became so great that soldiers were stationed at the doors to keep them in line and allow only as many to pass as could find standing room at the counters.

During the greater part of the day there has been a throng of people loitering around the Seventh-street depot. Many of them are residents of Oakland who have no work to do and who are simply killing time. Some of them are refugees from San Francisco who have no place to go to and are satisfied to stand around and take part in the scene of excitement attending the arrival of trains.

This morning this sign, in large characters, was hung in the vestibule of the Seventh-street depot:

"Southern Pacific Railroad Company, Office of the Superintendent, Oakland Pier.

"To Agents: At 8 o'clock a.m., an order from Gen. Funston, the commanding officer of San Francisco, will read as follows:

"'Do not furnish passage to a single person to San Francisco until further orders. We cannot handle them.'

[Signed] "W. R. SCOTT,
"Superintendent."

This refusal was inspired by the idea of keeping San Francisco from becoming congested with people.

Every train from San Francisco brings hundreds of refugees, carrying luggage and bedding in large quantities. Many of the women are bareheaded, and all of them show fatigue and the result of sleeplessness and exposure to the chill air of last night.

Hundreds of these people line the streets in the heart of town, waiting for something to turn up or some one to come along to provide them with shelter.

Early this morning, representatives of the Oakland General Relief Committee appeared on the streets and especially at the Broadway depot.

One of the immediate effects has been the raising of restaurant prices from 25 to 100 per cent.

The State Board of Bank Commissioners has opened offices in this city, and announces that the commission will do all in its power to ameliorate the stringency caused by the terrible calamity which has befallen the State, and will meet with the bankers of the State to devise ways and means to this end.

Many San Francisco commission houses and insurance agents are securing quarters in Oakland for the transaction of business.

William Gorham of San Francisco, president of the Gorham Rubber Company, suffered the loss of his entire plant, and stock. The former was valued at $200,000, and the latter at half as much.

EARLY SUMMARIES.

The Postal still has one wire going to Oakland, and is doing its best to move the thousands of messages which are pouring into Los Angeles for Bay City points. All of these messages are anxious inquiries as to the safety of relatives.

As seen from Oakland, the fire is still burning fiercely, and it is thought the city will be entirely consumed, or at least the thickly-built parts.

No one is allowed to land on the San Francisco side, and the ferries are busy carrying people to Oakland.

Thousands passed the night under the trees at Golden Gate Park.

The city is still under martial law. The authorities are raking all near-by towns for dynamite to blow up buildings in a futile effort to check the flames.

The Call and Examiner buildings are now a mass of ruin.

The streets in some sections are reported to have sunk 20 to 30 feet.

The fire fighters are becoming exhausted with their herculean labors.

The damage in Oakland amounts to $1,000,000. Five lives were lost. Berkeley has experienced much damage.

Leland Stanford, Jr., University is a mass of ruins, and the damage is over three millions of dollars.

A number of people are reported killed at San José.

7:30 a.m.—Oakland reports San Francisco still burning, and from all appearances on that side of the bay the city, excepting the high points, has been destroyed. There have been no shocks since midnight. People are still coming over in the ferry, but no one is yet allowed by the military to land in San Francisco. Very little can be learned on this account, as those who arrive bring meager knowledge of the conditions.

Owing to the mass of business pressing upon the telegraph companies and the frequent interruptions to wire service, it is almost impossible to reach points north of San Francisco. Santa Rosa was the heaviest sufferer apparently; whether anything remains of that city this morning cannot be told.

Napa, Vallejo and other towns suffered property losses running up into the tens of thousands of dollars.

The special train from Los Angeles bearing Gen. M. H. Sherman, members of the Supreme Court and other officials and men of prominence, was reported in the Oakland block of the Southern Pacific early this morning.

Word has been received at New York by the Western Union Telegraph Co. that the fire has spread to Nob Hill, one of the finest residence sections of San Francisco.

Two slight shocks of earthquakes were felt at Claremont this morning.

Vesuvius has begun operations again and ashes are falling on the small towns around the mountain.

"The Times" relief fund is growing. The Farmers and Merchants National Bank has subscribed $5000 and J. A. Graves $200.

Schilling, the great San Francisco tea merchant, says he has lost every dollar he had in the world by earthquake and fire.

At 9 a.m. the fire is still raging. No possibility of checking flames. Whole city is doomed.

The Secretary of the Treasury has authorized $10,000,000 transferred from the sub-treasury at New York to San Francisco.

Gen. Funston says 20,000 people are homeless.

Two small shocks at Washington, D. C., this morning.

Food is very scarce in San Francisco. Provision houses are all destroyed.

Later reports say that the U. S. Mint in San Francisco is gone, with all its treasure.

At San Jose the entire business portion is in ruins this morning, and loss of life is reported at 150 persons. The city is under martial law and streets are patrolled by troops. All the hospitals are crowded with dead and dying. The electric light plants are ruined and the city was in darkness last night. Both the Courthouse and Hall of Records have collapsed.

The collapse of the Strose Hotel and Grand Hotel and two brick buildings used for lodging-houses at Santa Rosa buried many victims in the ruins. Thirty-eight bodies have been taken from the hotels and it is said at least one hundred are covered by the fallen walls. Great damage was done to buildings.

The report generally circulated early this morning that the town of Tracy has been destroyed is false. Slight damage to buildings is the extent. No lives lost.

The latest estimate of the number of dead is 1000.

Santa Rosa is burning.

Western Union operators at Oakland are fearful of another shock.

All the San José churches have been destroyed.

Breaking wires doing damage in the small cities along coast.

Managers of all insurance companies meet tomorrow to discuss situation.

Many wounded are being taken into Oakland.

Chicago has guaranteed $1,000,000 to aid San Francisco, and $100,000 was forwarded today.

A Chicago special to The Times says that by an earthquake in Lake Superior region, one man is dead and four men injured.

No damage was done to Lick Observatory, reports R. H. Tucker, in charge.

A New York dispatch says Clarence M. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph Company, tonight telegraphed to President Wheeler of the University of California at Berkeley, saying he will contribute $100,000 toward the erection of a new building for the university.

A special telephone message to the Morning Press, Santa Barbara, from Salinas, states that the town suffered from two distinct shocks shortly after 8 o'clock this afternoon. As the message was coming over the wire, still another shock was felt in the city.

Although today's earthquakes have done very little damage in Salinas, the inhabitants are greatly disturbed, and fear a repetition of Wednesday's disaster, which did much damage to property.

The Governor has declared Friday a legal holiday.

The Santa Fé Railroad's agents are landing people from San Francisco at Point Richmond in barges.

Offers of aid are being sent to San Francisco from all parts of the country. Rockefeller has authorized the expenditure of $100,000 in relief work.

Strong vibrations lasting six minutes were felt at Honolulu today.

PITTSBURGHERS ANXIOUS.

Inquire As to Safety of Prominent People From Whom No Word Has Been Received.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Of leading Pittsburghers in San Francisco the majority lived at the St. Francis, St. Nicholas, Occidental and Palace hotels, and there is great anxiety here as to their safety.

Those sought are Dr. J. C. McNell, mother and sister; eGorge S. Garret and family, S. Jarvis Adams and wife, St. Nicholas Hotel; Mrs. F. O. Van Gorder, J. T. Lotz, Arthur Fairchild, Palace Hotel.

These are some of the leading Pittsburghers, and a hundred or more are supposed to be in the heart of the burned district.

WAR DEPARTMENT ACTS.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Prompt action has been taken by the war department in etending to the earthquake sufferers of San Francisco all the available resources at its command and to provide shelter for the homeless. Two hundred thousand rations have been directed to be sent from Vancouver Barracks to San Francisco and a large number of tents from Vancouver and other military posts. The supplies wil be forwarded with all the expedition possible, so that they may be at the disposition of the authorities at the earliest date practicable.

General Funston, who is in command of the army at San Francisco, has been asked whether he needs additional troops to assist him in his work and if so Secretary Taft will give orders that they be sent to him. General Bell, the chief of staff, remained on duty all night making his headquarters at the White House offices and sending orders in various directions for despatch of supllpes to San Francisco.

AT HERALD'S PARIS OFFICE.

PARIS, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hugh S. and Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, Mrs. and Mr. E. R. Brainerd, Jr., of Los Angeles, registered at the New York Herald today.

STANFORD'S DAMAGE IS FOUR MILLIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—The following signed statement sent out for the Associated Press by President Jordan arrived here tonight:

"The earthquake did great damage to the buildings of Stanford University.

"Only two lives were lost, one that of a student named J. R. Hanna of Brradford, Pa.; the other, a fireman, Hans Stroh. Eight students were injured, none seriously.

"The buildings wrecked are the Memorial Church, the new library, the gymnasium, the memorial arch and the power house. Many buildings of the outer quadrangle are badly damaged, as well as some of the shops. The chemistry building and Encina Hall, the inner quadrangle, are practically uninjured. The damage will reach $4,000,000.

"The books, collections and apparatus are not greatly damaged.

"This message, together with 400 private messages from the university community, are sent from Sacramento, as all telegraphic communication to Palo Alto and all around the bay is cut off.

"DAVID STARR JORDAN."

QUAKE LOSSES DROP STOCKS.

New York Still Panicky Over Terrible Disaster.

All Western Securities Are Much Depreciated.

Insurance Companies Prepare for Big Payments.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Wall street was thrown into a panicky state today as a result of the further calamitous news from San Francisco. The terrible destruction of property, the loss to great railroad and industrial corporations, and the scanty news combined, threw a gloom over the stock market which frightened many holders of securities.

Liquidations continued from the opening of the Exchange until the close. There were no rallying powers exhibited in the market, and the full sense of the devastation visited on life and property in the western city began to be appreciated by the Stock Exchange.

Stocks were thrown overboard, and as the day advanced the weakness became more pronounced. The close was very weak, and the market was demoralized.

INSURERS AT SEA.

Lack of definite information regarding the extent of the damage resulting from both earthquakes and fire in San Francisco made it impossible today for officers of the great fire insurance companies of this city, who carry risks on San Francisco property, to do more than give approximate figures of what the insurance loss will be.

The conference of insurance men which will be held within a week, probably in this city, will be the most important which has ever taken place in the history of the business. It is conceded that the losses will be tremendous, and while they will be divided between the American and British companies, the amount of money which will be taken from local companies will be enormous in the aggregate.

BIG WRITINGS ON COAST.

There is not yet any way of computing the amount because of a lack of definite knowledge of the area destroyed, but an approximate idea may be gained from the statement that American companies carry risks in California which foot up $470,000,000 and of this, fully 30 per cent. is written on San Francisco property.

Willis C. Robb, secretary of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, said that the insurance companies would have to stand a very great loss in San Francisco and to avoid paying damages on demolished buildings the companies would have to prove that they were entirely destroyed by earthquake shock.

Here are some of the larger contributions by local concerns and individuals to the San Francisco relief fund:

Stock Exchange brokers (estimated) $200,000; Consolidated Cotton, Coffee and Metal Exchanges and anonymous gifts $150,000; John D. Rockefeller $100,000. Ladenburg Thalman on behalf of the United Railways Investment Company, Ladenburg Thalman and Company, Patrick Calhoun, and C. Sidney Shepherd, Ford, Bacon & Davis, $75,000; M. Guggenheim Sons $50,000; J. P. Morgan and Company $25,000.

MONSTER EASTERN BENEFITS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Under the auspices of Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and at the suggestion of Henry Miller and Miss Margaret Anglin, a call was issued tonight for a meeting of San Franciscans who are living or visiting in New York, in the Casino Theater Saturday morning.

Plans which were begun today will then be perfected for an entertainment to be given at the Casino a week from Sunday afternoon and evening, which promises to eclipse in the character of those who will take part anything theatrically since a benefit of Lester Wallick some years ago.

Besides Miss Anglin and Mr. Miller, it is expected that Mrs. Fiske, Miss Maude Adams, Miss Blanche Bates, DeWolf Hopper, David Warfield, Arnold Daly, Henry Woodruff and many others will join in a programme which will become historic in the annals of the stage.

Jack London has been asked to write a poem which will be read and somebody yet to be determined upon will deliver an address.

JOINT PERFORMANCE.

The association of theater managers of the city held a meeting today, after which they announced that a monster benefit performance will be given under their direction in the Metropolitan Operahouse on Friday, May 4. Practically every company in New York drama, music and vaudeville will contribute to the programme which will be so long that it will last from 11 a.m., until midnight.

Tickets will cost only $1, and the managers' association contributes $1000 to the receipts.

The gross receipts of tomorrow's afternoon and evening performances in the Hippodrome will be donated to the relief fund, Henry S. Black, one of the Hippodrome directors, having donated the use of the building as a tribute to the women of California, the usual performance being given.

The affair is under the patronage of Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs and other women prominent in society who are disposing of the tickets so rapidly that it is expected $20,000 will be realized.

WASHINGTON DISTURBED.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Weather Bureau today issued the following bulletin:

"Two small after shocks of the San Francisco earthquake were recorded on the seismograph at the Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C., during the night and this morning.

The first shock was decidedly stronger than the other one, although both were very slight compared to the original disturbances. The principal portion, that is, the strong motion in the first shock occurred at 8:46 p.m., and in the second shock about 2:03 a.m. The motion in the second shock was especially feeble and ill-defined.

(Signed) "WILLIS L. MOORE,
"Chief U. S. Weather Bureau."

THE GOVERNOR HOPEFUL

OAKLAND (Cal.) April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Pardee has issued the following statement:

"The appalling calamity which has befallen the metropolis of the State and it's neighboring cities, leaves one without words to express one's feelings. No one yet fully grasps what has happened, although it is to be hoped that the stories concerning the loss of life are greatly exaggerated. The loss of property from the earthquake, of course, though small in comparison with that resulting from the following conflagration, would have been serious enough to have aroused the attention of the whole world.

"It has been a source of pleasure among all the harrowin thoughts of this day of terrors, to have received from the Governors of a dozen or more States, messages of sympathy for our stricken city and its people and may be needed. The President of the United States sent two dispatches of condolence, sympathy, inquiry and proffers of assistance.

These messages, in our hour of deep trouble, give us assurance that our distress is shared by our friends in other States. San Francisco, though hard hit, is not by any means destroyed. The courageous people will soon recover from their dismay, and the city by the Golden Gate will arise again, a new city, one that we shall be even prouder of than of the old one.

"While we are for the moment daunted, despair is far from our thoughts.

"GEORGE C. PARDEE,
"Governor of the State."

FROM GEN. FUNSTON.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The War Department received today the following from Gen. Funston, dated San Francisco, April 19:

"Your four dispatches received. Have already filed several for you. It is impossible now to inform you as to the full extent of the disaster. City practically destroyed. Troops have been aiding police, patrolling and maintaining order. Martial law has not been declared. Working in conjunction with civil authorities. Have not interfered with the sending of any dispatches.

"You cannot send too many tents or rations. About 200,000 people are homeless. Food very scarce. Provision houses all destroyed. All government buildings in city gone."

MILES OF CABLE.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The Western Union today sent to San Francisco ten miles of aerial cable and wire necessary to completely equip the new office in this city. The consignment went by special train, following a carload of telegraph instruments, which went on the Overland limited. Chief Electrician McKissick and a number of assistants left for San Francisco last night. Salt Lake and Portland have been drawn upon for additional operators to man the extra wires as soon as connections are made.

CALL TO THE WOODMEN.

All the Woodmen of the World in the city are called by Past Head Consul Folen to meet at Woodmen Temple this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock to devise ways and means to render substantial aid to the afflicted in San Francisco. The Woodmen have already given $500.

SAN DIEGO AWAKE.

SAN DIEGO, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A telegram has been received from E. S. Babcock by A. E. Babcock stating that neither Babcock nor H. E. Doolittle, guests at the Palace Hotel, are injured.

Mayor Sehon has issued the following appeal: "To the people of San Diego—There are one hundred thousand people in San Francisco without food or shelter. Their need is great and imperative. We must help them at once, and to our utmost ability.

"A committee of prominent citizens has been appointed to take charge of this relief fund.

"Every bank in the city is authorized to receive funds.

"Make your checks payable to the order of 'San Francisco relief committee.'

"JOHN L. SEHON,
"Mayor."

NAVY YARD ESCAPES.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A telegram received at the Navy Department today from the commandant at Mare Island Navy Yard, sent since the earthquake, reports that $1000 will cover the damage done there. No mention is made of any injuries to any of the people of the yard.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Prompt action has been taken by the War Department extending to the earthquake sufferers of San Francisco.

ON NOB HILL.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Western Union received a report that early this morning the fire spread in the Nob Hill section of San Francisco. This is the section in which are located many fine residences, including the Crocker and Huntington homes.

GOLD FROM NEW YORK.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Secretary of the Treasury has authorized the telegraphic transfer of $10,000,000 from the Sub-treasury at New York to San Francisco. The cash will be deposited in New York and immediately paid on the order of San Francisco banks entitled to the same.

THE SPRECKLESES.

PARIS, April 19.—President Falleries has telegraphed to President Roosevelt an expression of France's most profound sympathy with the United States in the disaster in San Francisco. The ministerial council today discussed the catastrophe at San Francisco and decided to forward condolences. M. Morland, chief of the protocol at the foreign office, called at the American embassy during the day and personally conveyed to Ambassador McCormick an expression of sorrow for the republic.

There are many San Franciscans here, including a number of the Spreckels family, and they are in a state of anxiety, as repeated telegrams bring no response concerning the fate of relatives. The presence of the Spreckels here is preparatory to the marriage of Miss Lurline Spreckels to Spencer Eddy, secretary to the American embassy at St. Petersburg.

BUENOS AYRES CONDOLES.

BUENOS AYRES, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Señor Baires, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has wired Secretary Root the sympathy of Argentine in the San Francisco catastrophe. All foreign diplomats who have visited the American Legation express condolence.

ARCHBISHOP RIORDAN WEEPS.

CHICAGO, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco is stunned by the calamity that has overtaken his city. He wept when he heard that the cathedral was in ruins. He has abandoned his eastern trip.

IDAHO CITIZENS GIVE AID.

BOISE (Idaho) April 19.—At a meeting of citizens held this afternoon at the call of Mayor Pinney $5000 was raised for the San Francisco relief fund.

MAN WHO SITS ON VESUVIUS.

LIVELY JOB OF A SCIENTIST ON HOT VOLCANO.

Prof. Matteucci of the Royal Observatory Near the Awful Crater Injured Several Times But Still Sticks to His Post in a Bombardment of Missiles.

In the matter of sitting on lids Prof. R. V. Matteucci, director of the Royal Observatory on Vesuvius, can give points to either Secretary Taft or a reform New York Police Commissioner. He has been sitting on the Vesuvius lid for ten years or more, and although at times cut and pounded by volcanic bombs, which once sent him into a hospital, he shows no desire to quit.

The observatory, says the New York Tribune, has stood for sixty years, more or less, intact. It is about 2000 feet above the level of the Bay of Naples, on a little hill called San Salvatore at the foot of the great cone.

This hill acts as a sort of lava breaker, turning aside the streams which pour from the crater, so that the observatory is free from peril except from bombardment by stones and other volcanic missiles. It frequently has been damaged in this way, and during the present eruption all its windows have been broken. The building consists of a single story raised on terraces and containing laboratories, offices and living-rooms for the director.

The observatory was built by the Italian government in 1841 and has been presided over by four different directors, the first of whom, Signor Melloni, was forced to flee from the country on account of certain revolutionary political opinions which he entertained. The second director, Prof. Palmieri, became famous for his invention of the seismoscope, an instrument which produces electro-magnetic seismographs.

Prof. Palmieri also distinguished himself by remaining at his post during the eruptions of 1872, when the observatory was set on fire and partly destroyed by showers of red-hot stones from the crater. The successor of Prof. Palmieri and the predecessor of Prof. Matteucci was Signor Semmola.

Prof. Matteucci is not blind to the perils of the lid on which he sits, but he seems to like his job. When the other day he was driven by the violence of the eruption away from the observatory he lost no time in returning the next day.

"I love my mountain," he recently said, speaking of his work there. "I could not leave her. I am wedded to her forever. My few friends say that her breath will scorch and wither my poor life one of these days; that she will bury my house in streams of liquid metal, or raze it to its foundations. Already she has hurt me, has injured me sorely. Yet I forgive her; I am hers always."

Prof. Matteucci's daily work at the observatory consists in observing dynamic and meteorological phenomena, noting the movement and aspects of the volcano and classifying and rearranging all the existing and newly-gathered materials. He usually rises with or before the sun, and does his own cooking. Each day he calculates the total number of explosions, examines and collects the matter ejected and takes photographs at close range.

The most serious accident which has happened to Prof. Matteucci occurred during the eruption of 1900. He has given the following account of that incident:

"I was standing not far from the crater's edge, taking photographs. The energy of the explosions was increasing enormously; and aware that a still greater outbreak was preparing, and that there was not a moment to lose, I hurried away from the edge of the abyss, calling loudly to my assistants to follow me.

"We could not run very fast, as the cone was covered with immense quantities of loose stone which had been ejected during the preceding few days. I remember we ran westward, toward the plain of the Fumaroli, or smoke-vents.

"We were hardly sixty feet from the edge of the crater, when an awful explosion took place. At that moment my only thought was of my scientific work, so I stopped and turned eagerly toward the stupendous column of smoke which rose into the sky.

"Instantly I found myself in the midst of a shower of stones. How I avoided them I cannot say.

"They whistled and screamed like projectiles in a battle. I did my best to avoid the larger rock masses, which always fall first. My camera was smashed to pieces, and while stooping to regain the lens I lost my balance and fell into a mass of burning hot ashes.

"I rose in great pain, gathered up the pieces of the camera—for it contained some very valuable films—and then, profiting by a quiet interval, I crawled down the mountain, imperatively ordering my companions to leave everything and come with me. In our retreat we lost many fine examples of bombs and scoriae covered with a glittering metallic glaze.

"On reaching the foot of the cone I did not at first realize that I was hurt. I was most grateful to have escaped death.

"The guides, however, pointed out that my chin, and, indeed, all my face was covered with wounds and bruises. My clothes were scorched and my hands and arms bleeding.

"Later, I found that I was also very badly bruised about the body; my left foot was badly hurt, and, worst of all, my right knee had been struck by an enormous bomb in rebound. I was obliged to go to the hospital in Naples and remain there for several months."

In 1895, 1897, 1899 and 1903 there were displays of activity on Vesuvius which occasioned much alarm for the safety of the observatory and its director. In 1899 a secondary crater opened up, vomiting fire and ashes, emitting lava streams and rocks between the building and the foot of the cone, filling up the Piano delle Ginestre. Prof. Matteucci did not desert his post, although he was urged to do so.

Although the observatory has so far escaped destruction, there is no assurance that its location on the hill of San Salvatore always will serve to protect it. With a volcano craters come and go. One torrent of liquid fire may entirely demolish a crater, or another may spring up in a night like a mushroom.

During the eruptive period of 1903-04 several driblet cones were formed in the great lava field in the Atrio del Cavallo. Three of these driblet cones burst simultaneously on September 22, 1904, and their united explosions, as counted by Prof. Matteucci, watch in hand, amounted to no fewer than 160 a minute.

The electric railroad which takes tourists to the Upper Funicular station below the crater has been an object of much annoyance to Prof. Matteucci, as the electric system so near his laboratory has seriously affected his instruments.

Prof. Matteucci is an enthusiast in his work. Often, it is stated, in the dead of night, he will have his guides take out his laboratory tent and pitch it on the very verge of the crater, or on the side of the cone

AUTOMOBILES.

AUTOS AT WHOLESALE—
Read these prices for automobiles.
They are as good as new.
This week's sale to sell 7 machines. Six out of the 7 were sold to dealers. Why not buy your auto direct from us and save big money?
Come early and get a bargain.
REMEMBER, a second-hand auto of good make is better than half a dozen new machines of cheap make such as go on the market now.
We have the following—
1 Oldsmobile auto with detachable tonneau, cost $1000. Sell for $300 cash. This machine with the tonneau off will make a powerful runabout, and will carry 4 or 5 people with the tonneau on.
1 Pope-Toledo, as good as new, cost $3850. Sell for $1800.
1 Haynes-Apperson touring car, three good as new; first-class looking car, with top; carry 6 or 7 people; this machine cost $3200. Sell for $700.
1 Northern runabout, with extra searchlight and top. This is a first-class car. Looks as good as new; cost $950. Sell for $300.
1 Tourist auto, with tonneau, 3 cylinders; in first-class order; $250.
1 Stevens Duryea. Can travel 40 to 60 miles an hour; 2 cylinders; has leather top; suitable to carry 3 or 4 people; cost new $1450. Sell for $500.
1 small runabout steamer, cost $700; sell for $150.
All of the above machines are in first-class running order, and for sale at the above prices, but no trade whatsoever taken.
Call Sunday, 10 to 1 o'clock.
Week days, 8 to 12:30 only, or evenings, 6 to 7:30 rear of residence, 214 W. Pico st.

WE ARE DEALERS IN THE AUTOMOBile line, we buy, sell and exchange; don't buy or sell until you see us; watch for our Sunday specials. ROBERTSON & HARRIS, 57 N. Union st., Pasadena Cal. Home 765, Sunset 2092.

PARK PLACES.

FOR PARTICULAR PEOPLE.

Wouldn't you like to own a home that was so located that you would be able to take it into a park with your own gardens and terraces, on a beautiful elevation, and set to fine orange trees, with plenty of room for your own choice of ornamental trees, in addition to those already on the place? This would be from anything else that you can find in the county and will give you the ideal home-place, of which you could boast to your friends and enjoy thoroughly yourself.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

We have just such an opportunity in Alhambra and the only one, and the amount of land is very limited. We wish to have it placed in the ownership of parties who will appreciate it and properly develope it, for we know that it is the ideal home site in the county. We have seven (7) acres for the whole piece, which would make beautiful home, or could be subdivided into acre lots, all of which could be improved, so as to be home parks; we can sell it all or in parts and ask for your examination. If you are interested in securing something particularly fine.

ANNANDALE HEIGHTS.

Selections of lots may now be made in this beautiful tract, located on Eagle Rock boulevard, ave. at an elevation of 200 feet above the sea. Like all our tracts, the lots are large, full-sized lots for actual homes and not toy lots, or seaside sites, nor two-thirds of a lot masquerading as a lot. These lots are 50 feet or more in width and of good length. Many of them are over 200 feet long, for terms as easy, one-tenth down and balance $1 or $10 per month. Prices from $150 up. The location, in the beautiful foothills between Garvanza and Eagle Rock, is unexcelled for home building.

Buy before the car line is completed and reap the benefit.

Our office is open Sundays.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Many varieties of weather were offered to the Chicago public today. Fair weather, with showers interspersed and a sudden drop of 20 deg. temperature inside of an hour in the afternoon were the leading features. A narrow zone of threatening weather to the southwest is responsible for the gray day prophesied by Forecaster Cox for tomorrow. From a maximum of 76 deg. at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the mercury receded to 49 deg. at 7 o'clock in the evening.

KILLED THE WOMAN.

Having learned that Jennie Page, 21 years old, formerly of Pontiac, Ill., has been giving the presents of money and jewels which he lavished upon her to another man, Albert Tweeth of Morris, Ill., a Board of Trade speculator, son of a wealthy family living in Aurora, Ill., and well-to-do in his own right, shot and instantly killed the woman last night in the parlor of the Kaiserhof Hotel. He then shot himself twice in the head, dying almost instantly.

WOMAN GRAPPLES ROBBER.

Threatened with death by a robber who entered her candy store at No. 2714 Shields avenue, this afternoon, Mrs. Emma Griffith grappled with the intruder, Charles Hilgendorf, 28 years old, snatched the revolver from his hand and shot him twice, the second time inflicting a fatal wound. Then she calmly sat down and waited for the arrival of the police, who took the dying robber to the People's Hospital.

HARRIMAN'S TRAVEL.

E. H. Harriman, New York millionaire and railroad president, will reach Chicago at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning on his way to San Francisco. Harriman will board a private train when he reaches this city, and the race to the West will be against time.

HARD BLOW TO UNIONS.

Judge Mack yesterday delivered one of the most stinging blows that has been given against the rules governing labor organizations and especially those identified with central organizations. He granted an injunction to the National Stone Cutters' Society, restraining the officers and members of the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Association of North America from interfering with members of the former organization. The court made a strong ruling against central organizations and councils of local trades when he declared the sympathetic strike was a form of boycott and that the boycott was illegal.

SOCIETY AT WEDDING.

St. Chrysosoma Church in Dearborn avenue was filled with society people yesterday at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Chew, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Hamilton Chew, No. 23 Astor street, to Theodore Weems Forbes of Baltimore. Bishop Anderson officiated. A large reception followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents, the decorations being all in pink and white.

TO DIVIDE WITH SAN FRANCISCO.

The Chicago Vesuvius Relief Association which was brought into existence by prominent Italian merchants of Chicago has decided to divide its funds between the Vesuvius sufferers and the San Francisco victims.

REPRIEVE FOR BUSSE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Governor late tonight granted a reprieve until August 10 to Louise Busse, sentenced to hang tomorrow morning.

HUMPHREY WON'T REPLY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.) April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judge J. Otis Humphrey yesterday declared that he would make no reply to President Roosevelt's criticism of his decision. "I don't care to discuss my stand in the beef packers' trial," he said. "My judicial decision is a matter of record and must speak for itself."

HUGGED AGAINST WILL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PRINCETON (Ind.) April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Nellie Montgomery entered suit yesterday against Stephen A. Douglass for $3000 damages, claiming he hugged and caressed her against her will. The parties are well known here.

PACIFIC SLOPE.

FIREMAN KILLED IN A COLLISION.

TRAINS MEET ON A CURVE NEAR TEMPE, ARIZ.

At Only Spot on Maricopa and Phoenix Railroad For Twenty Miles Where the Track Makes a Bend, Engines Come Together Wrecking Freight and Work Cars.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An extra freight train collided this evening with a northbound work train on the Maricopa and Phoenix Railroad, about five miles south of Tempe.

A curve, being the only one for twenty miles, on the line prevented a clear view until it was too late.

Fireman Roy Hutchison of the freight train was ground to death in the ruins of his engine.

Engineer Frank Goodrich of the freight train was caught in the gangway as he tried to jump, and is so crushed that he may die from the effects of his injuries.

Last year Goodrich lost a leg when his locomotive dropped through a bridge into the Salt River.

JUDGE REFUSES TO QUASH.

Kansas City Railroad Men Charged With Violating Commerce Law Must Stand Trial.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KANSAS CITY, April 19.—Judge Smith McPherson, in the United States District Court here today, overruled the motion to quash the indictments returned last December against George F. Crosby, traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway, and against L. B. Taggart and George L. Thomas, freight brokers, charged with conspiracy to violate the interstate commerce laws in the soliciting of rebates and the giving of rebates on packing-house and other products.

Judge McPherson sustained the government's demurrer to the motions of quash, and in his decision held that the conspiracy statutes apply to all kinds of offenses against the Federal Government. Motions relating to the similar indictments now pending against other railroads, packing-houses and officials, are yet to be argued.

BOSTON FEARS FOR TOURISTS.

Newspapers of Town Overwhelmed With Queries Regarding Relatives and Friends in 'Frisco.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The most intense interest exists here for tidings for Bostonians and New Englanders now in San Francisco as tourists. Two of the largest tourist agencies in the East have headquarters in Boston, and these had recently sent trainloads to the Pacific Coast.

All the Boston and Providence theaters are preparing to hold benefits for the earthquake sufferers, and Boston's contributions alone will reach many hundred thousands.

The newspapers are overwhelmed with queries regarding relatives and friends in the doomed city.

REWARD FOR "TOTO."

Strenuous Efforts to Locate Stolen Baby Smith Fail and Mother Is Frantic With Grief.

Despite strenuous police efforts no trace of "Toto" Smith, the 2-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Smith, has been discovered. The child was kidnapped from the home of William Harver near the County Hospital on Tuesday afternoon by a woman known as Lizzie McGuire, and it is feared taken away from this city to the North.

The woman and child have been seen

"TOTO," the stolen Smith baby.

but once. They were in Eastlake Park with a man, and the officers thought the trio sitting on the grass was a family on a little outing and did not interfere. The woman appeared at the Harver home ragged and hungry and told a story of mistreatment and hard luck which moved the hearts of the good people, and they took her in and gave her food and lodging. They were endeavoring to secure work for her.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Smith left her child in the care of the Harvers while she atended to business in the city. The McGuire woman took the boy and said she was going to give him an airing, but so soon as she had reached a point some distance from the house went to Eastlake Park and was joined by a male companion. When she failed to return with the baby the police were notified, but all efforts to trace them after they left the park have proven futile.

The McGuire woman bears a bad reputation, and it is feared she took the child for begging purposes, and with the little one and her male companion went to San Francisco. The mother of the baby is frantic with grief and fears she will never see her child again. The fear that the baby was taken to San Francisco adds greatly to her anxiety. She is poor and without funds to prosecute the search for the kidnapped child. Yesterday Mr. Harver notified the police that while he is not a rich man he will gladly pay a reasonable reward for the return of the baby to the mother.

Lizzie McGuire is a tall woman weighing about 200 pounds. Her face is powder marked and she has the scar of a bullet wound in the center of her forehead, and another on her left wrist. When last seen her clothing was in rags and her shoes in shreds, but it is believed she is a professional beggar, and she may have very good clothes for wear outside of business hours.

HARPERS BOOKS

THE SPOILERS

By Rex. E. Beach

Novels are like men: Strong personalities, virile emotions, energy and resource forge to the front and are quick to catch the public eye. This same magnetic force in THE SPOILERS—the work of a new writer—has immediately caught the reading world in its grip. They can't let go.

Why?

It is the story of a strong man, by a strong man, for strong and grown-up men to read. It tells a vigorous tale of a land where the conventions of society have no place. It is big with adventure, passion, love, strife — the primal emotions at white heat.

The key-note of the story is, "There's never a law of God or man runs North of Fifty-three." At stake are woman's love, the wealth of the gold-ribbed hills, and the mastery of all for the man who has strength to seize and hold it.

Novels like THE SPOILERS are read at a sitting. Once the story is begun!

Autoist Runs Down a Peace Officer and Then Tries to Bully Him But Fails.

When Harry Burt ran into J. S. Hendrickson with an automobile at the corner of Fifth and Spring streets yesterday afternoon and tried to bully him he found he had bitten off more than he could masticate with comfort. As a result he will have to face a charge of battery in the Police Court. Hendrickson is night watchman at Chester Place. He was crossing the street when Burt, in a big White touring car, bore down upon him. The motorist did not sound his horn or give any other warning, according to Hendrickson. Hendrickson sprang to one side, but one of the fenders struck him and his right knee and arm were severely injured.

He forced Burt to stop and then asked his name. The autoist refused to tell his name and ordered Hendrickson to stand clear of the machine so that he could go ahead.

"He acted like I ought to have apologised for getting in his way or being alive at all," said Hendrickson later. "I refused to let go the machine, and then he was going to 'lick' me, but when he discovered that I was an officer he changed his tune and climbed out of his machine to brush me off, and played the 'good dog.' He ran into the wrong man, however this time. I did not want to place him under arrest at the time, but immediately went to the prosecuting attorney's office to secure a complaint charging him with battery. After I got there I found the office closed on account of a holiday having been declared, but I will get the complaint tomorrow, if they will give me one."

IT IS MURDER NOW.

Lodging-house Proprietor Dies From Effects of Knife Wound Inflicted During Trivial Quarrel.

F. B. Perkins, proprietor of the New Orleans lodging-house, No. 713 East First street, died yesterday at the Pacific Hospital from the effects of a knife wound inflicted Monday night by Perry Horner, a rancher. Horner had engaged a room at Perkins's place and there was some difference of opinion between the men as to the price which should be paid for it. A quarrel followed by a fight was the result and Perkins was stabbed in the abdomen. Everything possible was done to save his life, but peritonitis set in and death followed. Horner is in the City Jail and will be charged with murder. He stated at the time of his arrest that an attempt had been made to rob him and that he had used his knife in self-defense.

NEW POLITICAL CLUB.

Ninth Ward Union Organization Born Full Grown and Expected to Be a Power.

The Ninth Ward Union Club, Republican, was organized last night in a hall at No. 733 Alisc street, and forty signed the register, while forty-five applications for membership were received. The new club was born full grown, and promises to be the strongest political organization in the ward.

Owing to the northern disaster there was no discussion of politics or the club's policy last night, but when the routine business had been transacted the entire time was given to the discussion of the situation in the doomed city.

Several addresses were made by prominent citizens of the ward regarding the situation, and it was agreed that the club will make a donation to the relief fund. Today this fund will be collected and turned over to the Chamber of Commerce. Just what amount will be obtained is not known. A number have promised subsctantial subscriptions.

Anthony J. Norton was chosen president, W. Davis vice-president, and Vincent Sotelo, secretary. A meeting will be held Thursday night in the same hall.

Food for Starving and Clothing for Naked Are Sped Northward.

Southern Pacific Clears Track for Swift Special That Should Reach Oakland Tonight With Precious Burden—Fast Steamer Sails With Similar Cargo—Governor Tells of Urgent Want Among the Suffering.

TO GO NORTH on passenger schedule the special relief train made up by the Chamber of Commerce and the Southern Pacific pulled away from the San Fernando street freight house last night at 8 fourteen cars in all. Nine more carloads were sent to San Pedro to go north by boat, making twenty-three carloads in all.

Laden with supplies of foods, tents, etc., priceless to the homeless thousands of San Francisco, this train has the right of way today over everything that turns wheels on the Southern Pacific railroad.

Down from headquarters went the sweeping order. This train must be in Oakland tomorrow night. That was all the operating department wanted. One of the largest and fastest compound locomotives on the road was ordered out and attached to the train.

Conductor N. R. June waved his lantern, and the train which may mean life and death to hundreds in the stricken city was off. At the north end of the yards it was going at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour and rapidly gaining headway, under the hand of Engineer Pat Casey.

And from the time that the first wheel turned the entire operating force of the Pacific system began a vigil over that train such as not even a President's special is given.

WHEELS WILL WHIRR.

Under orders to go as fast as wheels will turn, the crews feel safeguarded in knowing that their train is receiving such care and attention as was never accorded a freight train before. Switches have been ordered spiked. Track-walkers will patrol the way ahead of its coming, and at the ends of divisions relief engines are under steam and manned by their crews, ready to pick up the train and whirl it northward again without the slightest delay. Extra engines have been ordered under steam along the way to provide for possible breakdowns for motive power. And if it lies in the power of the railroads to do it, the Southern Pacific is going to land this train safely in Oakland tonight.

At about the same time, four big freight cars weighed down with stores of clothing and provisions for the sufferers at San Francisco left last night at 8 o'clock over the Salt Lake road to San Pedro, where they were immediately placed aboard a steamer, which sailed with all speed for the north. As fast as other provisions are received at the Salt Lake yards they will be loaded into guarded freight cars, and when a certain amount is accumulated, will be forwarded to San Francisco.

These trains are sent out at the urgent request of Gov. Pardee and General Manager Calvin of the Southern Pacific.

Five cars of provisions were purchased outright yesterday afternoon by Thomas A. Graham, assistant general freight passenger agent under orders from Mr. Calvin to R. H. Ingram.

The remaining cars of the train were furnished by the Chamber of Commerce, through purchase of donations, and were assembled in remarkably short time.

Brig.-Gen. Wankowski of the California National Guard, yesterday ordered out Companies A and C of the Seventh Regiment to guard the relief trains at the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake depots, while the supplies for the stricken city were being loaded on the cars.

GOVERNOR'S APPEAL.

"For God's sake rush all cooked food to San Francisco as fast as possible," telegraphed Gov. George C. Pardee to the Chamber of Commerce at noon yesterday.

And right nobly did the Citizens' Committee respond to this appeal.

This list exhibits everything received up to midnight and embraces various amounts previously acknowledged.

WILL ACT AND SING FOR NOBLE CAUSE.

Professional and Amateur Entertainers to Give of Their Talent and Time in Unstinted Portion for the Good of the Needy Ones.

LOS ANGELES responded liberally yesterday to the pressing call for aid from the North. Thousands of dollars poured forth, a trainload and a shipload of provisions, clothing and even water were sent out, and the Citizens' Relief Committee and other relief bodies made plans for still greater things to come. In moneys already contributed and pledged the amount late last night had reached an approximate total of $145,000. Of this amount, the sum contributed and pledged to the Citizens' Relief Committee totals about $50,000, the fund subscribed through The Times totals $45,058.68, and various large subscriptions make up the remainder.

Moved by the colossal tragedy which has spread dark ruin over all the country by the Golden Gate, benefits by both professional and amateur entertainers are to spring up on every hand. Proceeds of large concerts already arranged will be turned into the kindly fund; special entertainments are to be given by secret organizations; concerts planned to help other beneficiaries are turned over to the San Francisco need; theatrical men and women are planning benefits; special plays are to be staged for the purpose at several theaters; schools are designing novel performances; managers who have not been solicited are rushing into print with wholesale offers of all their resources to any one who will employ them toward this noble end.

CHORAL SOCIETY CONCERT.

Tonight the final concert of the Los Angeles Choral Society is to be given at the Mason Operahouse. The proceeds were to have been devoted to the Italian relief, but fully believing that charity begins at home, the membership of 200 men and women petitioned in a body yesterday morning that the fund might be turned toward the alleviation of suffering San Francisco. It will be so disposed. Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" will be given in their entirety. The Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra will unite in this work. The soloists include Tom Karl, tenor; Mrs. Catherine Collette and Miss Maude Reese-Davies, sopranos; Harry Barnhart, bass, and Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins, contralto. Arnold Krauss is concert master of the orchestra.

NOVEL PASTORAL PLAY.

Perhaps the most novel idea was proposed yesterday by Miss Constance Crawley, the talented English actress at present visiting in this city. She has tendered her services—and the services of her entire company—for a performance to be given in pastoral fashion in one of the public parks a week from Sunday afternoon.

Miss Crawley was former leading woman of Ben Greet, most famous exponent of pastoral plays in the United States, and can be relied upon to give a brilliant and artistic representation. Through her manager, Arthur Meade, Miss Crawley will probably find out today if the city is willing to donate one of the leading parks for this purpose. She has just canceled her engagements at Berkeley, Stanford and Notre Dame, and will devote her time to work for the northern sufferers.

The pastorals presented by Miss Crawley's company include "The Taming of the Shrew," "Romeo and Juliet," and "As You Like It." Students from the various dramatic schools have volunteered their assistance, and should the city decide to accept the play, it will probably be given in memorable fashion, and with an unusually large number of supernumerary people.

Several years ago Mme. Modjeska presented "As You Like It" at the Childs residence on Main street as a benefit for the Red Cross fund during the Spanish-American War. More than $3000 was realized from this.

"MUCH ADO" TONIGHT.

"Much Ado About Nothing" is to be presented by the Cumnock Dramatic Society at Cumnock Hall tonight under the auspices of the Galpin Shakespeare Club. The entire proceeds are to be forwarded to San Francisco at once. The play is to be put on under the direction of Miss Jane Butt, who will be seen as Beatrice. Garnet Holme also will be seen in the cast.

Yesterday afternoon Oliver Morosco, manager of the Burbank Theater, decided to add to his already munificent benefit offerings by a gift of 10 per cent. of the entire proceeds of "Barbara Frietchie," which play will be given at that theater next week.

MACCABEE MINSTRELS.

The Maccabees have just decided to repeat their well remembered minstrel performance, as a benefit in toto for San Francisco. Mr. Morosco has donated them the Burbank Theater, and all its attaches for Tuesday afternoon, May 1, and every effort will be made to make a record revival of their laughable sketch. The Committee of Arrangements is composed of Robert Sharp, C. J. Walter, Fred Anthony, E. M. Guthrie and A. W. Plummer. Tickets are to be had at No. 220 South Spring street, at No. 222 Coulter building, and at No. 238 South Main street.

The concert, which was to have been

MILLION DOLLARS FROM LEGISLATURE?

THE following dispatch, sent from this city last night, explains itself:

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 19, 1906.

Hon. George C. Pardee, Oakland, Cal.

Chamber of Commerce Citizens' Relief Committee in session respectfully but urgently suggest to you the propriety of calling immediately an extraordinary session of the Legislature with a view of appropriating a million dollars or more for relief of earthquake sufferers.

[Signed] OWEN M'ALEER, Mayor.
CITIZENS' RELIEF COMMITTEE,
By F. Q. STORY, Chairman.
FRANK WIGGINS, Secretary.

Constance Crawley, English actress, who proposes most novel benefit, an outdoor performance in a city park.

given last night by the East Los Angeles Choral Society, under the direction of J. P. Dupuy, has been postponed until next Tuesday evening. It will take place at that time, and all the proceeds will go toward the alleviation of San Francisco's suffering.

LITTLE GIRLS ASSIST.

Stella Gonsales, the little lass who has been working up a benefit for the Vesuvius sufferers, decided this morning to change the benefit so that its proceeds would apply to San Francisco. Little Muriel Fuller, daughter of Manager O. B. Fuller of the Pioneer Truck Company, yesterday morning volunteered her services in selling tickets. Muriel is a clever child actress, and is permanently engaged at the Grand Operahouse for the season. The benefit will take place next Thursday afternoon at the Hotchkiss Theater.

Another society, which is planning a beneficiary entertainment, is the Welsh-Scotch-Irish Association, which will give a Benefit entertainment early next week at Simpson Auditorium.

ITALIANS WILL DIVIDE.

For the past two weeks none have worked harder than the residents of our local Italian colony, who have been planning a huge benefit performance for the Vesuvius sufferers, which will be given tomorrow evening as per arrangement, at the Mason Operahouse. At a meeting of the Italian Relief Committee, held yesterday morning in the office of Consul Castruccio, it was decided that the need of the San Franciscans is just as great as the need of the Neapolitans, and consequently the proceeds will be fairly divided, half going across the water to loved ones in Italy, and half north to the suffering neighbors at home.

The programme includes the grand finale from the second act of "Aida," to be played by Chiaffarelli and his band; duet from the opera, "Il Trovatore," by Signora and Signor Garibaldo Bolli; acts of mimicry by Aldo, the Italian impersonator; trumpet solo by Sig. Eliseo DeMittris; soldiers' chorus from "Faust," sung by the Verdi Choral Society, under the direction of Pietro Buzzi; monologues by Sig. F. Migliore, in English, French, Spanish and Italian; the overture to "William Tell," by Chiaffarelli's band; aria from "Il Trovatore," by Mrs. Edith Janison Lowe; violincello solo, by Mme. Manasco; violin solo, by Natoro Blumenfeld; prison scene from "Il Trovatore," by Sig. Buzzi and Mrs. Alice Dorn; aria from "Carmen," by Mrs. Myrtle Rogers Kelly; air from "Pagliacci," sung in costume by Sig. Domencio Russo.

Upon the suggestion of the Mayor that theater receipts might be donated for a single evening, Manager Blackwood, of the Belasco Theater, said that he believed much greater profits would accrue to the worthy undertaking if the night should be advertised for a period of several days. Some action along this line will probably be taken.

FOR SUFFERING TOTS.

Outside of professional and semi-professional circles just as much interest is being taken in the grand charity. The musicale and reception which Mrs. Jefferson D. Gibbs is managing, the proceeds of which were to go in the name of the Mothers' Congress, for the support of a bed in the Children's Hospital, will now be turned toward the relief of suffering children in San Francisco. Women of the city are planning to patronize it largely on this account, for every heart must go out to the poor little children of the stricken city.

The musicale is to take place next Wednesday afternoon, and some of the most prominent women of the city have volunteered their services in the interest of the cause. Prominent women who are lending their energies to the movement are Mmes. Josiah Evans Cowles, Henderson Hayward, Nicholas E. Rice, John H. Norton, John Bigelow, W. F. Botsford, J. H. Martindale, H. H. Kerckhoff, F. O. Johnson, J. T. Fitzgerald, Lee W. Foster, Harry R. Callender, Mary J. Schallert, Barthold Baruch, Russell J. Waters, W. W. Murphy, William T. Johnston, J. West Hughes, E. K. Foster, E. W. Britt, O. Shepard Barnum, Philip Gerhardy, William J. Scholl, D. M. Riordan, S. S. Salisbury, Stoddard Jess, Isaac Milbank and J. W. Hendricks.

BEHYMER'S OFFER.

L. E. Behymer has just offered his entire working force of ticket sellers, door-keepers, ushers and advertising men, as well as the box-office force, for any and all benefit purposes that the relief committee may care to stand sponsor for. He has many local artists —singers, instrumentalists and readers—in his office lists, who are anxious to do what they can in the way of financial assistance, Mr. Behymer has offered his professional services in arranging press work and advertising, and the services of his stenographers for any and all benefit services.

Final arrangements for benefits, so far as the theaters are concerned, will not be completed until today. The Managers' Association will in all probability call a general meeting this morning at which the Mason, Belasco, Burbank, Orpheum and Grand will be represented, and ways and means will be discussed. It is known that the theatrical men favor a non-partisan union in preparation for one grand benefit affair by the professional people, and such a union will probably be announced in a day or two.

The C. T. Burch and Nat Reiss Dog and Pony Show, now exhibiting at Eleventh and Flower streets, will turn over its entire gross receipts for this afternoon and evening to the relief fund.

ODD FELLOWS ACT PROMPTLY.

GRAND MASTER PHELPS LEAVES FOR THE NORTH.

Local Lodge Tenders Five Hundred Dollars to Members Who Have Suffered — Destruction of Temple in San Francisco a Grievous Loss to the Organization.

W. W. Phelps of Riverside, grand master of the Odd Fellows made arrangements to leave for San Francisco yesterday in the interests of his order.

Los Angeles Lodge, No. 35, of Odd Fellows, at a meeting Wednesday night, telegraphed to the grand secretary of the order to draw on it for $500 for the relief of members of the order suffering from the San Francisco fire.

One of the veteran Odd Fellows of Los Angeles said yesterday that the destruction of the Odd Fellows' Temple in San Francisco and the archives it contained will cause an irreparable loss to the order.

The building cost probably $250,000, and was the meeting place for thirty-six lodges. In its art gallery were pictures of the various grand masters of the order. In the archives were records of the proceedings of the grand lodge for fifty years. The order in California has grown to a membership of 40,000. The records were swelled proportionately.

The grand lodge meeting was to have been held at the temple in San Francisco on May 8, at which time 1000 delegates were to have been in attendance. Other provision will doubtless be made for the accommodation of the delegates.

CHARITY BASEBALL.

BIG CONTEST FOR MONDAY.

The Seattle and Los Angeles ball players are not to be outdone in the fire and earthquake benefit line, and purpose to have a big game at Chutes Park next Monday afternoon, the entire proceeds to be given to the Los Angeles fund for San Francisco. All the players, the umpire and all the persons connected in any way with the game will donate their services, and in addition will pay to get into the grounds. The admission will be 50 cents, and every man, woman and child that enters the ground will have to put up the price, the free list being absolutely suspended for this occasion. Even Manager Morley and all his employés must pay.

It is expected that this benefit will net $3000 or more, and if nothing prevents, all the champion pugilists now in this city, from Jim Jeffries to Abe Attell, will act as special policemen, or will sell peanuts or do something to coax the people there and make them give up their money when they get there.

TENTS FOR NORTH.

ORDERS TO FIRST BRIGADE.

Brig.-Gen. Wankowski, commanding the First Brigade, National Guard of California, acting under instructions received from the office of the Adjutant-General at Sacramento, sent messages to all the twenty-three organizations of his command, ordering that all wall-tents, poles and pins be prepared for shipment North. This will result in the sending of about 350 large tents to the stricken cities, capable of accommodating upwards of 2000 people.

EPISCOPALIAN AID.

BISHOP JOHNSON'S CALL.

The clergy of the city, without regard to denomination, are uniting their efforts to bring the most liberal gifts possible to the relief fund. Bishop Johnson of the Episcopal diocese of Los Angeles, is the first to make official call upon the membership of the churches in his charge, having issued the following address yesterday:

BISHOP'S OFFICE, No. 523 South Olive street, Los Angeles, April 19, 1906. My Dear People: In the presence of such an event as within the last twenty-four hours has brought suffering and sorrow to the hearts and into the homes of thousands of our brethren and fellow-citizens of this State, I am calling you to prayer for those "under affliction," and to a devout remembrance of those so suddenly taken out of the activities of this life. God has in this dispensation some wise purpose to serve. Let us humbly, as we kneel in His presence, ask Him to disclose that purpose to us and by it lead many souls to a realization of the "shortness and uncertainty of human life."

This event emphasizes the claims of brotherhood, and I am, therefore, requesting the clergy throughout the diocese to ask from the members of their respective parishes and missions, gifts for the sufferers in San Francisco and adjacent cities. A special collection will be made on Sunday next in every church of our communion in Southern California. And I request that every person who by baptism has been made a member of the church of God should either contribute to this offering on that occasion or before Tuesday by a remittance through the mail to the parish treasurer.

The clergy are requested upon the coming Sunday, after the close of the sermon and before the offering is collected, to say the Lesser Litany, as a special act of devotion. At the same time using the prayer for those "under affliction" and the collect in the visitation office, 'O God, whose days are without end."

The offerings may be sent directly to Bishop Nicholas, diocesan house, No. 731 California street, San Francisco.

Commending you to the loving care of Almighty God. Sincerely yours,

JOSEPH H. JOHNSON.

CHARITY DANCE.

ZIONIST BENEFIT BALL.

At a called meeting of the Young Zionist Association last night it was decided to give a monster benefit ball, the proceeds to go to the destitute and homeless in San Francisco. A committee, consisting of S. Stein, Al Horowitz and Ben Davidson, was appointed to take in charge the arrangements for the affair. They will arrange the necessary preliminaries with the aid of Secretary Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce, and further particulars will be announced later.

TENT CITY FOR THE TENTLESS.

CORNADO BEACH COMPANY DONATES SHELTER.

All of the Canvas Habitations of the Coronado Beach Resort Are Offered for the Use of the Sufferers. Will Accommodate Five Thousand People—San Diego Donations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Coronado Beach Company, owned by Spreckels Brothers of San Francisco, has donated the tents of Tent City for the use of the San Francisco sufferers. The tents will accommodate 5000 people.

A popular subscription is being raised for the San Francisco homeless. U. S. Grant, Jr., heads the list with $1000; George W. Marston donates $250; Mayor Sehon gives $100; the banks will add to the contributions.

There is no foundation for the report that E. S. Babcock of this city, a guest at the Palace Hotel, is safe. No word has been received concerning him.

PLENTEOUS PROMISE.

HELPING HANDS HELD OUT.

The Boyle Heights Livery Stable, A. J. Howland, proprietor, will donate its entire receipts next Sunday to the relief fund.

All offerings made next Sunday morning at the Church of the Ascension will go to the aid of the stricken.

The entire clerical force of the J. R. Newberry Company, in Los Angeles and surrounding cities, 233 in number, has instructed Mr. Newberry to deduct one day's pay from their salaries for the relief fund. The total will be $1000. It is likely that this example of liberality will be followed generally.

Park Congregational Church will take an offering on Sunday morning for the destitute in the stricken district. Rev. John H. Cooper, pastor, will preach a sermon entitled "Relation of Disaster to Providence."

Division Commander George W. Conart has called a special meeting of W. S. Rosecrans Camp Sons of Veterans, to be held tonight at the Munsey store, No. 406 South Broadway. United action will be taken in contributing relief.

The proprietors of the Imperial Café have tendered to the Citizens' Relief Committee one-half of the entire gross proceeds of their establishment today. This probably will amount to $1000.

Mrs. Eisen, secretary of the Needlework Guild of America, has called a meeting of members for 2 o'clock this afternoon at her home, No. 2426 South Figueroa street, to vote clothing and supplies for the northern sufferers.

TO AID BROTHERS.

ROYAL ARCANUM DONATES.

The Associate Council of Southern California of the Royal Arcanum will meet today to decide upon plans for the handling of the relief funds now being raised by the order. A subscription list was started yesterday and Grand Regent Robert F. Jones headed the list with a donation of $100. A committee, of which Ford Smith of No. 315 South Broadway is the treasurer, has the matter of subscriptions in charge. All members of the order who wish to contribute are requested to send their donations to the treasurer of the committee. The money raised is to be used in aiding those among the sufferers in San Francisco, Oakland and San José who are members of the order.

YOUNG MEN GIVE.

RAISE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

At a meeting last night of Montgomery Council, No. 473, Young Men's Institute, $100 was raised in response to the call for financial assistance for the earthquake and fire sufferers in San Francisco. Several members of the local council have gone north to investigate the conditions existing and render what assistance they can.

CHURCH FEDERATION.

MINISTERS AND LAYMEN.

Rev. E. P. Ryland, in accordance with action of the Church Federation, of which he is president, invites all ministers of the city to unite with the federation in a meeting to be held at the Young Men's Christian Association at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of arranging for a systematic call upon the membership of all the churches in the city. It is the purpose to take a special offering for the relief of the sufferers on Sunday, and also to provide for the donation of articles of every description.

SEND THE CASH.

CALL FOR TAX LEVY.

REAL ESTATE MEN ACT.

At a meeting held in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, the Los Angeles Realty Board resolved to raise $10,000 for the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake and fires in the central part of the State from the real estate men of Los Angeles. And further, in recognition of the fact that thousands are rendered homeless and thrown out of work for an indefinite period in San Francisco alone, the realty board sent the following message to the Governor of California.

"Los Angeles Realty Board respectfully petitions you to convene a special session of the Legislature for the relief of the sufferers from the recent earthquake and fire calamities. We urge you to recommend a liberal appropriation to be covered by special assessment in the next tax levy."

President Merrill appointed the following committee to raise the $10,000 subscription: W. M. Garland, chairman; Byron Erkenbrecher, F. W. Flint, Jr., Gilbert Wright, O. E. Farish.

It was resolved that the money should be turned over to the committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce for distribution.

A resolution of sympathy was prepared to be telegraphed to the San José Real Estate Agents' Association as soon as a wire to that city is open.

RELIEF ITEMS.

JEWISH WOMEN MOVE.

The Jewish Women's Relief Association is arranging for a juvenile concert for the benefit of the suffering children of San Francisco, to be held on May 1. They desire that all talented children who may be willing to donate their services for the concert will notify Mrs. Bertha Hirsh Baruch, No. 1061 West Thirty-sixth street, or Mrs. I. Myers, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, No. 213 North Olive street.

The Volunteers of America started a fund for the relief of their people in San Francisco yesterday, and today Adjt. Hughes will go North to investigate their condition and to see to rendering all relief possible.

A general meeting of the lodges of the Fraternal Brotherhood was held last night, and an organized step taken for the relief of their brethren who have suffered in the North. A committee was appointed, of which Dr. W. J. Haney is chairman, and William Mead, supreme treasurer of the order, will handle the fund. Lodge No. 7 subscribed $200, and No. 9 will probably do the same tonight. An appeal will be sent throughout the entire jurisdiction for the benefit of the sufferers.

SONG FESTIVAL.

PROCEEDS FOR RELIEF.

At a meeting of the central committee having in charge arrangements for the Sunday-school Festival of Song, a resolution was adopted giving all the net proceeds of the concerts to the relief fund. Rehearsals for these concerts have been in progress for the past month, under Messrs. Tuller and Meredith, who were brought here from New York under special engagement at a fixed price, already provided for, and there is no percentage or rake-off of any sort for the profit of anybody. The original intention was to place the net proceeds in bank as a guarantee fund for the same kind of a demonstration next year, and to insure the expenses of a parade of the Sunday-school forces, but it will now go to the relief fund.

The concerts will be given in a large tent in Fiesta Park, the grand concert of 1000 voices on next Thursday evening, and the Sunshine concert on Friday evening by a juvenile chorus of 1000 voices, to be followed by the parade on Saturday. There will be seats for 5500 people at each concert.

SCHOOLBOY'S PLAN.

CANVASS FOR FUNDS.

Grant Powell, of the A-8 class of the Breed-street school, has written to The Times of his desire to reach the pupils of all public schools and to induce them to join in a contribution of whatever fund they are able. He suggests that each school appoint a committee of three to canvass each room and to turn this money into a common fund, to be forwarded through The Times.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

WILL TAKE CONTRIBUTIONS.

Organized charity, represented by the Associated Charities of Los Angeles put its shoulder to the relief wheel yesterday by offering to accept contributions of all kinds for the sufferers in the north. The Finance Committee of the organization, which includes W. C. Patterson, J. C. Kays, Mrs. W. S. James, Mrs. Stella Wever and Miss Frances Trew, ask that money, clothing and supplies of all kinds be sent direct to the association, at room 3, Los Angeles Courthouse. T. J. Stuart, secretary, and Clara C. Carver, assistant secretary, are in charge.

The Associated Charities works in conjunction with the organization of the same name in San Francisco, and will send everything received direct to that body, which will see that wise distribution is made of all contributions. There are thousands of homeless families, especially among the poor, who will look to the Associated Charities of the stricken city for immediate care and relief.

Mrs. James of the local Finance Committee is making every effort to relieve the suffering. She has offered her services to headquarters. Mrs. Alice Bollman of No. 832 South Olive street, who has worked with charitable organizations in Philadelphia, has offered her services to the Associated Charities of San Francisco.

A subscription list has been started by the local Associated Charities, Mrs. James heading the list with $50, similar contributions being made yesterday by W. C. Patterson, Mrs. Felix C. Howes, Mrs. J. S. Slauson and "a friend." Mrs. L. Ducommun gave $20, making a total last night of $270.

FLORISTS GIVE AID.

UNITE FOR BIG BLOOM SALE.

All of the retail florists and flower growers of Los Angeles and vicinity have united to aid the sufferers of San Francisco. They will contribute flowers for a sale which will be held at the Broadway Department Store Friday and Saturday, all the proceeds of which will be donated to the relief fund.

Proprietors of flower stores have agreed to close their establishments on these two days so as to divert the trade to the Broadway, whose owners have generously assigned sales space and a window display.

The committee of the florists which has the affair in charge is composed of Morris Golderman and E. R. Reserve.

MASONS RESPOND.

HELP FROM THE OUTSIDE.

Masons throughout the country are telegraphing to Mtoley H. Flint, Grand Master of Masons of California, tendering him such assistance as may be necessary to aid in relieving the suffering in the north.

"Grand Master Blum tenders sympathy and assistance to the extent of Mississippi resources," wires Grand Secretary Frederick Speed at Vicksburg, Miss.

"If needed for Masonic relief at San Francisco, draw on R. F. Frymeyer, Grand Treasurer, Waco, Tex., for $500.

CURIOUS AND ACTIVE FIGURES IN THE HORSE SHOW AS SEEN THROUGH ARTISTIC EYES.

HORSE SHOW PRIZES FOR RELIEF FUND.

The second night of the horse show found an increased attendance despite the general gloom over the city. The crowd was not what was anticipated, more of the fact that the association is donating all receipts to the relief of the sadly stricken inhabitants of San Francisco.

Not many tickets sold for the seats that did not find their way into ticket-takers' hands, and yesterday afternoon there was a marked falling off in sales.

The feature of the second night was the donation to the association by Shattuck & Desmond of all cash taken in the heavy delivery teams entered by the association for the benefit of San Francisco.

Immediately after the ribbons were awarded the Shattuck winners, Superintendent Telegraf announced the generous donation, which was received with great applause. This was followed by others to turn their winnings over to the association, and the total swelled by more than $500. Tonight many others will follow suit.

Henry A. Butters, who has a large stable at the show, was called north yesterday, but his horses will be shown by others, and the classes will not be shortened.

ELEVEN FINE CLASSES.

There were eleven classes shown last night, including pacers, single horses for town use (which numbered nineteen entries,) saddle horses, harness tandems, ladies' saddlers, heavy delivery teams, polo ponies, road four-in-hands, gymkhana games, or potato race, ladies' pairs, and thirteen jumpers.

Each class was complete, and the animals shown were fully up to the standard of those exhibited the first night, and again horse lovers had opportunity to feast their eyes and give vent to admiration in thundering applause.

The gymkhana game is the clown stunt of a horse show, and furnished wholesome merriment to the audience.

In the jumping class Secretary Ashbrook had another opportunity of showing his recent find, Alhambra Bell. With a little more practice this horse will develop into a top-notcher.

Mildred S., driven by Mrs. Douglas

Prizes set by Shattuck & Desmond will return all cash to the association.

Manager of the show served notice on the advertiser for the second night on the exhibit have been in the extreme.

Judge Douglas, who is judging tonight that he is in the class of events arranged, of which carry heavier than many of the eastern horses attended horse shows at Madison Square Gardens and elsewhere. Douglas, "but I have never seen a better class than has been here. I will not except Madison Square Gardens, and must say that Los Angeles has achieved a decided success as a horse show city.

It is hard to find a show more conducted strictly up to date.

She takes the hurdles without the use of whip and spur and her greenness is all that is against her.

This afternoon there will be a matinée, including eleven star events, in which will be shown hunters, breeding mares, combination horses, pairs over 15.2 hands high, roadsters, roundabout class saddle-hack ponies, stallion three gaits; special performance by Mrs. A. Douglas's Mabel Rex and roadster pairs.

The secretary had her out early in the week trying her at the hurdles. There was a bad piece of ground ahead and Alhambra stumbled. The next instant the rotund secretary was doing gymnastics in a cloud of dust, while the stable boys speculated as to how high he went before coming to earth again. On pain of discharge the matter remained with the stable boys, but leaked out otherwise.

LOOLOOS WIN WITH HOMERS.

TWO OVER-THE-FENCE SWATS DEFEAT SIWASHES.

Cravath Chases in Kittie Brashear in the Second With a Left Fence Home Run and Later the Kitten Bounces a Texas Leaguer Through a Hole in Right Fence.

Los Angeles 3, Seattle 2.

When a man has to knock a ball through a hole in a fence in order to win a ball game, it shows that there is no use in trying to beat the team he is on, and that is exactly the condition of things that turned up out at the ball game yesterday at the Chutes grounds. This is why Brashear gets credit for a home run, and why the Looloos added another game to their long string of victories.

The game, in fact, was a home-run game, for Cravath chased in Brashear and himself in the second inning with a homer over the fence, and Brashear opened the sixth inning with a homer that proved to be the winning run.

This home run was by long odds the feature of the game, and it is not likely that another such a hit will be made on this or any other grounds this season. When every one was sitting on pins and needles and wrought up with excitement about a possible defeat for the locals, Brashear came to the bat. He wasn't looked upon with any particular fear by the Siwashes, for in his previous times up he had walked once and hit a long fly to right field the second time. Busher Hall, who pitched for the Siwashes, didn't fear him, for after pitching the first ball he laughed at "Kittie." While still grinning, he pitched another one to the Kitten, which she swung at in a desperate fashion. The result was a little Texas leaguer pop fly back of first base, and every fan sighed with regret when Yuley Streib was seen running after it. Yuley didn't get it, for the ball came down in a tantalizing way, just beyond his fingers. It bounced harmlessly toward the end of the right bleacher fence, but to the surprise of every one it went through a broken place in the fence and rolled under the bleachers.

The wire netting fence at this point is about five feet high, and Yuley looked at the top and tried to get over, but seeing that he could not scale the fence, he squatted down and bravely squeezed himself through the small, jagged hole in the fence, which was about as large as the hole in the end of a barrel, Yuley had hard work scrambling through, and when he did he dug around in the grass and weeds fully a minute before he could find the ball.

All this time Brashear was racing around the bases, and he never stopped running until he had crossed the home plate, and about this time Streib found the ball and sfiot it back over the wire fence, but too late to stop one of the most peculiar home runs ever seen on the grounds.

The Siwashes had a good chance of winning, and probably would have done so if Warren Hall had stayed in the game for us and kept on pitching, but Dillon wisely took him out in the first half of the eighth, after two singles and a double had been made off him in succession. Bergeman took his place without warming up, and but one hit was made off him, and that one a single that didn't count. There were no particularly spectacular plays, aside from the many pretty double plays, but the fielding was sharp and clean, with a few exceptions, and the game was an exciting one from the start for the thousand fans that looked on.

Los Angeles made all of its runs very easily. After two were out on center field flies in the first inning, Brashear was passed and then Cravath hit a long home run over the left field fence. Then in the sixth came Brashear with his hole-in-the-fence home run.

Rockenfield opened the sixth for the Siwashes with a single to left, which Ross booted around long enough for Rocky to reach second base. He advanced to third on Streib's sacrifice and easily scored on Heitmuller's long hit to left field. In the seventh, after two were out, Busher Charley Hall singled to left and scored on a single by Kane and a double by Rockenfield.

Game Today.

This will be another ladies' day at the ball grounds, and the chances are that Gray will pitch for Los Angeles and Vickers for Seattle. Game will be called at 2:30.

MINOR BASEBALL.

BIG GAME SATURDAY.

The baseball championship of Southern California will be decided tomorrow afternoon on the Harvard School campus, when the Throop Polytechnics and the Los Angeles Polytechnic teams will play. Throop has lost two games, one to Alhambra and the other to Compton, while the Los Angeles Polytechnic is yet undefeated.

Archibald will pitch for Throop, and while he has plenty of curves and speed, is easily rattled, and the locals expect to beat him for this reason. Elliott will be in the box for Los Angeles Polytechnic and believes he will be victorious, for he has won six straight games for his team.

Better Shoes Aren't Made

If you've never worn Regals before, there's something for you to prove.

Quality's there—both material and workmanship; solid, honest, oak-bark-tanned leather in the soles, and the rest of the shoe is built accordingly. No second-grade materials in the most unimportant part, and not one wrinkly flank-piece of leather in a thousand pairs of them. All the leather that goes into the Regals is tanned right, selected right, cut right and worked right.

What's the use of wondering whether it may be so? The difference between $3.50 or $4 and $6 is well worth saving. We stand back of every pair of Regals and make ourselves directly responsible to you.

At least give Regals a try-on. Do it today and then let's hear what you say.

Los Angeles had her little shake, too, just to be in the fashion.

Funston is serving the ghouls with bullets. It is their proper diet.

Even the insane asylum at Agnew furnishes heroes. The brain may go astray, yet sometimes leave the heart unscathed.

The earthquake will pass as a nine-days' wonder. Would that the sorrow and the loss of those who suffer might pass as easily.

Sad indeed is the wrench that nature in this her sour mood gave our white-swept coast of glory from the Golden Gate to Santa Cruz.

The present year is not yet half over, but it has already demonstrated that man's complete mastery of the earth is still a long ways off.

Gen. Funston is adding to his laurels by the able manner in which he appears to have taken hold of the situation in doomed San Francisco.

Certainly the earth is having most extraordinary troubles with its insides, of late. And there seem to be no doctors who are capable of working a cure.

It required more than half a century to build up San Francisco, yet an earthquake was the cause of destroying it almost in a day. It is as though the foot of a giant had crushed an ant hill.

In times of disaster and public calamities we hear nothing of the Hays, the Fennessys and the Howtons. In the hour of trouble the men who roar with their mouths are forced into the background.

Hatfield, the rainmaker, is again visiting Los Angeles. A fund should be raised to get him out of town as quickly as possible. We have had about all the rain we can stand for some time to come.

"Stay drunk till the devil gets you," was the remarkable sentence imposed upon a culprit by a Missouri judge. When Missouri, whisky and the devil combine against a man it is difficult to see where his chance to escape comes in.

A case in our local courts has proved that it is not always wise for a man to fall in love with a girl on the evidence of her photograph. Photography has not yet been reduced to so fine a scientific perfection that it can lay bare the female disposition.

It speaks well for our common humanity that little or no expression of regret has been voiced for the pecuniary losses which the terrible disaster on the bay has entailed. Our thoughts have all been with the dying, the dead, and our fellow human beings who are sorrowing.

When a part of the world suffers, the other part sympathizes, but does not stop in its pleasures. We laugh at funerals, knowing that some day others will laugh at ours. And it is well we are so by nature constituted. If it were different we should all die of grief on the same day.

The scientists are now busy once more explaining to us the cause of these seismic disturbances. And from all that they say, we are glad for the weather man's sake that the trouble cannot be laid to him. He has had enough to answer for without saddling earthquakes on his shoulders.

When the flames have been fed to the last greedy lick, and the ashes of ruin have been swept away, then we shall see of what fine mettle is made the men of the West. They shall lift up their fallen temples again in sight of the Golden Gate, and will fling the deathless challenge of their unconquerable spirits in the teeth of fate.

The disaster in the North has rather put a ban on the erection of sky-scrapers in this part of the country. And perhaps it is as well. Crowding is one of the most harmful features of our present-day civilization. There is still plenty of room left in the world, and it is only because we have been stricken with a strange insanity that we do not use that room more than we do.

Congressman Duncan McKinlay pointed out very clearly to a gathering of commercial men in the East that Japan is making every effort to outstrip the United States in manufacturing and trade. And what can we do about it? An American workman cannot and should not be brought to the cheap level of living that the brown man is satisfied with. And that's the secret of the whole situation.

Maybe it is all in God's great plan that sorrows and troubles come so that we may think the more kindly of one another. It is always difficult to adjust the mind to that point of view, but if we will but look at the matter in the right way we will see that it is so. In prosperity and happiness and ease we are apt to grow selfish and thoughtless, as indeed we do. But in the hour when our neighbor stands before us with bleeding heart and tear-blinded eyes, we forget our animosities and resentments and pour forth the springs of human kindness. Perhaps the time when we have reason to thank God most is the time when we think we have the least to thank Him for.

KEEP COOL—STAND FAST!

The awful calamity which has well-nigh destroyed San Francisco and several adjacent cities has caused many persons of nervous temperament and vivid imagination to go into a kind of panic, and to imagine themselves beset by all sorts of horrible perils. Some have worked themselves into a state bordering on nervous collapse. All this is foolish. Excitement is bad for the nervous system, bad for the general health, and bad all around. Besides, it can do no possible good. If there were ever so much danger, undue excitement would not lessen it, but would rather increase it, because the person who labors under great excitement is incapable of doing the right thing at a critical moment, and is often, indeed, incapable of taking care of himself or others.

All kinds of wild, improbable and impossible stories have been in circulation during the past two days, like the report, yesterday, that the island of Catalina had been submerged, and the other unfounded report that San Diego was burning. No doubt other equally absurd stories will be set afloat from time to time while the present excited state of the public mind continues. These wild and woolly tales of disaster should not be credited by sensible persons. No improbable yarn should be given credence without investigation and confirmation. We shall all get along better in this emergency if we practice the sometimes difficult art of self-mastery, and "keep cool."

In Los Angeles and the surrounding country, yesterday, there was some slight disturbance of the earth's equilibrium. Within the last ten or twelve years we have had a number of similar disturbances, and very likely we shall have others in the future. It is of no use to go into a fright over these not unusual disturbances at this time—nor at any time. The Pacific Coast is as safe a place of residence as any other section of the country. This is fully proven by the records of the past. Fewer persons are killed or injured here by violence of the elements, from year to year, than in any other equal area of the United States.

One of the great needs of the hour is courage, coolness, hopefulness and common sense. Panic breeds panic; fear increases fear, as courage induces courage. The steady hands and the cool heads must prevail. There is work to do in sending relief to our stricken brothers of the North. Unless this work be pursued systematically and calmly, though with all possible dispatch, it will not be well done. The present is no time to falter or to palter. It is no time to whine and tremble and complain. It is a time, rather, to "thank God and take courage." Likewise to "keep a stiff upper lip." Also to "keep cool." If we do these things, all will be well.

GO AHEAD.

The calamity in the north is unprecedented and heartbreaking. We all know that, and we shall all do everything possible to ameliorate the terrible conditions. But the fact that this disaster has come upon a part of California is no reason why progress should stop. The calamity is local. It will be remedied. If we weakly sit down and cry "calamity" we shall gain nothing. The surest way in which to bring distrust and business depression is to echo and reecho this wail of "calamity."

Go ahead—that is the watchword! The business men of California, north and south, will best serve their own interests and those of the public in general, by pushing forward their enterprises with unflagging energy. The northern catastrophe will place us at some disadvantage for a time, as a matter of course. This is to be expected. But the fact only emphasizes the necessity for meeting the situation with determination and courage. The way to overcome difficulties is to overcome them.

If the progress of California shall be checked in any material degree by this disaster, it will be chiefly the fault of California and its people. There is no need for them to fold their hands, no need for them to lose confidence, no need for them to slacken the splendid enterprise which has placed California in the foremost rank among the States of the Union. The opportunity is now offered for the men of California to show what stuff they are made of. It rests upon them to save the situation, through harmonious, wise, energetic and concerted action. Let them act conservatively in all business transactions, but yield nothing to the "panicky" spirit which may possibly possess the souls of some weak brothers. There is no need of carrying the policy of "hedging" to the point of business non-action and consequent business congestion and stagnation. Let the industrial and commercial ship be kept upon an even keel, and it will easily outride every tempest.

THE WATERLESS CITY.

After the quake and the crash, the shattering of buildings, the terrible first harvest of death, the subsequent holocaust of maimed and helpless victims in the onsweeping conflagration, the tale of agony for the stricken metropolis of Northern California is far from being told. The most grievous feature of such a convulsion of nature is the aftermath of miseries it inevitably brings. Today the city of San Francisco, with a population of over four hundred thousand souls, has no water supply—take this one fact alone, and think of the appalling misery and suffering it implies.

Beneath the pitiless blaze of an April sun—pitiless in all truth under present conditions—there are tens of thousands of homeless refugees huddled together in parks and open spaces and on the surrounding hills. For them there may be scant water to drink, brought in carts and distributed by buckets passing from hand to hand. But this is the measure of their present relief, and it is scant measure, indeed. Water for domestic purposes and sanitary purposes there is none.

Ameliorated conditions will come gradually; the latest telegrams show that certain districts will soon have some water supplied. But others will not be so fortunate for some time to come. And meanwhile everywhere there is no sewerage system at work. Words are not needed to paint the horrors of such a situation. The consequences involved may also be left to suggest themselves. The grim spectre of pestilence has ever trodden close on the heels of the earthquake demon.

Nor is the terrible story of a city deprived in one moment of its water supply yet told in full. It was the want of water that rendered all efforts futile to cope with the flames that sprang forth in a hundred places among the ruins, and speedily enveloped the business quarter in a mantle of flame. Then during these last two days of horror it is certain that not a few individuals actually perished of thirst amid the débris of destruction that had pinioned them where they fell. Succoring hands could not reach these helpless ones, nor bring the cup of cooling water that is ever the first thing for which the wounded man craves. To some at least the swifter death by smoke and flame must have come as a merciful deliverance from the lingering tortures that otherwise awaited them. But these thoughts are too harrowing to be dwelt upon; let the veil be drawn, with a murmured "requiescant in pace" for those who thus suffered and died.

CAMPS FOR THE HOMELESS.

Now is the time to look ahead at San Francisco, and to anticipate conditions that are bound to develop. With the sewerage system of a great city thrown suddenly into disuse, the danger of an outbreak of pestilence is both real and near. Measures of precaution now will be far more effective in preventing a lamentable mortality than remedial efforts later on after disease has once fastened itself upon the community. It has to be remembered, too, that a population like that of San Francisco at the present moment, nerve-shattered, inadequately nourished, meagerly supplied with water, driven from home into the open, deprived of every accustomed comfort, is peculiarly liable to fall an easy prey to epidemics. Each and all of these conditions must be changed if the grave danger threatening is to be averted.

First and foremost lies the necessity of rushing in supplies of provisions and clothing for the half-famished and destitute population. The restoration of the water supply in certain districts is happily promised, and this meets another immediate and pressing want. Medical aid and medical comforts for the wounded are already flowing in from all directions. So far so good. But there is still a homeless and disheartened populace to be considered. They must be lifted out of themselves and, if possible, out of their surroundings.

Two methods occur to us as the best calculated to achieve this end. In the first place, let regular camps be constructed in the country on the military plan and under military hygienic control. This will withdraw from the ruined city many of its people at a time when their departure from the scene of destruction will be both a good mental tonic for themselves and a distinct relief to the unsanitary conditions that have to be combated. In concentration camps, too, the commissariat problem will be greatly simplified. Out of the generosity of the great sympathetic heart of the whole American people there will be abundant provision for all the ruined and helpless ones just so long as the assistance is required. It is the distribution of the help that is the difficult task. The military camp system will make it considerably easier, and, after a spell of rest in fresh country air and amid sanitary surroundings, the refugees may gradually be returned to their accustomed vocations, the rebuilding of their homes, and the restoration of their fortunes.

Our second proposal is that many cities and towns in California should unite in providing for some of the homeless ones. A thousand or a few hundreds here, a score or two there, can be very well taken care of. They can be each city's guests. Then will they receive all the good things their hosts can offer, and, best of all, the brotherly and sisterly sympathy and companionship that will restore courage to the heart, and soon make the future look golden bright again. Many people doubtless will be found in Los Angeles and other cities and towns, who are willing and glad to open their homes to the refugees for a while. It will be a genuine beneficence to provide homes for the children and women, the aged and infirm, while the bread-winners may be occupied in rehabilitating the ruined city.

Let Los Angeles set the example of bidding within her gates and folding to her breast a goodly number of the sorely-stricken men, women and children of San Francisco.

FIRE LOSSES AND EARTHQUAKE LOSSES.

Many thoughtless persons, looking at the matter superficially, will attribute the tremendous losses at San Francisco and other stricken cities wholly to the earthquake. This view of things is incorrect. By far the greater proportion of the losses have been caused by fire. The latter, it is true, was a result of the seismic tremors, but the fact is to be remembered that if fire had not broken out, the greater part of the city of San Francisco would now be standing, the loss of life would have been far less, and the property loss would have been comparatively small.

Some of the more timorous among our friends, alarmed greatly at the calamity which has befallen the northern metropolis of California, will hasten to the conclusion that losses by earthquake are more to be feared than losses by fire. The fact is that the annual loss of life by fire throughout the world is vastly greater than the fatalities by earthquake; as to losses of property, the discrepancy is even greater. Millions of dollars are eaten up each year by fire where thousands are swallowed by earthquake. But fires are of every-day occurrence, while earthquakes are comparatively rare. Familiarity with the perils of fire breeds a kind of contempt for them, while the comparative rarity of destructive earthquakes invests them with an indefinable element of dread and awe not felt for other convulsions of nature, such as thunderstorms and hurricanes.

All the earthquakes that had been experienced on the Pacific Coast, up to the time of the San Francisco disaster, caused less loss of life and property than an ordinary tornado or "cyclone" causes in the Middle West. There are more deaths annually by lightning in almost any State of the Union, outside of the Pacific Coast, than all the deaths from earthquake in California from earliest recorded history down to the time of the San Francisco disaster; and, as we have shown, the losses in that disaster are more from fire than from earthquake. The great fires of history have been more disastrous than the great earthquakes. The losses from minor fires have amounted to millions each year, with more or less loss of life; while the minor seismic disturbances have seldom caused loss of life, and only trifling destruction of property.

California is one of the safest States in the Union for residential purposes. It is almost exempt from atmospheric disturbances, which cause so much distress in other parts of the country. Thunderstorms are so rare here as to be almost unknown, while "cyclones" are something from which we are also exempt. Let our timid friends consider these facts, renew their courage, and rekindle their confidence.

With all the carloads of provisions pouring in from north and south, it looks as though the San Francisco sufferers will have more than they can eat. Now that their immediate wants are supplied, money is the "one thing needful." It won't spoil.

A man may not love a horse and still attend the horse show. There are other pretty and handsome things to be seen there.

MANY HELPING HANDS.

INVOCATION TO THE QUAKING EARTH.

O Mother Earth! thou giver of all life!
Upon whose throbbing breast we laugh and play,
Whose womb is fertile with the gifts of good,
Despairing on thy breast we drop this day.

O Mother Earth! sustainer of all life!
Until this day so gentle was thy breath,
Thy brow so fair, so bountiful thy hand,
We could not dream that thou couldst deal us death.

O Mother Earth! thou lover of all life!
The gifts that thou didst pile about our feet
We grasped unto our breast with graceless hand,
And knew not charity or justice sweet.

O Mother Earth! thou prophetess of life!
Like wayfard children oft thy laws we broke,
And failed to catch the warning in thy eye
Till thou by force the God in us awoke.

For, Mother Earth, this day we felt thy sides
Rend by the sobs that shook thy tender heart,
We saw thy open mouth, thy jaws beheld!
Thy burning tongue gave forth its fiery dart.

And, Mother Earth, our city* swayed and fell,
Her ribs all bent and cracked, her brow all paled.
Her children unprotected, swooned and died—
Destruction walked abroad with face unveiled.

But, Mother Earth! all humbled in our plight,
Take thou thy stricken children in thy grace
And once again let all thy mother-love
Envelope us about in thy embrace.

MEN AND THINGS OVER THE SEAS.

The English Education Bill.

Among the causes that swept the Liberals into power at the recent general election in Great Britain, not the least potent was the widespread dissatisfaction caused by the Education Act passed under the Balfour régime. But the Liberal ministers, in handling a new education bill, have speedily found that the role of the destructive critic is much easier than that of the constructive legislator. They are being assailed by just the same bitterness and bigotry that perplexed their predecessors in office, and the present secretary of the Board of Education has spoken pathetically of "the icy blasts of sectarian tenets" that render it impossible to satisfy any single religious group, or frame a measure acceptable to all political parties.

Sectarian Strife.

The simple explanation is that the Liberals, just as much as the Conservatives, buck against the expenditure involved in establishing a real national and unsectarian system of education. At the present time a very large share of the primary educational work of the country is being performed by religious denominations, chiefly by the Episcopalians, and after them by the Roman Catholics. The non-conformists have never gone in for establishing schools on any extensive scale. The other bodies, however, have provided school buildings, equipment and teachers, and to duplicate their schools in every place with purely non-sectarian establishments would involve an expenditure of some hundreds of millions of dollars. The sectarian schools, in the first instance, claimed the government education grant because they were doing part of the educational work of the country. The non-conformists refused the grant just because the schools were sectarian, and grafted their special religious teachings on to the general work of education. There is the crust of the whole controversy.

An Unsatisfactory Compromise.

The present government, inspired by economy, still wants the sectarian schools, but the new bill they have promulgated tries to minimise their sectarianism by such means as allowing religious teachings only two mornings weekly, such teachings not to be by the regular staff of the school, nor attendance at them to be compulsory, nor any expense involved to be borne by the education authorities. It is needless to say that such a tinkering compromise satisfies neither party. The denominations who have provided the schools count themselves as unfairly treated, while the non-conformists refuse to be satisfied while a shred of denominational privileges is preserved.

The Money Difficulty.

The Socialist wing in Parliament are making the one sensible demand—that there shall be free national schools everywhere, that this without interfering with the denominational schools of those churches which care to maintain them for their own ends solely and therefore without claim to any government grant. But this would mean money, and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is just as loath to set himself to find the necessary cash as was Mr. Balfour. The argument of both is that the national exchequer at present will not stand for any such expenditure. Therefore there promises to be just the same fiasco with any Liberal educational measure as that which has attended the unhappy and unfortunate Conservative measure.

Disliked Hagglers.

Fred Sterry of the Palm Beach Power Boat Association was talking about the high prices that motor boats and automobiles bring.

"For my part," he said, "I don't object to these high prices. The workman is worthy of his hire. Fine things, rare things, would not be fine and rare if they were cheap.

"I think the laborer is worthy of his hire, and I incline to sympathize with a grocer's clerk whom I once knew in the West.

"This young man had a very unbusinesslike scorn for hagglers and bargainers. One day a woman entered the grocery store and said:

"'What is the price of your cheapest butter?'

"'Eighteen cents a pound, ma'am,' said the young man.

"'Oh, that's certainly too dear,' said the woman. 'Haven't you anything cheaper?'

"'Well,' said the young man, 'we have some soft soap at 6 cents a pound.'"—[Exchange.

A special report was adopted, indorsing the proposition to establish a summer school of methods somewhere in Southern California and increasing the salary of the general secretary to $1500 per year.

Last night's programme consisted of a concert by a large chorus, directed by Tullar and Meredith, and a fine address by Dr. Hamilton on the subject, "Men Organized for Success."

The convention finally adjourned at the close of the meeting last night, and a field workers' conference will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the First Methodist Church, in charge of Dr. Hamill.

HIGH MASONIC HONOR.

J. F. Hughes Elected Grand High Priest of Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

Royal Arch Masons of the Grand Chapter of the State of California met in Oakland yesterday to annual session and elected J. F. Hughes, of Los Angeles, Grand High Priest of the Grand Chapter of the R.A.M., State of California. The chapter also pledged its aid to the victims of the San Francisco disaster.

J. F. HUGHES,
yesterday elected grand high priest of California Grand Chapter, R. A. M.

The new Grand High Priest is well known in this city, where he has been in business since 1882. For years Mr. Hughes has been prominently identified with the Masonic Order in Los Angeles and in the State. He was Master of Pentalpha Lodge, No. 202, F. and A. M., in 1898. In 1900 he was High Priest of Sigma Chapter No. 57, R.A.M. He was thrice Illustrious Master of Los Angeles Council No. 11 in 1902.

During the years 1901-02-03, Mr. Hughes was president of the Board of Directors of the Masonic Home, and was chairman of the committee which selected the location for the home. He was elected president of the board again in 1906. In 1905 Mr. Hughes was the Generalissimo of Los Angeles' Commandery No. 9.

The hosts of friends which the new Grand High Priest has in this city and State will rejoice at the honors conferred upon him.

Notion Prices

Take these very necessary notions today at half their usual cost to you. Goods are warranted of first quality and perfect in every respect, even if the price-cuts do look remarkably strong.

Cube pins, black, white or assorted colors, 5c a cube, the usual 10c size.

Hat pins with black or white heads, 5c a dozen.

Blankets Temptingly Priced

It's hard to realize, when the mercury's hovering around the seventies, that blankets are among the necessities for summer outings at beach or mountains. In fact, there are few nights anywhere in this climate when their warmth isn't acceptable. So, when we lower the prices on absolutely trustworthy grades, it's the part of wisdom to buy liberally.

11-4 white wool blankets, worth $6.50, now $5 a pair, 36 grades now $4.45.

No bedding taken out of this store over night is subject to exchange or return.

Pongee Silks

No such complete line of white Shanghai pongees in town as we show. These all-silk weaves are especially suitable for outing costumes, because they'll come out of the wash like new.

ON WINGS OF WIND.

Early last night it had loaded the Southern Pacific train that steamed away to the north carrying food, clothing and medical supplies.

The steamer Roanoke is plowing its way northward, carrying four carloads of provisions and supplies.

Men worked all night last night at River Station, loading cars with supplies. These will be carried north before noon today.

The large dry goods stores placed their stocks at the disposal of the committee on supplies. Clothing, blankets and tents were gathered in wholesale.

Mayor McAleer and Chairman Story worked side by side. Each has a genius for organization. Hundreds came to the committee rooms to inquire after friends in the stricken city, and took off their coats and went to work either on subcommittees or on the packing and forwarding squad.

HELP STREAMS IN.

Contributions of money and provisions came at a rate that staggered even the optimistic commiteemen.

Men crowded the way to the subscription sheets as to a banquet table. The quality of mercy wasn't strained—it wasn't even sampled—but it fell as a driving rainstorm that fairly inundated the committee on supplies.

The cash subscriptions for the day totalled more than $50,000. The committee believes that it will raise its quota of $100,000 before 8 o'clock tonight.

The heaviest contribution reported for the day was that of $15,000 by the California Club. It was taken North by a clubman.

Next in line came the Los Angeles Realty Board with a pledged subscription of $10,000.

Councilmen Smith and Hiller spent the afternoon among the lumber dealers. The first firm contributed $500 and it set the pace. The Councilman refused to take any subscriptions for less than that amount and they booked nine firms. They have five more to visit this morning.

A committee reported that the saloon keepers and wholesale liquor dealers are pledged to subscribe $10,000.

Committees representing the Native Sons worked with all the vim of a football squad going into the star game. Provisions sprung from the four winds as by magic.

LOUD CALL FOR FOOD.

Last night the Native Sons issued a call to all school children to bring provisions with them today to the schools. The committees will see to it that the provisions are gathered together and carried to the destitute in San Francisco. This call was indorsed by the Citizens' Committee and by directors of the Board of Education.

From the Executive Committee comes the call for bread.

"Women and children are starving in San Francisco," is the tenor of the telegrams received from the North.

"Let every family in the city bake at least one loaf of bread and bring it today to the Chamber of Commerce building," is the appeal sent forth by the joint committee at the Chamber of Commerce.

Baked meats or other provisions will also be welcome, but the main call is for bread.

"I would like to see a response to this appeal," said Secretary Wiggins, "that would fairly cover our entire building. The railroads have promised to carry it North. We will see that it gets on the trains."

ONE-DAY'S WAGES FROM ALL.

From the Executive Commitee last night went an appeal to the employers of the city, and to the employed as well.

The committe requests that each employer ask those in his service to contribute one day's wages to the stricken ones driven from the city by the Golden Gate.

"It will be so little to the liberal, bighearted sons and daughters of Los Angeles," said Chairman Story, "and it will mean so much to the stricken ones in San Francisco. Right now is the time that it is needed. Next week or next month will be too late. Let every one act now."

All day telegrams were exchanged between the Chamber of Commerce here and that at Oakland.

The first message over the wires this morning was that telling of the pledge of $100,000 made by the Citizens' Committee Wednesday night.

"Advise us how best to cooperate and command us to the limit," was the cheering message sent North.

From Gov. Pardee came the following response:

"Mayor Schmitz informs me that his people need large supplies of food. Can you send supplies immediately in charge of competent men? Wire me at Oakland."

SUPPLIES ASSURED.

The Citizens' Committee promptly wired to Gov. Pardee the following reply:

"All supplies needed can be forwarded as promptly as transportation facilities can be afforded. Steamer Roanoke placed at disposal of committee leaves San Pedro tonight loaded with supplies and clothing. The President at Washington has been wired for use of the war ships at Long Beach. Aid us by confirming our telegram to Washington. Citizens' Relief Committee has already pledged $100,000. You can command us to the limit of our resources."

(Signed) "OWEN M'ALEER, Mayor.
"F. Q. STORY,
"Chairman Relief Committee."

Assemblyman Stanton sent to Gov. Pardee a personal telegram asking if anything could be done to locate Mrs. Stanton's, brother, and placing himself at the Governor's command.

Gov. Pardee telegraphed back:

"Too much confusion to find anybody. Fatalities not as great as reported. Will try to find brother. Aid relief work in Los Angeles. San Francisco needs help."

HORDES IN DIRE NEED.

To the Chamber of Commerce later came the following message from the Governor:

"San Francisco needs supplies of all kinds. More than 100,000 people without shelter or food. Have not been informed that doctors or nurses are needed."

This came from A. A. Martin of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce:

"Gov. Pardee says: 'For God's sake rush all cooked food to San Francisco as fast as possible.' He will see that all trains are rushed through."

Secretary Edward Stearns of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce telegraphed as follows:

"Oakland has more than 10,000 San Franciscans to care for. We need blankets, bedding and cots. Ship to Oakland Chamber of Commerce."

ALL WILLING WORKERS.

In the rooms of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association worked the Committee on Supplies. It was composed of the following citizens: M. H. Newmark, G. T. Gay, M. A. Hamburger, Frank Coulter.

Brig.-Gen. Wankowski assumed command at the depots. Details from the National Guard were on hand to protect the supplies and to see that there were no delays.

Perry Weidner was placed in charge of the packing and forwarding squad. All these were volunteers, but they worked with a force that swept petty obstacles aside. By midnight they had accomplished seeming miracles.

Here are the committees that worked yesterday under the direction of the Citizens' Relief Committee:

To go on Roanoke—George G. MacKay, T. N. Canfield, Wilmer W. Peddler, A. B. McKenney.

To go on train—William Hammel, George W. Parsons, W. S. Voorsanger.

To solicit—Iron foundries, Fred W. Baker, Rees Llewellyn; architects, A. M. Edelman, John Parkinson; automobiles, W. K. Cowan; bakeries, William Meek, Barnes; barbers J. E. Cooksey; brokers, Ferd K. J. Bauer, A. E. Eckstrom.

ASK SPECIAL SESSION.

At the close of an executive session of the Citizens' Relief Committee last night, a telegram was sent to Gov. Pardee suggesting that he call an extraordinary session of the State Legislature for the purpose of appropriating $1,000,000 or more for the relief of the sufferers about San Francisco Bay.

"This is as little as the State can afford to do," said Councilman Smith in proposing the resolution. "I understand the Federal government has contributed $1,000,000 today. Surely we can do that well.

"It is very proper that this suggestion should come from Los Angeles and not from the cities of the affected district. Not one dollar of that money would be expended in Southern California. It is from this city, the second largest in the State, that the suggestion should come."

Joe Scott indorsed all that Mr. Smith had said and added: "I think you all remember the example set by Missouri at the time a great tornado swept away a portion of St. Louis. At that time Congress made a large contribution.

"But from old Missouri to the national capitol went a stirring response that, while the State appreciated the spirit shown by Congress, yet Missouri could care for her own.

"I tell you it made the chest of every man from Missouri expand when he read that. No matter what part of the world it found him, his heart warmed with pride for the old State."

During the session a number of resolutions were adopted, all making the way easy for citizens to contribute supplies.

SHELTER FOR HOMELESS.

All residents of Los Angeles having friends in San Francisco are urged to send word north for those friends to come to Los Angeles and remain until their affairs in the north can be straightened out. The committee will ask later for volunteers to open their homes here for the care of homeless children from San Francisco.

Every community in Southern California is invited to contribute clothing and provisions, packed ready for shipment. The railroads will take up these provisions at any station and bring them to Los Angeles. From here they will be sent north by the committee under the charge of competent men.

A special appeal is made for clothing. This appeal is direct to householders of Los Angeles. The committee asks that donations be sent some time today to the Chamber of Commerce building.

"There are thousands in San Francisco tonight," said Chairman Story, "who are suffering for clothes. The first and worst shock struck the tenement district. It is those poor people who are suffering now. Clothing costs a great deal new, but there is hardly a family in Los Angeles that cannot spare at least one suit. Women and children will suffer most."

THE CRY FOR BREAD.

Coupled with this is the appeal for bread. The committee desires that the bread baked by the housewives be delivered at the Chamber of Commerce not later than 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The committee indorsed the proposal of Joe Desmond to go north with a cooking crew. This crew will cook and bake on the train en route to San Francisco; and will keep up its work after it arrives there. Final arrangements will be made today for the cooking train.

Among the provisions sent north are two cars of mineral water. Other cars will go today. The committee realizes that the suffering for water in the stricken city is something awful.

Refugees arriving here last night said that water could not be had in San Francisco Wednesday afternoon for a dollar a glass. The committee apprehends that the suffering from thirst will be worse than from any other one thing.

Mayor McAleer was detained by a meeting of the Board of Health and did not arrive at the committee meeting until it was near its close. He indorsed the suggestion for a call for an extraordinary session of the Legislature.

The Mayor reported that the Board of Health has made a personal contribution of $100. The money was subscribed by the five commissioners.

WHAT WAS SHIPPED.

M. H. Newmark, chairman of the Supply Committee, made a partial report as to the contents of the cars shipped north. There were two cars of canned beef, one of canned vegetables, one of condensed milk, 2000 pairs of blankets and 500 comforters, one ton of cheese, 15,000 dozen biscuits, two cars of mineral water, 15,000 pounds of crackers, 8000 loaves of bread, one car of hams and bacon.

The cost of the provisions and supplies other than those donated was estimated at $21,000.

The Santa Fé Railroad reported that it is ready to transport provisions and supplies north free of cost. The agent of each station as far east as New Mexico has been instructed to receive supplies up to three carloads and forward the same to Los Angeles.

A committee of policemen reported that the local force is willing to send a squad north to help picket San Francisco. The officers who remain at home will work overtime, filling the vacant places while their comrades are away.

From the Fraternal Order of Eagles came a committee bringing $500 in cash and offering to make a further contribution if it should be needed.

All reports were that the contributions were practically unstinted—that is, all but one. Chairman Smith of the committee appointed to visit the lumber merchants reported that nine had been visited. He presented checks for $4500.

"I regret to report," he said in concluding, "that we visited one millionaire today, who said he would take the matter under advisement for several days."

"Name him," called half a dozen voices.

A committee from the Chinese quarter reported that the Chinese colony has contributed $1000 in cash. The Chinese vegetable men have been asked to make contributions of vegetables for the relief of their northern brethren.

More than $30,000 in cash has been contributed to the Citizens' Relief Committee fund. There are pledges sufficient to raise this to $50,000.

This morning the Relief Committee will resume its sessions. The committee hopes to send another train of supplies and provisions north this afternoon.

RENT MONEYS BY LANDLORDS.

MANY WILL GIVE ONE-FOURTH OF MONTH'S RETURNS.

Announcement Made That O. T. Johnson Is to Head a List of Property Owners Who Take This Method of Assisting — Project Would Swell Fund Immensely.

It was announced yesterday afternoon that O. T. Johnson will head a list of property owners to give 25 per cent. of the rents of their holdings for a month to the fund for the San Francisco sufferers.

It is believed that the adoption of this plan will result in a large addition to the list of contributions, inasmuch as the donors may not feel a larger sum given in that way more than they would feel a smaller sum given outright.

A goodly list of owners making such donations of a fourth of the revenues from their buildings properties would swell the fund handsomely.

SCHOOLS CLOSED.

PUPILS WILL CONTRIBUTE.

By order of the Board of Education the schools of the city were closed all day yesterday as an expression of sympathy to stricken San Francisco, and the students of the Los Angeles and Polytechnic High Schools were asked to bring contributions to the relief fund today.

Resolutions of condolence from the graduating class of the Los Angeles High School to sister classes in the High Schools of San Francisco were passed.

OFERS HIS BAKERY.

HUGH CALLENDER'S IDEA.

Hugh N. Callender, proprietor of the Red Front Bakery at No. 306½ Temple street, has offered the entire use of his establishment, for a day or other certain period, for the benefit of the earthquake sufferers.

It is expected that some woman's club or other organization will take this opportunity to assume charge of the bakery in all its branches and to conduct it in such manner as to yield a goodly sum of money, or, if found best, to prepare a large quantity of bakestuffs for the needy.

BENEFIT BILLIARDS.

CONTEST FOR NEXT WEEK.

Henry Berry, who conducts the Hoffman billiard rooms on South Spring street, near the Hollenbeck, says he will arrange a benefit billiard game in his rooms next week in which the best players of all kinds of billiards will be asked to take part. The admission fee will be at least $1, and Mr. Berry believes he can easily raise $100 for the earthquake sufferers.

Friday and Saturday Sales
AT
The "New York"
Some Strong First Floor Attractions

Today and Saturday will be banner days at THE "NEW YORK." There's not a stock on the Main Floor but what has featured some eminently desirable goods for this two-day sale. In many instances the prices have been cut clean in two, making the occasion one to command the attention and consideration of every woman in Los Angeles and vicinity. Owing to lack of space in this announcement, many of the Best Bargains are not given newspaper prominence. These will be displayed on tables and counters. A grand chance for week-end buyers to practice economies.

Rheumatic Pains

"I have suffered terribly with rheumatism. I took Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they gave me great relief. I have spells of terrible pains in my ribs, and in the small of my back, and the Anti-Pain Pills help me right away. I am now well of the rheumatism and think Anti-Pain Pills done me more good than all the other medicines. I first heard of them through the following circumstance that happened at our home two years ago. A friend, Mrs. Brown, of Orion, Mich., came to visit us. She had not been able to dress herself or comb her own hair for months. A friend of ours came in and seeing her suffering offered her some Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. She laughed at the idea of relief from such a source after doctoring for so long, but took one one of the tablets with the remark that it would at least do her no harm. She took another that evening, and the next morning she was so elated that she went to the druggist's and got a package and took them home with her. Recently she was here again, and told us that she continued taking the pills, and that one box cured her, and she has not had a symptom of rheumatism since."

PALE LIPS TELL OF FRIGHTFUL PERILS.

Refugees from Ruined City Describe the Horrors from Which They Had Escaped—Thousands Greet Returning Ones at Arcade Depot.

REFUGEES from San Francisco reached Los Angeles yesterday. They brought with them tales of horror and a nervous fear they could not shake off, even in the calm, safety and bright sunshine of the Angel City.

No train, however, came directly through from the stricken city of San Francisco itself, the few arriving here starting from Oakland or some point further south.

The Owl left Oakland at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and arrived at the Arcade Depot shortly before noon yesterday.

The Valley local, No. 8 train, left Oakland at 11:40 o'clock Wednesday morning and also reached the Arcade Depot, a short time before the Owl arrived. This train brought a few refugees, the first to reach here.

Train No. 10 also arrived here yesterday, but it was run as a "stub" train from Salinas, which is the limit north for Coast line trains.

The Valley line to Oakland is still the only means of communication by rail with San Francisco.

GREETING REFUGEES.

Several thousand people were packed in and about the Arcade depot when the trains came yesterday just before noon. The multitude was almost too apprehensive to put its anxious queries into coherent words.

Every man and woman stepping from the three trains was pounced upon with a sweeping rush, and deluged with breathless questions relative to the situation at the time they left San Francisco.

Friends and relatives were there also to meet and greet with tears and wordless thankfulness the safely-returning ones, and breathlessly and fearfully to ask for others who did not come.

It was a sight touching in the extreme to watch the scarcely contained frenzy with which the waiting ones in the depot surged forward and pulled at the bars which held them back from the train sheds, peering through with anxious, straining eyes to catch the first glimpse of loved ones whom they scarcely believed it possible could be on the incoming trains.

The first to arrive was the Valley local. On this train was a bare scattering of passengers from San Francisco. They were among the first of the refugees to leave.

Among the Angeleños on this train were P. Griffin of No. 508 South St. Louis street and S. W. Thompson, living at the Castle Craig. Both were staying at the Grand Hotel, and got away at the first alarm.

NIGHTMARE SCENES.

"The Grand was already in flames when we got out," said Mr. Griffin, "and Market street was a mass of débris. We hurried over to Bush street and hastened down to the Ferry building among such scenes as one may expect to see but in a nightmare. We fairly closed our eyes and ears to the sights and sounds and on reaching the Ferry Building crowded upon the first boat we could get to Oakland. As we went out across the bay, while even then was black with scurrying craft, we looked back upon the city, where clouds of smoke were rising heavenward from a dozen different points.

"We were too anxious to get away and return home, for as far as we could learn our homes here might be in just the same condition, to stop to gaze upon the terrible sight."

The Owl arrived a few minutes later. Its passengers were made up entirely of refugees. Strangely enough, however, there were not more than thirty passengers on the whole train.

All were in San Francisco on the fatal morning, and escaped without injury, but with the total loss of their personal effects.

The stories of their impressions of the morning, told in simple words, without any attempt as embellishment, are thrilling beyond the conception of romantic tragedy.

DR. HIBBARD'S STORY.

One of the most graphic stories of the disaster comes from Dr. W. Edward Hibbard of Pasadena, one of the passengers to arrive at 12:20 o'clock on the Owl.

"I was quartered in the eleventh floor of the St. Francis Hotel," said Dr. Hibbard. "I was awakened early yesterday morning by the sickening sensation of being at sea in a storm-tossed ship.

"The room whirled, the building crackled and creaked, and at the height at which I was, seemed to swing through the air like a huge pendulum.

"I leaped from bed and reeled across the swaying floor. I looked out of the window, and felt that I must be taking leave of my senses.

"The skeleton steel frame work of the building immediately adjoining the hotel, was swaying and bending like a willow tree in a December hurricane.

"The air was filled with the most weird sounds of groaning of steel, wood and plaster, and the thunder of falling bodies.

"For a few moments this continued while I, like one in a dream, stupefied and amazed, attempted to make myself understand what was happening.

THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

"Then followed an awful silence, to be followed almost immediately by the unmistakable sounds of hundreds and thousands of human beings in a panic, rushing through the streets like crazy people.

"Throwing on my clothes, I rushed down the eleven flights of stairs, the hotel was thus being depeopled, for the elevators had stopped running with the first shock.

"I felt that I should never get out. In the corridors I met many other excited and terror-stricken guests. Even while we hurried down the stairs, there came another shock, and we thought the whole magnificent structure would surely come down in a heap.

"Once outside in the street, the scene which stunned our senses can never be described by man. It was like a once magnificent city crumbled to ruins and now suddenly overrun with half-erased, wholly panic-stricken human beings.

"Everywhere we looked there was the picture of death and destruction, streets filled with débris, the dust still rising from avalanches of fallen masonry and crumbling walls.

"Leaping across car tracks uprooted and left in twisted fantastic shapes of steel, which fenced our path, we made our way to the park across from the hotel.

A CRUMBLING CITY.

"Everywhere we looked it seemed that the whole city, with its magnificent buildings, had crumbled and fallen in. Everywhere was wreckage and chaos.

"We rushed first aimlessly toward Market street, for instinctively it seemed all turned in that direction. There we saw the effect of ruin at its work. For a few blocks we made our way through a dense throng pouring down a narrow lane in the very center of the street, the only passable thoroughfare.

"Near the Call building our progress was blocked completely by the throngs and the wreckage. Smoke was already oozing through the windows of half a dozen big buildings, and people were still pouring out of the Palace, which even then we could see in flames. But all human power to combat them was vain.

"Farther down Market street it was impossible to go. I think every one appreciated this, for the sign of doom and destruction seemed unalterably written upon all things. We did not wonder that the fire department was out. Whether we gave it a thought or not, we appreciated that the fire department was undoubtedly in as bad a fix as the worst of us.

A FRENZY OF PANIC.

"Leaving the Palace Hotel a roaring furnace, we turned to the west, and made our way toward the ferry, stumbling, climbing, halting, detouring, sliding down masses of débris, seeking safety from the strained and wrenched sky-scrapers on either hand by keeping to the middle of the road.

"We did not see any dead. But everything on every hand spoke of death with an eloquence that surpassed words.

"On the water front the utmost confusion prevailed. Such dense throngs packed the approaches to the Ferry building that we could not get near. We made another detour, and reaching the water front farther down, chartered a small launch and pulled out into the bay.

"Our pilot got us through with the utmost difficulty, for every imaginable craft from rowboats to huge steamers were plying back and forth to fill the demand of the clamoring thousands seeking to leave the doomed city."

Dr. Hibbard immediately after returning home, and assuring his family of his safety, left yesterday afternoon for Oakland, where he will proffer his services to the Citizens' Committee.

FLED IN AUTOMOBILE.

Miss Wheelock, Miss Eleanor Crane and Mrs. S. Spicer Dickinson, refugees from the Palace Hotel, escaped from the city of horrors at noon Wednesday. They made a thrilling automobile flight down the peninsula, and arrived at Salinas in time to catch a local train for Los Angeles.

All their baggage and personal effects, except their jewelry, were left in the hotel.

The three comprise a party of wealthy tourists from Brooklyn, N. Y. They were touring the West Coast by easy stages.

Mrs. Dickinson was prostrated by the hours of horror in the burning city and the long night ride in a chair car from San Luis Obispo to Los Angeles.

Miss Wheelock told the story of their escape. She strove to be commonplace, but the horror lived in her voice and eyes.

"We were in our rooms at the Palace when the first shocks came," she said. "Not knowing anything else to do, we stayed in there until the management of the hotel warned us to flee for our lives. That was shortly before noon. A second and more severe shock had almost wrecked the building.

"Hurrying into the crowded, gaping, rocking streets, we huddled together and tried to walk out.

"The troops were then taking charge. I made my way to the public automobile station, hoping to get a car. They were already taken by the troops. And with every moment the horror grew.

CAPTURED AN AUTO.

"Finally I went right up to one car and climbed in, calling the others to come, too. I had found a chauffeur. But the troops remonstrated and ordered us out. We got the automobile for $150, and the troops let us go.

"It was a rough, wild ride through the broken, debris-filled, palpitating streets. Time and again people in the street clung to our car—they threatened to swamp us. But the chauffeur proved equal to the emergency. He beat the mob off and twisted through and finally brought us out on the peninsula.

"Please do not ask me for any further particulars. I am trying to forget them. We came right down the peninsula past Stanford and the other stricken cities. For miles our path was strewn with ruins.

SAFE HERE AT LAST.

"But it came to an end at last. We reached a depot where they said we could get a train for the south and east. The report was that Los Angeles had suffered even worse than San Francisco. I did not suppose we should go through your city."

So terror-stricken were the refugees that they sought to secure tickets and berths at the Arcade Depot to take them right on East. But finally they concluded to go to the Westminster and wait for further news from San Francisco.

Miss Wheelock's address is No. 161 Joralemon street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Dickinson and Miss Crane live at No. 7 South Oxford avenue, Brooklyn.

A VAST FUNERAL PYRE.

Dr. C. F. Pierce arrived in Oakland Wednesday morning on the way to San Francisco. After striving vainly to secure passage in one of the government launches, he returned here yesterday morning on the Owl.

"When we left Oakland last night," said Dr. Pierce, "San Francisco resembled a vast funeral pyre. Miles of the water front were ablaze, and tongues of flames were leaping up through the residence section.

"During the afternoon we could see some of the great skyscrapers clothed in a garment of dense smoke and sparkling with brilliants of flame. As the afternoon wore away, the fire seemed to move from one district to another. Many of the gaunt skeletons remained, but they were black and silent, evidently everything inflammable was burned out.

"I tried to get passage across the bay, but I was met everywhere with curt refusals. The city was under military rule. Word came that the number of killed and injured was comparatively small, and that the San Francisco physicians did not need assistance.

WATER-FRONT SCENES.

"Ferry boats made spasmodic trips, but they carried passengers only from the stricken city. Some of the watchers on the Oakland side offered whole handfuls of gold and silver for a trip into San Francisco. They were the ones who were held to the other side by ties of blood. But their gold availed them nothing.

"Wild-eyed, disheveled refugees scampered like rats from each ferry boat that landed from across the bay. These were seized and pulled about by the crowds at the ferry. Each was looking, hoping against hope, for a familiar face. But for every cry of relief there were a hundred sobs of choking d—

"It was not a pleasant sight to look upon. When I found that there was nothing for me to do, I arranged to return home at once."

THIRST ADDS TO HORROR.

"Dr. Brainard arrived at Oakland in a launch, having made a wide tour of the city. He said that he had left Dr. Ellis in the St. Francis Hotel.

"Dr. Brainard said that, in his opinion, the loss of life had been comparatively small, but the suffering from thirst had already commenced.

"For fifty miles from San Francisco our train was lighted by the pillar of fire we were leaving behind us. And seventy-five miles away, the northern horizon was as crimson as a summer sunset."

LIKE A WAVING SEA.

Perhaps the most graphic story of the actual scenes early Wednesday morning shortly after the first two great quakes, is told by Railway Mail Clerk Preston, who arrived on No. 8.

"Market street was like a waving sea. The pavement was like billows on the sea, in places they were five feet higher than in other places. The big Call building looked as though a giant hand had taken hold of the diagonal corners and wrenched them in opposite directions. Flames had not yet started. From all hotels, buildings and houses in the affected district thousands were pouring into the streets, with blanched faces. The sidewalks were crowded to congestion. A strange terror seemed to have everyone in its grip. At first there was a babble of voices and then as a sullen grinding noise was again heard not a human voice sounded. Like the deep throated roar of a heavy surf came the third great shudder that ran through the point of land where San Francisco once stood. The sidewalks and streets gaped open in deep fissures. The streets waved like a sea. The Palace Hotel suddenly before my eyes shifted like a playhouse. One end protruded into the street amid a shower of cornice. The other end was thrust far back. In the middle the walls became wrinkled like corrugated iron. The Examiner building was standing erect with the exception of the rear wall which had fallen outwards, but before I had moved ten feet down the street, the great structure changed position like a thing of life.

"I continued on to the postoffice to report, as my train was due to leave. I shouldered my way through the frightened crowd and when I got to the postoffice building at Seventh and Mission streets, it was almost a ruin. The front part had fallen about three feet, and business had been abandoned. When I left the city flames had not as yet appeared. Coming down on the road in many places, the train rocked badly, owing to the sinking of the tracks."

SMOKE PALL AND FLAME.

S. F. Lucas, railway postal clerk, arrived on the Owl. He did not get into San Francisco, but described graphically the frightful scenes enacted by the fleeing thousands from San Francisco, who succeeded in reaching Oakland.

"All we could see across the four miles of bay was a dense pall of smoke through which at frequent intervals, great tongues of flames leaped to the skies. Frequent detonations only showed where the frenzied remnant of the city government was, as a last resort, dynamiting great structures in an effort to stay the flames.

"The ferries from San Francisco were like cattle ships. Every one was loaded to the water's edge with human freight. But a few of the passengers were dressed fully, and the majority had but sleeping clothes on them. The loss of life was apalling. No reliable estimate could be secured. Every person told a different story. All agreed upon the main point, that the city was doomed, and that practically every business block in the city had been first ruined by the quakes and later were enveloped in flames.

"In Oakland the damage was but slight, comparatively. There were only five people killed as far as I know of. They were in the Empire lodging-house on Thirteenth between Washington and Broadway streets. They were killed by a falling wall from the dry-goods establishment of Kahn and Company."

DREAD UNCERTAINTY.

Mrs. C. R. Hodges of No. 314 West Fifth street, Los Angeles, is a patient at the Waldeck Hospital in San Francisco. No word has been heard from her and a telegram dispatched to her has brought no response. Her husband, after endeavoring to reach San Francisco over the Coast route, returned to this city yesterday morning from Salinas. He is almost frantic with anxiety.

Wednesday Mr. Hodges attempted to reach his wife, and traveled as far as Salinas, where he was blocked and compelled to remain until 11:15 o'clock at night, when he boarded train No. 10 for this city. He will attempt to get through over the valley route.

Refugees from San Francisco, who arrived in Salinas, told stories of horrible hardship, and the sufferers declared the conditions in the northern metropolis beggar description. The cry is "water," they say, and the most awful danger is from the lack of an adequate supply.

Salinas is completely wrecked, and Mr. Hodges did not see a brick building which has not been seriously damaged. The town, he says, is paralyzed from fright, and no business whatever is being conducted. Brick stores have toppled over into the main streets, and only small frame structures have escaped. There were several severe shocks at Salinas yesterday.

WENT AND CAME.

Robert L. Cusner, of the Kerckhoff-Cusner Mill and Lumber Company, reached San Francisco Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and left on his return at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

"The scene," said Mr. Cusner, "is impossible to describe. It was a chaotic with the added horror of men and women grouped together, and not knowing what to do, but with the fear that other earthquake shocks might rob them even of their lives. Almost everybody attempted to carry something in their flight, and wagons were out of the question.

"The shake that came at 2 in the afternoon was much the same as the one that hit Los Angeles this morning. It didn't amount to much. But when I left a clean sweep had been made of the business section—unless it might be that some buildings were left on Channel street toward Vallejo street.

"In Oakland the tops of some of the buildings were badly damaged, and other buildings were cracked. The Union Savings Bank, that has just been completed, is badly twisted and presents a curious appearance.

"On the way up the shock that caused such widespread disaster didn't disturb us on the train. When we reached Tracy and found the tanks down then we knew that the shock had been serious."

THROWN OUT OF BED.

Among the passengers arriving in the city early yesterday from the north was L. N. Brunswig, of the firm of F. W. Braun Company, North Main street. He went to San Francisco Tuesday morning and experienced the horrors of the earthquake and the fiery ordeal that followed.

Compelled to stand by and witness the branch establishment of the firm burn itself out before his eyes, he then gave himself up with a calm philosophy to sight seeing. Standing on the top of Telegraph Hill, he looked down on the burning city and it seemed to dissolve as he gazed.

"I went to the Palace Hotel," said Mr. Brunswig, "but the place was so crowded that it was with difficulty that I obtained a room off the sixth floor. At 5:14 o'clock there came a tremendous shock that threw me out of bed. To me it seemed more like a strong electric shock than anything else, for I was shaken back and forth for half a minute, though it seemed to me like an hour. I had a feeling as if I was sinking into the ground. I hastily dressed and made my way to the rotunda. On every stairway men and women were likewise groping in the darkness.

PRIMA DONNAS FRANTIC.

"Both women and men were frantic. The ladies of the Conried Opera troupe were sobbing and in a state bordering on hysteria, and some of the more level-headed men sought to tranquilize them, as well as others of the women who were sadly upset.

"It was 5:45 when I left the hotel and it was quite light. I started off to see what had befallen our branch on Spear street, and on my way counted nine fires burning. These fires started so quickly that I believe they resulted from the earthquake shock disrupting the boilers in the basements and throwing the burning oil onto combustible material.

"But our branch house stood, and though fires were burning not far away, even at that early hour dynamite was being used. I hoped that we would escape by reason of our isolation. It was a vain hope, for by 10 o'clock the flames had caught and in a comparatively few moments I saw the building, with its contents crumble away in the flames. I had taken the opportunity, however, to send the books of the concern and other valuable papers to the home of a friend at Berkeley."

Mr. Brunswig made his way with difficulty to Telegraph Hill.

"The scene was weirdly grand," said Mr. Brunswig yesterday, "but also it was awful. I couldn't help thinking of Nero—only it is we that pay the fiddler," he added with grim humor.

FOOD FOR FLAMES.

"On every hand fires were raging, and one could watch and see the flames gleaming through the pall of smoke as they licked their way from building to building. It was not long after the flames burst through the roof of the Palace that it fell in, then the walls were sucked in, and the whole mass lay buried in smouldering embers. The Call building was completely gutted by the fire, but the external structure stood like a piece of delicate lacework.

"Seeking to make my way to the ferry, I had to make a detour on account of the troops, who had drawn a cordon and refused to allow anyone to pass. Men and women were wandering about in a dazed and helpless way, sobbing and wringing their hands. They aimed to cross the ferry and at least escape from the doomed territory, but the troops forbade.

"Owing to the absence of water for the boilers," said Mr. Brunswig, "the ferryboats were put out of commission, save the Berkeley, that boat having condensers. The tugs contrived to save some of the warehouse property on the front, but the wharves were wrecked and some had sunk into the water."

Market street according to Mr. Brunswig, was filled from side to side with débris, and in places the pavement had been blown out and then had subsided below the former level. The street-car tracks had lifted in such a way that the iron ran in waves, and with twists, that rendered them useless.

"Our loss," continued Mr. Brunswig, "will be about $150,000, of which amount $110,000 is covered by insurance. That sounds pretty good, but this insurance question has other phases to it."

DR. BECKETT AMONG THEM.

Dr. W. W. Beckett was one of the Los Angeles physicians who was not allowed to enter San Francisco. He saw the flames sweeping over the doomed city from the water front far up Market street.

The city was covered with a pall of blackness from the huge columns of smoke pouring from a hundred fires. From Oakland, Dr. Beckett said, it looked as if the city could not be saved from entire destruction.

WILD LOS ANGELES REPORT.

Mrs. Carl Johnson of No. 1703 West Twenty-fourth street, who went north, accompanied by her little daughter, to attend the Y.W.C.A. conference at Capitola, came on the Owl. She had been at Palo Alto for a visit.

"Last Saturday," she said, "I went to Oakland to visit friends on Twenty-seventh street, and I was there at the time of the terrible catastrophe. Two young men from the house where I was stopping went over to San Francisco yesterday and the story they brought back was heart-rending. It is reported up there that Los Angeles is burning and that a similar disaster has befallen this city. All day yesterday I worked over the long-distance telephone and telegraph wires trying to get a message to my husband. My message was filed at 7 o'clock yesterday morning at the telegraph office, and was still on the hook last night.

Mrs. Johnson's careworn face told volumes of the anxiety and suffering she has passed through. Her husband met her and his little daughter at the Arcade.

G. McLaughlin of No. 450 East Tenth street was another passenger. He was at Stockton at the time of the disaster, and says there was no damage there except cracks in the county buildings.

J. Shilling of No. 1612 West Eleventh street was at the Palace Hotel. He says every one of the guests so far as he knew was rescued. "I saw no Los Angeles people there," he said, "though I understand there were several as guests in the Palace."

Albert Davies of New York and Theodore Lacy of Santa Ana were guests at the St. James in San José. Both escaped without injury. "The walls of the room where I was were thrown in," said Davies, "but I was not injured. The St. James was totally wrecked, but no lives were lost among the guests."

F. B. Way, quartermaster on the ship Independence at Vallejo, was another passenger down on the first train. "The Independence was tremendously jarred as she lay at anchor," he says, "but no especial damage was done."

TRAINS THROUGH.

BY VALLEY AND OAKLAND.

The Southern Pacific is now working trains through to San Francisco by way of the Valley and Oakland only.

The Coast line is out of commission through the falling in of the big steel bridge just north of Pajaro, and the through service by that line, with the exception of a daily stub train local as far as Pajaro, has been annulled.

It will be a week at the earliest before the bridge can be repaired, and during that time all trains will be sent by way of the valley.

At the local headquarters yesterday, officials depended entirely upon the newspaper bulletins for news of the situation. They have been from the first and still are, cut off from through wires. Late yesterday afternoon a wire began working from Oakland, but broke short off in the middle of the first dispatch.

The only means of communication with headquarters has been occasionally by telephone, which has been working spasmodically.

North-bound traffic lightened appreciably yesterday, the rush of anxious ones having been taken care of the day before. No tickets are sold nor baggage checked farther than Oakland.

South-bound the regular trains are reported running on time, and the trains from the East yesterday arrived practically on time.

General Superintendent R. H. Ingram is speeding northward on a light special train from Arizona, where he has been for the past week on an inspection trip. He is expected to arrive today, and will personally direct the movement of trains and supplies from this end.

A BUSINESS POINT OF VIEW.

Bankers and Merchants on the Situation.

San Francisco's Institutions Very Strong.

Rich Crockers Will Suffer Heavy Losses.

The interest felt in Los Angeles regarding the terrible calamity in San Francisco increases in intensity as the hours pass by. The intertwined interests of the two cities are so many and so great that the distress of mind suffered by the San Francisco people and the loss of their property is felt here almost as if it were a home affair. This is true of the damage done in other parts of the district around the bay and of the individual suffering being experienced at all points.

Take, for example, Stanford University. It is said that about one-half of all the hundreds of pupils in that institution are from various parts of Southern California. Several hundred are said to have had their homes in Los Angeles. No word of any definite character has been received from any one of these young men and young women who had their lodgings in the Stanford buildings, nearly all of which are more or less wrecked. It is known that several pupils there have suffered injury. At least so the indefinite and meager reports that reach here state.

The houses in San Francisco with branches in Los Angeles, many of which were mentioned in The Times of yesterday morning, established wire communication with the Los Angeles houses from Oakland. In a general way, the tenor of the advices from the troubled region was that the warehouses and factories had been destroyed and all stocks of goods there wiped out of existence. They instructed the Los Angeles houses as a rule to proceed to send liberal orders to eastern points of supplies and get in ample stocks in this city with all possible dispatch and prepare to take care of the business of the parent houses all up through the San Joaquin Valley.

The banks here took particular interest in the condition of affairs. The feeling is one of buoyant confidence that, terrible as the disaster is and enormous as are the losses, the embarrassment and difficulties will be short lived. The bankers call emphatic attention to the fact that Los Angeles banks are in an exceptionally strong position. Of course, no strain can come upon the local financial institutions that they are unable to bear. That is not the cause of rejoicing that their strength is so great. It is that from here help may be sent to San Francisco, should any be called for. This latter eventuality is not expected. The banks of San Francisco have been managed very much on the same conservative system as those in Los Angeles. They are exceedingly well supplied with funds, and in a position to stand almost any strain. The banks in that city have lost almost nothing. The wealth of the banks is as great today as it was last Monday, with one or two exceptions of so insignificant an amount compared with their resources that they will be able not merely to meet every local obligation, but to deal in a most generous manner in helping property owners to reestablish their buildings and business. San Francisco banks had very large credits at the great central cities of the East. The United States Treasury came in a most timely manner to help out the banks in San Francisco to meet the calls likely to be made upon them. For instance, a San Francisco bank having heavy credits in New York wished to have these transferred to San Francisco. The sub-treasury of the United States in New York received the amount from the New York correspondent and wired to the sub-treasury in San Francisco to pay the whole sum over in gold coin on demand to the San Francisco bank. The sub-treasury put $10,000,000 to the credit of the banks in San Francisco.

Another fact which the business men of Los Angeles commented upon with great satisfaction was the attitude assumed by the insurance companies in saying that they had no intention of haggling about the cause of the loss on given pieces of property, as to whether it was to be laid to the account of the earthquake or to that of fire. The insurance companies announced that they would make no discrimination, but pay their losses. Now it must not be supposed that all the insurance companies will take this step. In fact, some of them will not be able to do so. The amount of risks carried in San Francisco by all the insurance companies, local, national and foreign, probably amounts to something like $3,000,000,000. Some of these insurance companies will hardly be able to quite meet all their obligations, but most of them will be able to do so. The financial men here all look to the pouring into San Francisco of enormous sums of money from the insurance companies and other sources to rebuild destroyed structures.

A San Francisco business man, George B. Sperry, of the great milling company of Stockton, whose father established the first flour mill in the State, passed through Los Angeles yesterday on his way home to his family, whose residence is on Pacific Heights in San Francisco. He had been sojourning at Avalon and other points in Southern California for some three weeks past for the benefit of his health. He stated yesterday that he had read with great care all the dispatches from San Francisco that appeared in The Times.

He says the Crockers individually and the great Crocker estate will suffer great losses. The Crocker-Woolworth banking building on the gore on Montgomery, Market and Post streets is perhaps the most valuable piece of property of all, with the possible exception of the St. Francis Hotel. The bank building on the gore is owned by the Crocker estate; the St. Francis Hotel building is owned by the heirs of the late Col. Fred Crocker. The estate also owns the building on Bush street, near Sansome occupied by H. S. Crocker & Co., stationers and printers. They also own a magnificent structure occupied by H. L. Sloane & Co., carpet dealers, and that occupied by Shreve, the great jewelry firm of San Francisco. According to the reports received here, all these magnificent properties are heaps of ruin. While the loss is of immense magnitude, fortunately for the losers they are all people of immense wealth, and being old-time Californians, descendants of one of the great builders of the Central and Southern Pacific railroads, they are sure to go to work promptly and vigorously to rebuild their properties.

was paid for this single four-page advertisement of "Jap-a-lac" in this issue of the Delineator.

3 OTHER advertisers wanted the same privilege. They knew that such an advertisement,—even though its price is the highest in all the history of advertising,—is cheap at the price.

THE DELINEATOR for May is on the stands to-day, "ready for your reading." No other magazine brings you such fresh, authentic and practical news of coming fashions, or gives you illustrations that tell their story so clearly and helpfully. The highest-salaried fashion artists in the world worked on the preparation of this issue of THE DELINEATOR. The fiction; the continued stories; the papers by experts in Womanly Arts; the pages for Children, and the articles on the Sane, Sound View of the Pure Food Question—all combine to make THE DELINEATOR for MAY fulfil in the highest degree the ideal of "the magazine of greatest usefulness and greatest interest to woman." But nowadays the reading pages cannot alone satisfy.

Practical women demand the news of wise buying, in the advertising columns of their magazine. THE DELINEATOR serves this demand of the purse holder, with a thoroughness and care unequaled by any other magazine. Manufacturers and retail merchants alike esteem the readers of THE DELINEATOR more highly, and (thanks to the scrupulous care with which the news of buying is edited), readers esteem DELINEATOR Advertisers more highly than those of any other magazine

SLEEPLESS DRIVER TAKES DITCH.

AUTOMOBILE IS WRECKED IN CASITAS PASS.

Party of People Bound From Los Angeles for the El Pizmo Beach Races Sunday Has Hard Trip Along Road Damaged Supposedly By Earthquake.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An automobile party of five cars bound for the Pizmo Beach races next Sunday, reached here late tonight very tired and dusty after a hard trip through Casitas Pass.

The fords are very deep and a big landslide, probably from an earthquake, made it necessary to let the cars down a 65 per cent. grade with ropes and tackle.

In the party are Charles R. Twitchell, Thomas S. Wadsworth, wife and daughter Charles H. Chase, H. Cain, Charles Fuller Gates, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hoyes and son, Mrs. H. D. Single, Henry T. Hazard, Harold Stone, F. Berne, Clarence Smith and T. Eaton. They leave early tomorrow for Pismo Beach and may go on to San Francisco.

Mr. Norton, a mining engineer of Los Angeles, who had fears about his son in San Francisco, engaged one of Arens's autos to go to San Francisco. Early this morning the car rolled down the bank on the west grade of Casitas Pass. Norton and the driver had a narrow escape, and were unconscious for some time. Norton rushed to the train. The driver and the car stayed at the place of the accident. The car is still in the ditch wrecked. The driver rode to Santa Barbara tonight with the El Pizmo party. He said he had had no sleep for fifty-four hours.

NOT BIG AT BRAWLEY.

Damage Done By Earthquake Is Only Slight—Some Buildings Injured.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BRAWLEY, April 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The earthquake here yesterday did only slight damage and there was nothing about it to warrant the sensational reports that have been sent out magnifying it greatly. Five or six small buildings were slightly injured, but none of them was razed or even collapsed by the tremor. It caused only ordinary alarm.

SCARED SINNER'S WAIL.

Here's a Human Being Who Never Had Seen a Live City, Now Kicking About It!

Elmer E. Adams of Fergus Falls, Minn., is scared. He has seen a live city—his first. He hates to be awakened.

He has written from Los Angeles back to the Swede center; and the Minneapolis Journal of recent date has published under black headlines a frightened scream from him relative to the sights and scenes that he sees in Los Angeles.

The burden of his woe seems to be that they keep the light lit at night, and the Los Angeles people do not go to bed when the sun goes down, but actually walk about on the streets. He says they don't do this in Minneapolis. They could not. The policemen would have to go round and thaw out their frozen forms.

"I notice that the Minneapolis real estate men returning from Los Angeles are anxious to see a real estate movement in the Flour City, similar to the one now at its height here," writes Mr. Adams.

"It might be a good thing for the real estate men, but I don't believe it would for anyone else and certainly not for the permanent prosperity of Minneapolis."

Whereupon he straightway proceeds to prove directly the opposite of his statement:

"In Los Angeles the whole atmosphere is surcharged with real estate. Everybody is in the game, bankers, lawyers, merchants, clerks, motormen and milliners. In short, no one works but mother, and she has got a lot or two, either here or at one of the beaches.

"I believe that one-fourth of the dealing is done by women. They have all made money, and put it back in, at little higher prices and in little larger deals. It reminds me not a little of a bull movement in wheat, when everyone gets the fever. Provision is made even for the smallest speculator. You can buy a lot for a dollar down and a dollar a month. It savors of the buckstahop, and if the habitues of those institutions, who never raise a bushel of wheat or grind a barrel of flour, enrich the community, I have never been able to discover it.

"There is a 'For Sale' sign on every house and a 'Furnished Room' sign in almost every window. Everyone has property which he does not want and can't pay for unless he can sell it before the next payment comes due."

He says the prices can't keep up because they are higher than in cities of the same size in the East; then he proceeds to show that this is a city entirely of different make-up than eastern cities of like size.

He says if the building should stop in Los Angeles, there would be nothing left but the chicken business. Then he shows in the very next gasp that he doesn't really mean it:

"The one great asset, possessed by no other city in the country in such a marked degree, is the tourist and the retired business man, who lives here in idleness and quiet, drawing his income from elsewhere. So long as the country is prosperous, the tourist will come and spend as much money in Los Angeles during his stay as the man who works in the sawmill will pend in Minneapolis in a year. I doubt if there is a village or city of 1000 inhabitants in the Northern States but what has sent one or more tourists here this winter, and they are naturally of the well-to-do, if not of the wealthy class."

He says we are living on artificial respiration.

But what scares this expert from Fergus Falls, where the "accommodation train" stops on flag signal, is the crowds in the streets. He says it's different in Fergus Falls and Minneapolis:

"Los Angeles differs from any other city in the country in the great crowds on the streets. In Minneapolis people are busy in the day and they are in their homes at night. Los Angeles has 50,000 transients who have nothing to do but loiter.

"They fill the streets and street cars during the day, and as most of the 500 hotels and apartment-houses are in this downtown district, the tourist is downtown instead of in the Eighth Ward at night.

"There are four streets which are about like Nicollet avenue in character, and every night they seem like Nicollet during State Fair week. Not only do the bright lights and warm weather invite the inhabitants to stroll, but 90 per cent. of the transients at least live in a combination kitchen, dining-room and parlor, with the universal and ever-present folding bed, and there is no reason why he should remain inside except to sleep, unless it rains.

"Los Angeles has got a patent on this street promenading business. In fact, I have tried to find some ideas which might be grafted on to the Northwest, but conditions are so different that they won't work. They even make ice in a different manner from what we do in Minnesota."

Even if they haven't folding beds yet in Fergus Falls, Elmer shouldn't have allowed himself to get so wrought up about it. They may learn about them by and by.

Layman's Answer.

On one occasion when ex-Congressman John R. Thayer was counsel for the defense in the Central District Court he was cross-examining a witness in the case of the Worcester and Suburban Street Railway ticket forgery. The witness, who was a conductor on the road, had been arrested for forging tickets.

A man named Jensen was employed in the car barn of the road. He was not particularly bright, either in appearance or speech, and the conductor had attempted to show that Jensen was the originator of the scheme for forging the tickets.

Thayer asked the witness, by way of ridicule, if he did not believe Jensen showed lack of capacity for putting up such a job on the road, and closed his cross-examination by saying: "Doesn't he look like a bright man?"

The conductor's reply, "He must be; he hired a bright lawyer," convulsed the attorneys and court so that Thayer did not pursue the examination further.—[Boston Herald.

Tyranny Privilege.

Perhaps the most ingenious form of the tyranny of the past over the future consists in the grant of special privileges to favored individuals or corporations. Such grants are like cancers eating at the vitals of the body politic. They corrupt those who give and those who receive them. They are contrary to all the principles of republican government and violate every rule of ethics. It is sufficient for each generation to control its own affairs wisely. The present must not exist in servile subjection to the past, nor must it seek to tyrannise over the future. What was wise a century ago may not be wise now; what is wise now will probably be foolish in a hundred years. The meanest of all dishonesty is that which tries to rob the future of its independence. The meanest of all servility is that which grovels in blind subjection to the past.—[Portland Oregonian.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

There was an absolute dirth of any movement whatever at the produce market yesterday. The daily morning calls of the exchange have been abandoned for the remainder of the week in sympathy with the earthquake sufferers of San Francisco. At a special meeting of the members of the Produce Exchange of Los Angeles, held yesterday morning, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, that we, the members and officers of the Produce Exchange of Los Angeles, tender our heartfelt sympathy to you and the afflicted people of San Francisco and vicinity, in the appalling calamity that has overtaken you.

Resolved, that, as a sister organization, we offer you all assistance within our power that may be desired.

Resolved, that as a further manifestation of our sympathy and sorrow and desire to alleviate the terrible suffering as much as lies within our power, we herewith transmit to you our subscriptions, amounting to $1500, which you will please hand to the proper authorities. Signed, Members of the Produce Exchange.

The exchange in itself headed the list with a donation of $300, and is preparing to send a carload of provisions to the stricken city as soon as possible.

While traffic was dull in the city market, jobbers of produce were busy donating to the fund for the stricken market-men in the North; by noon yesterday $1000 had been collected in the city market from the fruit and vegetable dealers, swelling the fund from the Wholesale Producers to $2500.

Nothing new came to the surface in either the egg or the butter markets. Receipts of eggs for the day were 529 cases, and 55,444 pounds of butter arrived. There was absolutely no discussion as to market conditions yesterday, and it will be several days before the regular routine buying and selling begins again. Dealers refused to make forecasts as to whether the northern situation will cause prices to stiffen here.

The various kinds of fruits and vegetables offered no discussion worth mentioning. Peas were weaker, at 2@2½; asparagus was scarce on account of the northern disaster. Strawberries sold at 60@8 cents. Small and large fish were plentiful.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 529 cases; butter, 55,444 lbs.; cheese, local, 2530 lbs.; potatoes, 861 sacks; onions, none; sacks, beans, none; sweet potatoes, none.

FUNDS FOR AMADA'S FAMILY.

Friends of Murdered Man Ask Contributions from Italians—No Clew to Assassins.

Many Italians living in this city and vicinity have subscribed to a fund which is being raised to relieve the family of Faro Amada, who was murdered Tuesday night by three negroes. This proves conclusively, the police say, that there is no mafia mystery in the case. The money also is to be used in defraying the expenses of the funeral of the murdered man.

Detectives who are working on the case have failed to discover any clew as to the identity of the murderers who shot and mortally wounded Amada, and wounded Luke Sebello, as they were on their way to their homes.

The negroes shot the two men and then ran, disappearing in the darkness. Amada died in a few hours in the Receiving Hospital, but Sebello will recover. The family of the murdered man was left almost destitute, but they will be cared for by the charitable ones of their own race. An inquest will be held over the remains of Amada today.

DEMOCRATS POSTPONE.

Members of the State, County and City Central Committees of the Democratic party met in joint session Wednesday at Elks' Hall. In view of the catastrophe at San Francisco, it was decided by each organization to adjourn at the call of its respective chairman. The banquet which was to have been held in the evening also was abandoned.

PARALYSIS ON PLAYHOUSES.

Striking Diminution in Theater Crowds.

Tragedy of North Stills Laughter Here.

No Grand Opera in Sight This Season.

One line of business in Los Angeles has suffered an actual paralytic stroke from the great disaster in San Francisco. This is the theatrical circle, running up Main street, and over onto Spring and Broadway.

Nobody wants to go to the theater now. Far-away humors and inane frivolities sound as jarring as a joke at a funeral.

Even the patronage of the Orpheum has dropped away—and this is the surest sign of calamity. One night it rained so hard—not many weeks ago—that all the cars were stopped, and the other theaters kept open for the mere formality of the thing. Yet the Orpheum was full to the last row. Last night, a sad-faced quota sat down in front, listening to the half-hearted orchestra and smiling abstractedly as the line of comedians vied with each other in being tragic.

"Nobody wants to see a show this week—none of us feels that way," sighed Henry Sonnenberg, as he sat in the box-office before his unusually small pile of dollars and halves and quarters, thinking the while of relatives in the city of doom.

At the Belasco theater the same condition prevailed, as indeed it did the night before, and George Barnum's captivating impersonation of "The Dictator" was lost on row after row of empty chairs. Holes in the rows that were filled told where tickets already purchased had been quietly sacrificed.

FAINTING SPELLS

Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the Remedy Which Actually Makes New Blood.

Anæmia makes the patient short of breath so that there is often a sense of suffocation, sometimes there is a cough and the sufferer seems to be going into consumption, at others there is a murmur of the heart and heart disease is feared. In the following case severe fainting spells were an alarming symptom resulting from "too little blood."

Mrs. George Forrester, of 7 Curtis street, Watertown, N.Y., says: "Some time ago I took a heavy cold and it left me in a very weak condition. I became worse and worse until finally I had anæmia. I lost flesh and appetite, had no color and was subject to fainting spells. Sometimes they would attack me suddenly and I would fall to the floor with hardly any warning.

"I had one of our best physicians, but after he had been attending me about a month without any improvement in my condition, I decided to see what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills would do.

"The pills were well known to me for, about two years before, members of my family had taken them with the best results. I soon found that the pills were just what I needed for I soon began to notice an improvement. After I had taken them a while longer I was entirely cured, and we all believe in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and recommend them highly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They do that one thing and they do it well. Impoverished blood is deficient in red corpuscles. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills increase the number of these red corpuscles and in this way send health and strength to every tissue.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Before retiring

the children—and the grown-ups—should use Sanitol Tooth Powder.

It will produce perfect cleanliness of the teeth—and insure a pleasant feeling in the mouth next morning.

It is important that a child learn to use Sanitol regularly because good second teeth depend on sound, clean first teeth.

All children learn to enjoy Sanitol.

COLDS, IF ONLY LIGHT, Are Dangerous Things.

Medical authorities of every land state positively that Catarrh—Bronchitis—Asthma—Croup and even Consumption are the results of Colds—even a little cold should have prompt attention. It cannot be too carefully avoided, nor too quickly cured.

ACKER'S ENGLISH REMEDY FOR THE LUNGS

"Acker's English Remedy is a thousand times better than anything else on earth for coughs and colds. Some time ago I caught a slight cold and kept getting worse—Tried Rock and Rye and many medicines—Then I tried Acker's English Remedy for the Lungs—One bottle did the business for me—knocked that cold and cough out completely—and it has never come back again." Chris Humble, Pocatello, Idaho.

Acker's English Remedy for the Lungs is beyond question a wonderful cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, croup, asthma, catarrh, bronchitis and other throat and lung troubles. It goes directly to the sore part and at once tones up the lungs.

In buying Acker's English Remedy for the Lungs you do so with a guarantee that it will do as claimed or your money will be returned to you.

Ask for Acker's English Remedy for the Lungs. All druggists, 25c, 50c, $1.00.

Vigorets.

A tiny, chocolate coated tonic laxative tablet, that gives VIGOR and health to the STOMACH, LIVER and BOWELS, thereby curing—

Sick Headaches,	Biliousness,
Sallow Complexion,	Torpid Liver,
Dyspepsia,	Jaundice,
Indigestion,	Heartburn,
Loss of Appetite,	Pimples,
Sour Stomach,	Dizziness,
Nausea.	Foul Breath.

Take only one "VIGORET" at bed time, and they will move the bowels gently, yet thoroughly, each day and permanently cure—

Chronic Constipation

They cool, cleanse and purify the blood and are sold by all druggists in 25c packages (50 tablets) and 10c trial size (15 tablets.)

cost $150,000. Inasmuch as the district is embraced within the Gadsden purchase, the hotel appropriately will be named "The Gadsden."

SCRIPTURAL PROPHECY.

Pasadena Preacher Will Endeavor to Show That Bible Foretells Earthquakes.

PASADENA, April 19.—"A great earthquake foretold in the Bible" will be the subject of a sermon Friday evening by William Ward Simpson, at No. 43 West Colorado street.

Mr. Simpson will speak Sunday evening on "The Great Struggle Between Capital and Labor, and the Outcome as Foretold in the Bible."
